THANKSGIVING.

FOR the fields that gave their harvests, rich with wheat and rye and maize,
We have sung our songs of praise,
We have chanted our thanksgiving
For the joy of morely living
Through the tawny autumn days,
Now, when singing birds have vantshed down the shining southward ways,
When the frost has cleared the haze,
When the voice of winter blusters
Where the grapes once hung in clusters,
Shall we droop to cheerless lays?

LET new songs for this new season, caught from yonder sturdy pine,
Green despite the year's decline,
Praise the power that now lies hidden
Till at last by springtide bidden
It awakes the life divine,
And the captured dew and sunlight that once bloomed upon the vine,
Now transmuted into wine,
With its magic shall inspire
A few friends around the fire
Where the warm flames dance and shine!

AS the psalm of our Thanksgiving for the harvest gathered in,
For the crowded crib and bin,
Floats across the country places,
Over sleepy, snowy spaces,
The little white flakes spin
A soft covering of wonder, where, safely folded under,
The new life waits within
For the plowing and the sowing
And another harvest growing
When the soft spring rains begin.
—Robert Gilbert Welsh in St. Louis Republic.
