

SOUTH CAROLINA SCORES HEAVILY

Several "Plums" Fall to Applicants from this State under Wilson Administration. More of Them Active. Washington, March 8.—South Carolina is scoring heavily in the first days of the Wilson Administration. Yesterday the President, on the advice of Postmaster General Burleson, decided to nominate Daniel C. Roper, formerly of Marion, S. C., to be First Assistant Postmaster General, and today the Democratic caucus of the Senate chose James M. Baker, of Lowndesville, S. C., to fill the important position of secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Baker had the active support of Senator B. R. Tillman, who presented his name to the caucus, and also of Senator E. D. Smith.

Tied for Second Place.

The brother of President Wilson, Joseph R. Wilson, of Nashville, Tenn., and Robert M. Gates, Washington correspondent of the Memphis Commercial-Appeal, are said to have tied for second place in the second and final ballot, in which Mr. Baker had a clear majority over the entire field of his seven opponents.

After the result was announced Mr. Joseph Wilson said, for publication, that he did not regard his defeat as reflecting upon himself personally in any way, but ascribed it to the feeling among some of the Senators that his close relationship to the President made it undesirable that he should occupy the particular position which he had sought.

Ex-Solicitor Boggs Active.

Julius E. Boggs, of Pickens, S. C., former solicitor of the 10th judicial circuit, of South Carolina, is in Washington lining up the support of the State's Congressional delegation in his candidacy for Assistant Attorney General of the United States.

TUMBLING SHOALS.

Tumbling Shoals, March 10.—Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Knight have moved into their new home near Mr. Knight's father, Mr. W. N. Knight.

The people of this community are getting along slowly with their farm agaris, because of the incessant rains.

Mr. Lude Bolt, who has been sick for some time, is some better now. His many friends hope to see him up again soon.

Mr. Tommie Crawford visited his brother in Fork Shoals section last Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Nettie Briton, who has been sick for some time, is able to be up again.

Miss Agnes Bolt, who made her home in Greenville for a short time, is now at home for a while.

Mrs. Earl Caldwell, who has been in Laurens for some time, is now at home here.

Card of Thanks.

We want to extend our thanks to the people for their kindness shown us during the recent illness and death of our father, W. B. Hill. We shall always have for them a warm place in our hearts. May the Lord's richest blessings abide with them forever.

Mrs. W. B. Hill and family.

LADY MARJORIE MANNERS BECOMES MARQUIS' BRIDE

Bow low to her—Lady Marjorie Manners, eldest daughter of the Duke of Rutland, is now the Marchioness of Anglesey!

After ten years of suspense this "most beautiful girl in the kingdom," as Queen Alexandra called her, was the other day married to one of England's richest peers, Lord Anglesey. Lord Anglesey has a real $1,000,000 a year. What is something more, he is considered the handsomest man in all the house of lords. He has been in this country several times, always after big game.

London society—and this includes very many Americans—is all upset about the newest betrothal, quite the most important of the year. It is the greatest surprise of the season now ending. Designing dowagers have been angling after Anglesey ever since he came so unexpectedly into his marquisate and his millions in 1905, and all but one of them are now beaten.

Anglesey was only a cousin of the title—and the money—when it all suddenly came to him. That bejeweled young fop, the fifth Marquis of Anglesey, was his cousin. Crazy about clothes, actresses and display, he knew not how to enjoy the great wealth which was his. He died suddenly at Monte Carlo, and his body was flung into the suicide's patch awaiting orders from England. Finally it was shipped there in a plain deal packing case, and only a score of persons attended the quiet funeral of the young man who had a million a year and didn't know how to spend it properly.

And so to plain Charles Paget, his cousin, went the money and the title. This young chap was cast in a wholly different mold. Good-looking, clever, fond of life and people, he had spent his modest nineteen years in all simplicity. He found his vast estates—40,000 acres make up his domain—quite encumbered. Even then they were worth $400,000 a year in income to him, but careful management has put them back where they were when his eccentric cousin inherited them. Today they are worth half a hundred million dollars and bring him in two hundred thousand pounds sterling a year income, which is the American equivalent of a million dollars a year.

Lady Marjorie was born in a tent near Las Vegas, N. M., when her parents were spending a vacation there in 1883. The bride is two years older than her husband.

VICE-PRESIDENT'S WIFE ACKNOWLEDGES MANY FADS

Mrs. Sherman, wife of the vice-president, acknowledges many fads, and says that the more varied the interests woman has in life the younger she keeps. In the past 10 years she has possessed more leisure for such occupation as flowers, books, patriotic and philanthropic work than in the days when her children were small and her husband just beginning a career which has rounded out with the vice presidency of the nation. One of her chief joys is in the love of growing things, and as the years have passed she has added extensively to the modest greenhouses, ferneries and gardens of her Utica home.

Since her marriage Mrs. Sherman has managed her end of the dual responsibility of making a home, and has taken entire control of domestic matters. It was she who selected and in many instances planted the many choice trees, shrubs and flowers that fill the well-planned gardens, and it is she who attends to the house plants and their transfer into winter quarters.

For years Mrs. Sherman made it a habit not to go to Washington until after Christmas, in order that she might give undivided care to the plants removed from the grounds and distributed through her home and placed in the greenhouse. For year also she discouraged her husband in getting a Washington home, for the reason that her plants and flowers are such an essential part of it that she could not conceive a pleasant environment without them.

Among the large and influential group of New Yorkers resident in Washington she is held in particular esteem, and is in a way a sort of dean and arbiter of social affairs for them.

Obliged Him.

The panhandler met the prosperous man in the corridor of the office building.

"I am down and out," whined the panhandler. "Can you help me?"

"Yes," replied the prosperous man. "Just press that button on the elevator there and the operator will take you in and up."

The Main Point.

"Don't you think it is dreadful about all this graft business being discovered?"

"Of course, I do. Why, with such a good thing, couldn't they keep it quiet?"

SWITZER COMPANY

DR. SIMMONS Squaw Vine Wine

A Palatable Medicine especially prepared to relieve and cure the diseases which affect women

This excellent medicine is not only successful in conquering the painful and prostrating diseases that attack the female generative system but it is exceptionally pleasant to take. The usual rule that the nastier the medicine the more effective it is, is reversed in the case of Squaw Vine Wine. It is one of the pleasantest of medicines. The fresh juice of a well ripened sweet orange is not more agreeable. It is indeed a happy combination of sweet herbs compounded with just enough spirits to keep it fresh and active in its medicinal effect. Poor, tired mothers, worn out with the cares of a family and household, and suffering from those distressing aches, bearing down pains and nervousness which women only know, revive wonderfully under its strengthening and exhilarating influence. It eases pain, strengthens weakened parts, corrects irregularities, builds up a strong, vigorous body, restores brightness to the eye and color to the cheeks.
