"No one seriously expected to find anything in that bottle in the cornerstone of the Laurens courthouse, did he?"-Charleston Post. Dunno, maybe he didn't.

The latest fad is out. The most fashionable thing a young lady in Laurens can do now is to get a pencil and pad and write locals for The Advertiser. Its the most interesting fad that the ladies have yet discovered.

Superintendent of Education Geo. L. Pitts is now soliciting prizes to be given to the corn club boys. It is not necessary to dwell here on the good cause for which he is working, but we do want to ask that Mr. Pitts be aided and encouraged in the work. It must be remembered that this is not a part of his duties as superintendent of education nor does he receive any pay for it. He is working, we believe, for the interest of the boys and girls of this generation and of the men and women of the future. He deserves gher Camp No. 471 W. O. W.

ITS PRACTICAL VALUE.

The Moving Picture as an Educational

Feature in Wisconsin. The value of the educational picture, so constantly emphasized by . The Moving Picture World has found practical recognition in the prosperous and progressive State of Wisconsin. The legislature of that State has, at bands cost $13.00, labor cost $10.00 its last session, appropriated the sum of $150,000, part of which is to be used $10.00. So you can see that I got in the purchase of moving picture machines and suitable films. This means that the representatives of the people have officially sanctioned the aid of I have bought ten gallons of paint, the picture in elementary and advanced education and in university extensoin work. It was for these purposes that the money was granted. It is, under the circumstances, neither visionary nor optimistic to expect similar steps in other tSates. The teachers are ready for the education film, the pupils are eager for them, but the producers of this kind of film are slow to recognize the demand and supply it.

Editor The Advertiser:-

Well, I have finished my silo and six acres of corn into it and it is not ing the evening the guests enjoyed sevquite full at that, so you can have some idea how much stuff can be put into a hole ten by twenty. But corn this year planted in March was quite small, therefore it required more corn Todd, Olynthia Jones, Wessie Lee Dial, to fill it. I had corn last year that I believe made more on three acres than was made on six this year.

I intended to have corn planted in May for ensilege, but it kept so dry that I could not plant anything at all for ensilege, so I had to do the best taht I could.

Now, as to the cost of my silo. I advertisements I could find and the cheapest wooden one that I could find was quoted at $125.00, F. O. B. factory. Brick or concrete silos cost about twice or three times as much. So I bought my lumber here and had it dressed perfectly square and hired Mr. W. A. Copeland and showed him how to build it. We got along fine and made a success of it. The lumber that went into the silo (1,400 feet) cost me $16.10, one keg of 40 D nails cost $3.00, dressing and seven iron and the basement and foundation cost through with it very light compared with the bought one. I have not put a top on it yet although I expect to. costing $8.90, with which I expect to paint it, using one of my wages hands. A top is not entirely necessary.

So you can see that I am paving the way for that care of fine Holstein Friesian cows that we have been talking about. They are coming too at the proper time for several of our wideawake farmers are talking about taking two or more helfers.

Now, my idea is to purchase two year old heifers bred so we can get an early start with young cattle and acclimatize them at the same time. The cows sell at anywhere from $100 to $1,500 each and will give from four to fifteen gallons of milk per day and as much as four and a half pounds of butter each day for eleven months in the year. So who would not want one of these cows and do away with seven or eight scrubs to get this amount of milk? I have already been offered $50.00 for every bull calf that I have for sale.

So come up, all who are interested in the dual purpose cow and lets make up two cars instead of one and send

J. Wade Anderson,

I am going to relate a phenomenon that happened in the Poplar Spring

Watchers were sitting up with the sick, at a certain house and at night when quietly attending to the patient, rocks would suddenly fall on the floor in their midst, apparently coming down through the boards on the house, Also heads. Such a thing attracted unusual attention. Crowds were soon attending and the house and yard would be full of visitors. They watched close- Gray, Prop. ly to find out the cause of these things. Sometimes a rock would come down from the sky, right into the arowd, out in the yard. Soon another one would fall on the floor of the house. The people were terribly excited over such occurances . Some of the level headed old men got to going in to investigate. By quietly watching the crowd they found certain young men with rocks in their pockets, who would unobserved slip them out and let them come down amongst the people. They had things wrought up to an alarming extent, before they were caught carrying on the delusion.

The elders advised their neighbors to stop the meeting of so many people at their houses. The excitement 3-tf. soon subsided. But the first cause of the noises and falling rocks I never did hear them satisfactorily explained. What fools we mortals be! To what extremes We" are often lead!
