It Pays to Advrtiser.

That advertising pays, especially for cows, is proven by the experience of Mr. Warren Bolt. Early last week Mr. Bolt lost a valuable feline and "knew not where to find her". He advertised on telephone posts, bare walls and elsewhere in hopes of regaining her, but all in vain. At last, but not yet discouraged, he came into The Advertiser office and planking down a quar ter of a dollar asked that one of those famouse little want ads be fixed up -"Lost, strayed or stolen, etc". Already aware of the strenuous efforts previously put forth by Mr. Bolt to find the gentle milker, the Want Ad man was a little averse to taking the business being of the reputation of the little wonder workers. But, with an eye on the small coin and thoughts was worded and the admonition joking the next morning and going to the waited to be lead.

Fewell-Winn.

Rock Hill, Nov. 7 .- The first marriage ceremony performed in the handsome new Oakland Avenue Presbyterian church was that of Tuesday evening when Miss Anna Kate Fewell daughter of Mrs. Kate Fewell, of this city became the bride of Henry John Winn of Clinton.

With Miss Anna Roddey Miller at the organ, Mrs. J. Barron Steele and J. Wilson Moore sang as a duet Offenback's "Barcarolle," and Mrs. Steele sang "Because." To the strains of the Lohengrin bridal chorus the wedding procession passed in alternate couples down the aisles as follows: First the ushers, Charlie Fewell, Richard Fewell, Wildam Sadler and George Beech. Entering singly down two brothers, John and Will Fewell, and Frances May Milling and William Jacobs and E. L. Cooper: Misses Jessie Dillard of Clinton and Cecil Fewell and Wilson Harris and Carlton Winn. The maid of honor, Miss Lillie Love, of this city immediately preceded the bride, who entered with her twon brothers, John and Will Fewell. this arrangement giving a beautiful and unusual touch of sentiment. The groom was attended by his brother, Charles Winn, as best man. Taking their places before the officiating minister, the Rev. Alexanedr Martin, the ring service was performed. The maids and their attendant grooms men met in front of the pulpit and crossing there took places upon the platform,

The bride's rich brunette beauty was accentuated by the soft shimmering gown of charmeuse, with silk lace, and net tunis, the veil covering the face, crowned with valley lillies and touching the hem of the court train. Her shower bouquet was of bride roses, lillies and asparagus fern, tied

Leaving the church in reverse order, the bridal party and out-of-town visitors and a few close friends repaired to the home of the bride where an informal reception was held. A buffet supper was served by Misses Margaret Thompson, Leona Moore, Margaret Fewell and Anna Cabeen Gill. The cutting of the bride's cake afforded much amusement. The ring fell to Miss Frances May Milling, the dime to Miss Jessie Dillard and the thimble to Miss Anna Roddev Miller.

The bride, changing her costume for traveling suit of dark green broadcloth with velvet hat, the young couple left on the evening train for Charlotte and thence to Clinton.

Smouldered Several Days. About seven o'clock Sunday evening a still alarm was sent in to the fire department to put out a smouldering blaze in a bale of cotton on the platform of the Laurens Bonded Warehouse Company. The hose wagon carrying several willing helpers was driven to the scene, where the bale was found very hot but not yet in flames. It was dragged to the Robertson Hotel corner and an opening made in its side. Water was forced into it and the blaze extinguished. It is thought that a spark or match got into the cotton while it was being ginned Friday and that it had slowly burned until found Sunday evening. It was discovered by a railroad trainman who began a search after smelling the es-
