The Association of Clubs,

If enthusiasm counts for anything in a political campaign, the recent convention of young democrats of every State and Territory in the exert a powerful influence in the

It was not a convention of politiclans, but young men fresh from the people, who represented the views of the people. The states of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, New York and Ohio, sent in the largest delegations; Pernsylvania leading with 90 different clubs, some of which were represented by as many as five delegates. The object In view in the formation of the Association was not to act in any way independently of the regular organized democracy, but was a purely voluntary effort to draw together more especially the young men of every state, so that they may not with the unifound executive committee, and be an adjunct. of the regular party organization. The writer accompanied by N. B. Dial Esq happened to be on a visit north, and after spending ing journey to New York, Por this we were amply repaid, for in-Arp recently promulgated, that the brains, entire and wealth of the publicans who still hold positions, delegates represented the social as hard to find anywhere, a more cultured, refined intelligent and eduented body of men. Although showing the short-comings of the peared to be well an on the great issues of the day, and too, the history of the party from its birth. The convention was called to orover 800 delegates being present at and it is needless to say that like gans brought forth such deafening nearly 75 strong. shouts as to drown oven a half dozen brass bands. These were Sentors Beck, of Kentucky; Call, of Florida; Faulkner and Kenna, of West Virginia: Congressmen Breckinridge, of Kentucky; Scott, of Pennsylvania; Wilson, of West Virginia; Townshend and Springer, of Illinois, Col Jno R. Fellons of New York occupied a box Lamediately above the portrait of Cleveland and Thurman, and his entrance was the signal for a fresh outburst of applause,

Hon, Wm. E. Russell of Massachusetts, who will be the next Governor of that state if the Democrats can elect him, was the temporary chairman and called the meeting to order. After a stirring speech, the work of organizing continued.

The second session was given to hearing reports of committees reading resolutions and the like, interspersed with some eloquent speeches. The name of Grover Cleveland and Allen G. Thurman was always received with the greatest enthusiasm, and when "three cheers for Mrs Cleveland" was offered, the shorting was on a still higher key. A number of speeches on the tariff were also delivered, which were all well received, but the next general outburst followed the introduction of R. E. Jones, a delegate from the National Negro Democratic League of Ohio, who began as follows: "Looking over this convention I see the German, the negro, the Irishman, the Englishman and I see everybody here-except the Chinaman," This brough prolonged cheering and cries of "you'r right," Jones made a first-rate democratic speech in which he gave the assurance that his race in the North as in the South, have felt the heel of to the membership of the various the oppressor and are coming to Democratic clubs. know that the democratic party is the party of good government and in the midst of a campaign and

In Now York, whether in the crowded throughfares, trains, hotels or cafe - wherever an opportunity presented and an object for an interview, there was the newspaper man. It so happened however that fully eight out of ten men whom we were able to draw out on politics, inclined to the Republicans. Ofcourse they abused the President, denounced ifest justice of the proposition will his civil service policy, and his veto of pension bills. He and his party were charged as free-traders-opposed to the growing industries which had placed this country so far in advance of all others. The tariff was the principle subject when polities was mentioned and several partisans gave it as their opinion that the campaign would be free of abuse and would be fought on a higher plane than those of four and eight years ago. It is their bejief also that in New York state many who had voted with the Republicans would now be with the Democrats, and vice versa. In Washington the belief is general that Cleveland and Thurman will be elected. But to many of the employees of the government, the name of "Grover" does not stir patriotic emotions. They do not relish his strict adherance to civil service law. The fact is plain to every one that many of the 10,000 Rethe public buildings, notably the Bureau of Engraving, even the guides who show visitors through the department are offensive partisan Republicans. No sooner had the writer entered this building than the guide began the work of party in power and the superior excellence of the Republicans. It is said that of the 2000 employees in this department, scarcely a dozen are democrats. It is hoped that the der and an appropriate prayer of Administration will do better next fered by Dr. Wightman, who by term. South Carolina has a goodly the way is a South Carolinian. Stand by the Primary.

A county convention will be held date. In view of this division of sentiment and the manifest desire to the voters to east their ballots directly for Representatives, it is hoped that the coming county convention will stand squarely by the primary mode. If anything may be taken as certain it is that the sentiment of Laurens is in this direction, Heretoforo the friends of all the candidates have clamored for the primary, and now it should be ordered. No Congressional contest was ever conducted more fairly and impartially; no three men ever entered a race with cleaner hands, backed by superior ability, and while nothing can be said in disparagement of the claims of any candidates, yet individual voters have their preference and it is right and proper and in full accordance with sound democracy that these individual voters should express their preference. The best way to do this is by a primary elec-

The Basis of Representation.

In the township meeting on Saturday Mr Dial introduced a resolution favoring an apportionment of the representation in the county Democratic Conventions according

Inasmuch as this county is now thoroughly organized, a change so It was noted that the black men radical as the basis of representawho attended this Association pre- tion in conventions, at this particuferred to call themselves "negroes," lar jucture, would be opposed by and emphasized that term, but in THE ADVERTISER, without strong his speech, delegate Jones prefer- grounds therefor. Moreover, is we propose to give any weight whatever to the organge law of the party in this state, each county should heed Article V of the Constitution, which says:

"County Democratic Conventions shall be composed of delegates elected by the several local clubs -one delegate for every club, and an ad-76 campaign, it was but natural ditional delegates for every twentythat the writer should catch on to five (25) enrolled members-with the right to each County Convention to enlarge or diminish the representations according to circumstances."

From this it is evident that Laurens and Union, the only counties in the state which base representation on townships rather than Club membership, are clearly violating the constitution of the state democracy. We believe that when this matter is fully understood and a in the United States. The society is to have new constitution is made, the manbe appreciated.

Mt. Bethel club.

Sullivan Township will be remembered as the stronghold of Tillmanism in Laurens. A Farmers club which has varied in size from a dozen to sixty, and sixty to a dozen, has tackled the gravest questions of state polity and disposed of them with a facility that would put to shame all ancient or modern legislative assemblies. This club has had matters much its own way. Tillman, Norris & Co., was its platform; Tillman Governor, Norris Ring-master, and Company-a few a few office holders, and many office seekers. Now and then at the crack of the ring-mater's whip the procession would start, following always at the heels of the elephant. The band begins to play, and the company to dance, the louder the music the more fantastic the dance. All hands around! And the entertainment is brought to a close, with the simple request that the Laurensville Herald, Newberry Observer and Greenville News publish an account of the performance.

Now it is the opinion of "the other little paper," that the Mt. Bethel Farmers Club has made mistakes,

First it has followed unworthy leaders, and these leaders have had unworthy followers. The club has some good, true men, which cannot bedenied. Some have joined with the honest desire to benefit themselves, and farmers generally; but others from totally different motives. It is a good and safe plan for farmers clubs in South Carolina to draw the line at democracy.

Another mistake was in supposidg that this club possessed all the The Pennsylvania Packet, in 1781. wisdom, patriotism and ability of the township, or that the 400 other sturdy democrats were obliged to dance to their piping.

Geological Effects of Ice.

The geological effects of ice seem to have been greatly exaggerated. From personal study of living glaciers in Norway, and similar experiences by others, Professor J. W.
