LAURENS, S. C., Aug. 7, 1901.

The Shamrock Number 2 is on the sea, pulling her way to New York in the hope of carrying the famous cup to Britain. Sir Thomas Lipton owner of the Yacht making the contest, and this is his second venture. He has and this is his second venture. He has been a very successful business man, starting a poor lad, establishing many tea shops, growing rich, then in favor with the Queen, who knighted him, and now he is a great favorite of King Edward, and especially of the good and popular Queen. He will have a tough time in beating the Yankee Yachtmen and we will all have fun while the race is on, and watching the outcome. There and we will all have fun while the race is on, and watching the outcome. There is no money in it and the fellows who contest for the possession of the little cup have only the pride of conquest and the pleasure of spending their surplus change in making the contest. A million or so will go on either side in making the race. The first Yacht of which we have any acquisit was the good ship. we have any account was the good ship "Argo," which sailed from Greece about Thirty-five Hundred years back to Colchis, the object of the voyage to recover the Golden Fleece. The little ship was manned by some fort, Greek winces and converged the voyage to recover the Golden Fleece. princes, and commanded by one Jason White the Golden Fieece was nominally the prize which inspired the long voyage and dangerous adventure, there were about a dozen pretty princesses at bottom of the business, whom the royal boys expected to capture and bring home. And the prizes were in-finitely to be preferred to the insignificent little cup. They had the assistance of Medea, the King's daughter, and by that assistance Jason killed the dragon that guarded the Fleece, performed other wonderful and miraculous feats and finally escaped the country carrying with him the Golden treasure and the beautiful Princess. But if Lipton beats the Yankees and carries home the cup, it must be with the assistance of magic and a second Medea.

The Exposition.

Here is what State Commissioner, A W. Love, has to say to the News and Courier, of what the counties are doing. We trust that the Laurens Commissioners are wide awake locking to a fair exhibit from the best county in the State. The three gentlemen in charge are hustlers: "To name the counties taking the greatest interest in this work necessi tates my naming all the counties I have visited to avoid any unfair inference to the counties I have not visited. Greenwood, Fairfield, Orangeburg, George-town, Lexington, Oconee and Chester have already gone to work collecting exhibits and are very much interested in the work. Spartanburg, Pickens, Aiken, Colleton, Cherokee, Anderson, Abbeville, Bamberg and Barnwell are organizing and will have good exhibits. York, Greenville, Hampton and Beaufort have not done anything yet, but they hope to make an exhibit if they can get their citizens sufficiently interested.

To Be Congratulated.

bas proved a satisfactory and profita-ble institution. Last year we did $2,750,000 worth of business at a net ofit of $561,000 to the State in round umbers. While there will be some opposition to it, the dispensary has commended itself to our people from every standpoint. Out of 124 members of the Legislature only 15 are ardrunkenness appreciably, broken up bar room loafing and provides unadulterated drinks for the people. We do not sell liquors to any one who exhibits any evidence of having been drinking or who is known to be a drunkard. A man of moderate habits in that line can get half a pint of whiskey once in twenty-four hours. We do not sell less than half a pint or more than four and even-eighths gallons at a time, the latter limit to except the Government tax on five gallons or more. We sell beer privileges where the sale is limited to a pint to a person and no treating is permitted. It is the treating custom that is so prolific of intoxication and breeds the bar room loafer and dead beat. We buy considerable whiskey in Cincinnati and Kentucky, as well as all over the country. We print his letter in this issue-the gist of which is a glimpse into the mists and clouds of the future—a prophecy as to how things may go—and it is a little like guessing at the cotton crop. We agree with him only so far as that he makes the point that the future is uncertain. There is in the article a certain dash of Morcutio—"a curse upon both your houses," and this is certainly justifiable looking at the history of the resent terms of the resent terms. tory of the recent past.

The Cosmopolitan for August reveals the late Grant Allen in a new light— that of a keen and clever satirist of that of a keen and clever satirist of society, not only in England, but in the world at large. The Cosmopolitan, immediately on his death, secured from his son all his papers, and the clever allegory—"The Temple of Fate"—in the August number, is one of those selected. Like "The British Aristocracy" in the April Cosmopolitan, the present article impresses itself on the reader with a direct fearlessness which is a new quality in the author's work. If new quality in the author's work. If it is true that all the world loves a lover, then Edgar Saltus's clever, epigram-matic story of the princes who have relinquished thrones, position, wealth—everything—to marry the women they loved, should indeed be popular.

WHO IS A DEMOCRAT?

Senator Tillman's Position in 1896 is Recalled.

The action of Senator Tillman in demanding through a resolution passed by the State Democratic Executive Committee Senator McLaurin's resignation will not hurt Senator McLaurin or the Democratic party. It is possible that Senator McLaurin is now in ble that Senator McLaurin is now in the hands of the political funeral di-rectors and that the federal offices his friends are getting are the "funeral baked meats." It is also possible that Senator McLaurin may be very much alive politically before many months but the less dead to democracy. After all, the cotton crops and the cotton mills may prosper with or without McLaurin. On the other hand, Till-McLaurin. On the other hand, Till man is a necessity, a painful necessity He comes high but we must have him. Senator Tillman's blow on McLaurin Senator Tillman's blow on McLaurin landed the other night recalls some events and stimulates some reflections. There are two kinds of democrats. One believes that Democracy is a creed formed in the course of a century by Jefferson, Jackson and their successors. He sticks to it regardless of the platforms of latter day conventions.

cratic principle, an essential, inevita-ble principle and that a platform with-out it was not democratic. Therefore he adopted in that convention, for he was the convention, just as he is now the state executive committee, the "16 to I or bust" resolution, under which the delegates to the National Convention were to bolt unless "16 to 1" were placed in the national platform. The late Senator Irby who was a consistent and strict party man, who believed in fealty to party organization with all his soul, strenuo isly opposed the threa-tened bolt made by Tillman but was "snowed under" in the convention, Irby in that convention rang his own political bright is a dozent political knell in a clarion appeal for loyalty to the national party organization and coupled with it defiance and denunciation of the treachery embodied in the threat of Tillman to desert the party unless it agreed with him. That was one picture.

That is another picture. Meanwhile, the Ohio democrats have held a state convention in which they snubbed and insulted Bryan and ignored free silver, and their action is universally conceded as forshadowing a complete sumersault on the part of the national democracy and a return to a democracy which is at least as place to the views which is at least as close to the views of McLaurin as to those of Tillman. Now two thirds of the people of Lau-rens county know that Senator Tillman is an honest man, who puts principle far above party, who will not follow his party if it turns its back on principle-just as he proclaimed in that May con vention of 1896. There is no predict-ing what the Democratic party will favor in its next platform but knowing the rugged and incorruptible honesty the rugged and incorruptible honesty of Senator Tillman, we can safely predict, in fact we know, that he will stand sturdily by the Kansas City platform of 1900, including free silver at 16 to 1, anti-imperialism, Bryanism and so on, party or no party. The future course of the democracy even Senator Tillman will concede is a matter of doubt but the course of Senator Tillman himself is as fixed and certain as the pointing of the needle to the pole. Who then can say that the democracy of South Carolina, adhering to the national democracy, will not be compelled to hurl Tillman over the breastworks even as McLaurin now the breastworks even as McLaurin now has been hurled? Who then in South Carolina at this time when the national democracy is unsettled and undefined in its attitude and ignorant of its own lature is competent to pass on the par y qualifications of any man? Not un til the National convention of 1901 can it be known who is or who is not a democrat, the party to-day being in a condition of kaleidoscopic transition Senator Tillman alone is not a party democrat and does not claim to be one
