DEBATE BEGINS ON TARIFF QUESTION

Senator Simmons Defends Democratic Measure Against Remarks of Senator Cummins, who Claims Bill Discriminates Against American Farmers.

Washington, July 19.—Debate on the tariff bill in the senate began in earnest today with Chairman Simmons, of the finance committee, proclaiming the new bill a satisfactory answer to the demand for downward revision and Senator Cummins, speaking from a progressive republican standpoint, predicting that it would carry the democratic party to defeat.

Senator Simmons replied to contentions that the bill discriminated against the farmer. Senator Cummins asserted that the democratic party had treated the farmer as an outlaw and vigorously assailed President Wilson for his participation in framing the bill. This he characterized as abuse of power that had been "coercive."

Senator Simmons recounted the farm products the measure would place on the free list, such as wheat, flour, cattle, sheep, swine, sugar, eggs, wool and potatoes, and said:

Every Man Will Benefit.

"Every man, whatever his occupation, will be the beneficiary in some direction to a greater or less degree for this general system of reductions. In this respect the farmer has been shown special consideration. Practically everything he buys has been put on the free list or the duties have been greatly reduced.

"For his special benefit, cotton bagging and ties and materials out of which sacks for grain, wool, fertilizer, etc., are made, wire for fencing and baling purposes, and similar articles of farm consumption have been put on the free list. For his special benefit plows, shovels, rakes, hoes, mowers, reapers, planters and agricultural implements of every kind and description have been put on the free list. He will be, in a large degree, the beneficiary of free listing of building materials of various kinds, materials used in construction of roads, school textbooks, boots and shoes, low grade blankets, harness, saddles, wagons, carts, sewing machines and other like products.

"He will share general benefits from the reduction of duty on sugar and its ultimate abolition, and finally, he will share benefits of the heavy reductions this bill makes in wearing apparel of every description, crockery, hardware, hardwood and kitchen furnishings and utensils."

Chairman Simmons declared the free list under the present Payne-Aldrich law was in the interest of the protected manufacturers.

"Undoubtedly there will be increased importations under this bill. That was intended and provided for in the reductions in rates it makes. You cannot revise the tariff so as to give relief from present tariff burdens except by enlarging opportunities for importations.

"Undoubtedly, on the other hand, there will be increased exportations under this bill. That was also intended by its framers and is provided for in such ways as was found possible and practicable.

"To this end it untaxes the things the farmer employs in making the products he sells abroad. It untaxes the raw materials of the manufacturer.

"In short, it seeks in such ways as are open to establish upon a broader basis that spirit of comity on which international good will rests, to remove hampering restrictions, to broaden the basis of international trade, and enable the American producer to take advantage in greater measure than has been possible under existing tariff conditions, of our great national opportunity in the market places of the world.

Why Republicans Lost.

Senator Cummins, opening the debate, declared that the republican party lost the confidence of the people and "was driven from power largely because it insisted upon the maintenance of import duties, many of which were unnecessarily and oppressively high."

"The democratic party," he asserted, "will soon be overtaken with like disaster, because it is about to inflict upon the country a tariff which, with respect to many others, imposes duties that are dangerously and destructively low and which, from end to end, grievously discriminates against the west in favor of the east—that is to say, in favor of the manufacturer against the farmer.

"The republican craft went down in the whirlpool of Scylla in 1912, and its democratic successor is steering straight for the rocks of Charybdis, where it will go to piece in the stress of 1916."

Criticizes President.

Besides pointing out many things that he considered destructive and entirely unwarranted in the bill, Senator Cummins criticized the president for his influence exerted upon members of congress concerning the tariff bill, and influence, he said, "so persistent and determined that it became coercive."

The senator submitted figures designed to show that according to the democratic view, prices are raised by the pending bill upon 60 per cent of the enormous production east of the Mississippi river, while it raises the prices of but 39 of the lesser production west of the river.

The senator declared the democrats had treated the farmer as an outlaw in making up the bill, that many of the products of the farm were entitled to protection.

Don't Suffer!

"I had been troubled, a little, for nearly 7 years," writes Mrs. L. Fincher, in a letter from Peavy, Ala., "but I was not taken down, until March, when I went to bed and had to have a doctor. He did all he could for me, but I got no better. I hurt all over, and I could not rest. At last, I tried Cardui, and soon I began to improve. Now I am in very good health, and able to do all my housework."
