WARM TIMES IN GOLDVILLE.

D. L. Boozer Goes on the War-Path and Gives the Town a Little Indication of Western Life.

Sheriff Owings received word Friday morning that one D. L. Boozer, of Goldville, had declared war down in that community and was shooting up the town. The sheriff, with Messrs. Reid and Sullivan, got into an automobile at once and marched upon the scene to put a stop to the hostilities. They arrived in Goldville, where they found considerable excitement but few people. Boozer being in almost complete possession of the stronghold. Policeman Abrams however, had succeeded in slipping up behind and disarming him after quite a struggle, but his capture did not allay the excitement very much. When the sheriff arrived on the scene Boozer declared he would not submit to the arrest, but the sheriff told him that he intended bringing him to Laurens at any cost and that ended the argument. He was brought up and carried before Magistrate Crews where he gave bail and was allowed to return.

It appears that Boozer and L. W. C. Bialock had a falling out over some negro hands. Boozer procured his gun and began to shoot up the town, which is largely owned by Mr. Bialock and associates. The house of Mr. Bialock was hit by bullets in a number of places and his store and the post office were considerably damaged. It is thought that the man was suffering from a temporary aberration. It is reported that he has been acting strangely several times since this shooting affair.

Duncan-Fitten.

A marriage of statewide interest and one that united two of the oldest and most prominent families of Georgia and South Carolina took place Saturday afternoon in Union, when Miss Medora Duncan, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Duncan, and Mr. James Turner Fitten, of Atlanta, Ga., were united in marriage.

The marriage took place at the handsome old colonial residence of the bride's parents. Fashioned after the ante-bellum days, the spacious apartments were converted into a bower of loveliness by skilled decorators. The ceremony took place at 5 o'clock and was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives, a number from Atlanta and Spartanburg being present.

Mrs. W. E. Lucas, of Laurens, a cousin of the bride, and one of the south's most noted pianists, rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal procession entered. They formed in the sitting room and crossed the large old fashioned hall to the west parlor, where the ceremony took place. Miss Mary DuPre, of Spartanburg, and Miss Fannie Duncan the bride's youngest sister, came first and carried white satin ribbons forming an aisle-way through which the wedding party passed. They wore dresses of pale green charmeuse with quaint overdresses of lace, bordered with tiny pink roses. The ushers came first and were Tom McNally, J. Roy Post, Dr. I. M. Hair and Judson Sarratt, coming two and two and crossing in front of the altar. Next to enter were the bridesmaids and groomsmen, who came in the following order: Miss Bessie Mae Thompson, of Danville, Va., with Charles Ryan; Miss Laddie Jordan with Maj. John S. Cohen; Miss Pauline Gilder, of Newberry, with George M. Adair, of Atlanta; Miss Louise Gage, of Union, with Bert Dryden; Miss Elizabeth McMaster, of Winnsboro, with Wallace DuPre, of Spartanburg; Miss Dora Rembert, Spartanburg, with Dr. E. M. Coleman, Athens, Ga. The Bridesmaids wore beautiful gowns of white charmeuse made en train and carried arm bouquets of pink carnations tied with huge bows of pink tulle. They wore long pink gloves and pink satin slippers. Their hair ornaments were lovely aigrettes, the gift of the bride to her maids.
