Our Motto:
Cash and Low Prices

Saturday, Feb. 10th, 1912

At this season of the year every merchant finds that he has on hand a considerable stock of high grade merchandise which he cannot afford to carry over to the next winter. If he is wise he offers these goods to his customers at practically cost prices, thus benefiting his customers and himself. It will pay you to lay aside all your troubles about bad weather, low price cotton, bursted water pipes, etc. and come to this great sale, where you will find the values we are offering the best that money can buy. We find that we have too many goods for this season of the year, and carrying out our usual policy, we offer you many goods at less than wholesale cost rather than carry over until next season.
