KING OF ENGLAND
DIED FRIDAY NIGHT

Dead Monarch Succeeded by His Son, the Prince of Wales—Illness was Brief.

London, May 7.—King Edward VII, who returned to England from a vacation 10 days ago in the best of health, died at 11:45 o'clock last night in the presence of his family after an illness of less than a week, which was serious hardly more than three days.

The Prince of Wales succeeded to the crown immediately, according to the laws of the kingdom, without official ceremony. His first official act was to dispatch to the lord mayor the announcement of his father's death, in pursuance of custom. His telegram read:

"I am deeply grieved to inform you that my beloved father, the king, passed away peacefully at 11:45 tonight." (Signed) "George."

The physicians soon afterwards issued their official bulletin, which was as follows:

"May 6, 11:45 p. m.—His majesty, the king, breathed his last at 11:45 tonight in the presence of her majesty, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Royal, the Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria and Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyll." (Signed)

"Laking, Reid, Powell, Dawson."
Caused by Pneumonia.

Pneumonia, following bronchitis is believed to have been the cause of death, but the doctors thus far have refused to make a statement. Some of the king's friends are convinced that worry over the critical political situation which confronted him, with sleepless nights, aggravated if it did not cause the fatal illness.

Besides the nearest relatives in England the Duke of Fife and the Archbishop of Canterbury were in the death chamber. The king's brother, the Duke of Connaught, with his family, is at Suez, hastening home from Africa. The king's daughter, Queen Maud of Norway, will start for England tomorrow.

The intelligence that the end of King Edward's reign had come was not a surprise at the last. The people had been expecting to hear it at any moment since the evening bulletin was posted at Buckingham palace and flashed throughout the kingdom. The capital received it without excitement, but sadly, for the king with his own people was unquestionably one of the most popular rulers in the world. They regarded him as one of the strongest forces making for the stability of the peace of the empire.

Crowds Hear News.

The fashionable restaurants were just emptying and a few groups of late theatre-goers were making their way homeward through the rain, while a small crowd still hung about the palace, when the streets were filled suddenly with newsboys shrilly crying:
"Death of the king!" The papers were quickly received and the people discussed the momentous event quietly and soon dispersed. The streets were deserted by 1 o'clock.

Within a few moments after the death of the king the home office telegraphed the intelligence to the heads of other governments and the diplomats and colonial offices throughout the world.

Almost to the end, the king refused to take to his bed and was sitting up yesterday in a large chair, so the palace stories go, corroborating the description of him as an unruly patient, which Dr. Ott gave to a Vienna interviewer last evening.

One of the last utterances attributed to King Edward was: "Well, it is all over; but I think I have done my duty."

He seemed then to have reached a full realization that his end was fast approaching.

The queen and others of the royal family and four doctors had been constantly in the sick room throughout the day. Several hours before his death, the king was in a comatose condition, but he rallied slightly between 9 and 10 o'clock, and appeared to recognize his family. Then he lapsed into unconsciousness which ended in his passing.

TILLMAN IN AUGUSTA.

He Appears to be Very Feeble But is Looking Well.

The Augusta Chronicle of Wednesday had the following:

United States Senator Benjamin R.
Tillman, of South Carolina, was in and while here was the guest of Mr. the city for a few hours yesterday, and Mrs. H. C. Morrison. Senator Tillman was accompanied by his wife.

The object of his visit was of a personal nature, to look after the improvement of certain property of his in this city.

Senator Tillman was seen by a representative of the Chronicle just before boarding the train yesterday afternoon, for home. The Senator, though somewhat feeble and lacking the accustomed heartiness and hand-shake, was very cordial in his answer to questions regarding his health.
Having found that his visit was purely of a personal nature, the reporter asked Senator Tillman if he had kept up with the happenings of Ex-President Theodore Roosevelt. The senator's look and silence spoke more than any sarcasm or ridicule could have done.
After a few minutes silence he mildly replied that he no longer tried to keep up with Roosevelt, that in his family the newspapers were read to him, but all references to Roosevelt were skipped.

"He is the grandest fakir in the world," said the senator, "and he has the best staff of press agents that there is in the world."
