

Cupid at Clinton.

There is little to report besides the marrying of so many of the young ladies of Clinton, than whom is claimed by a neighboring city, none are more attractive.

The latest is that of Miss Lana Copeland, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Copeland, and our popular druggist, Dr. J. H. Young. The parlor and hall were beautifully decorated, with white and yellow chrysanthemums appearing in great profusion.

At the first strains of the wedding march, beautifully rendered by Mrs. George Copeland, entered two lovely little girls, Essie and Lola Young, bearing the white ribbon, through which the party was to pass.

Then came the bridesmaids, Miss Annie Copeland, of Clinton and Miss Lula Mosley, of Prosperity, wearing lovely gowns of white organdie, over yellow, and carrying yellow chrysanthemums. Then followed Mr. H. A. Copeland, of Newberry, brother of the bride. Next came the little flower girls, Evie Shands and Amy Copeland, veritable little fairies in frocks of dainty organdie. Leaning on the arm of the handsome groom, entered the bride, wearing a lovely creation of white organdie, satin and lace, carrying a bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Soft lights and blending of chrysanthemums in the background was indeed a beautiful scene, which has taken place this season.

Dr. W. P. Jacobs performed the ceremony in a style peculiar to himself, beautifully and impressively. It is needless to speak of the bride, not only at home, but wherever known, by her lovely character, she has won friends.

The presents were numerous and beautiful. About eighty guests were present at the wedding and enjoyed the reception, which followed the ceremony.

Among the guests were Mrs. H. C. Mosley, Miss Lena Mosley, Misses Bessie and Della Bowers and Dr. Kibler, of Prosperity, Miss Lizzie Copeland, of Newberry, Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Albright, of Laurens and Miss Marie Smith, of Glenn Springs.

Mr. J. W. Copeland, Jr., not willing to wait the return of his fiancé, left on Saturday's vestibule for Columbia, Ga., and to the surprise and pleasure of all parties brought back his lovely bride, Miss Matiel Parrott. They are at home to their friends at the residence of the bride's father, on Main Street, Rev. J. B. Parrott.

Miss Claudia Irby has returned home after spending some time in town, visiting friends and relatives.

CROSS HILL WEDDINGS.
McGowan—Young.

On Wednesday, the 20th inst., Miss Mary McGowan was married to Mr. George Duckett Young at the Presbyterian church, Cross Hill.

The church was beautifully decorated with many leaves, try and chrysanthemums. As the clock pointed to half past twelve, the well-known strains of "Take me," wedding march rendered by Miss Aileen Miller announced the approach of the bridal party.

The doors were thrown open and in came Wilma Ramey and Belle Madden, the ribbon girls; then came the candle girls, Lucia Ellis and Katie Austin; then the ushers, Jim Austin, Joe Carter, Horace McSwain and John McGowan—each conducting his part gracefully.

Then came the bride upon the arm of her sister, Kattie, and the groom with his brother Foy, meeting in front of a lovely arch of chrysanthemums, where stood Rev. William Jacobs, of the Thornwell epiphany. The bride wore a stylish dress of broad white blue silk and applique, carried in her hand a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Miss Mary is a general favorite in town and is a bright and interesting young woman. Mr. Young is one of Greenwood's best planters and progressive young men.

Mr. and Mrs. Young received many useful and costly presents. They will make their home near Ninety Six, the home of the groom.

Mr. J. D. Beeks and Miss Willie Wardlaw were married Thursday at Abbeville and came to Cross Hill the same day. They will make Cross Hill their home.
