THE ADVERTISER has a larger paid circulation today than it has ever had. Its job and newspaper outfit is worth four times in money what it was worth four years ago. Much as some of my friends have disagreed with it they have always believed it to be a free newspaper, whose opinions were grateful for the support which the paper has constantly received since my association with it, beginning in Aufighting a boycott, but it had a number of good friends worth more than a host them are dead, but Albert Garlington and Mr. W. Cloddy land is hard to work and seldom > exceedingly subject to drought. "While it is desirable, especially in the boll weevil sections, to plant cotton as early as possible, yet there is nothing gained by placing the seed in the ground before the latter is warm enough to cause it to germinate and grow, or before the soil is thoroughly prepared. This was strongly illustrated last year in boll weevil sections. Where the land was properly prepared before planting, even though this preparation caused a delay in putting the seed into the ground, the yield was much better the ground, the yield was much better the scretch of two boxes entirely relieved me. On occasions since when I have had one retreated to the scretch of the the ground, the yield was much better than where attention was not given to this detail. A thorough preparation is more than half the cultivation. Do not plant either cotton or corn before the land is worked into a fine seed bed, even if planting is a little late.

> "Last spring a great amount of trouble was experienced in securing stands, especially of cotton. This was primarily due to a late, wet spring; but there were other contributing factors, including poor preparation of land, improper depth of planting and poor seed. The farmers seem fairly well aroused to the importance of good seed. To be good the seed must not only be from a good variety, but must have been carefully selected, and so cared for that they have strong vitality. Be sure the seeds planted have not been damaged

"With well-prepared land, good cotther, while the seed may not actually be covered to a great depth, many leave them in a trench, with hills of loose dirt on each side. The first good should be avoided. A light roller should always follow the planting, so as to press the ground close to the seed.

"It is best, even where it is not necessary to plant upon beds, to place the seed upon a slight ridge, especially in planting early. This insures drainage and warmth, and consequently a good stand. There are more stands lost in planting cotton by using too much than planting cotton by using too much than the planting cotton by using too much than of March, Anno Domini 1908.

O. G. THOMPSON,

If dry or a little cool weather follows, the soil immediately around the young plant dries out or is chilled by the cool nights, and the plants die. If this does not occur, the farmer is obliged to thin the cotton when very young, while the plants are delicate and are easily injured. Perfect stands of cotton have been obtained stands of cotton have been obtained with four pounds of seed, and if the seed has been properly selected and preserved it should never require more than a peck per acre, provided the land shall be issued or not be stands of cotton have been obtained with four pounds of seed, and if the seed has been properly selected and preserved it should never require more than a peck per acre, provided the land shall be issued or not. than a peck per acre, provided the land

John Wanamaker.

John Wanamaker's first pay was only $1.20 per week, and he walked four miles to and from work each day to save part of it. This saving was the cornerstone upon which he has since built his fortune. Every beginning is hard--particularly with the savers. We encourage every man and woman to save by gladly opening an account with them for as little as a dollar -- and pay 4 per cent. interest.

We pay 5 per cent. on time certificates.
