COWPEAS FOR DAIRY CATTLE

Recommended by Tennessee Farmer for Their Great Soil Building Qualities and Feed Value.

"I raise cowpeas for their great soil building qualities and their high feeding value, especially for dairy cattle, writes a Tennessee farmer in an exchange.

"The crop should be handled to suit conditions. It works nicely in a rotation with other crops or serves well as a catch crop on stubble where the season is long enough to permit.

"In most sections drilling is preferred to broadcasting and the crop is then cultivated the same as corn. Considerations both of expense and yield favor the cultivation method. Broadcasting is all right if the crop is sown for hay and the ground is not too foul with weeds or crab grass.

"We drill a bushel of cowpeas to three acres and handle the crop as we do corn. It matures in from 70 to 90 days, depending upon variety.

"Do not plant until danger of frost is over. When planting on stubble as a catch crop we double disk the land and then drill or sow broadcast. Don't plant the seed too deeply. I like to plant about two inches deep in moist soil. This gives a good even stand and they will be up in three days. I have found the cowpea of great value."

Rations for Sows and Gilts Before Farrowing

1. Barley meal, 75 pounds; chopped alfalfa hay, 15 pounds; tankage, 10 pounds; rutabagas or carrots.

2. Ground oats, 45 pounds; barley meal, 45 pounds; tankage, 10 pounds; alfalfa hay in racks; rutabagas or carrots.

3. Ground oats, 50 pounds; middlings, 50 pounds; alfalfa hay or clover hay.

In the farrowing pen there should be a rail set eight inches from the floor and six inches to eight inches from the wall, to prevent the sow from crushing her pigs. Provide just a small amount of bedding for the sow to make her nest.

For a few hours after farrowing the sow needs no feed other than water. After 18 to 24 hours she should have a warm feed of shorts slop. After that time the feed should be gradually increased until she is receiving all she requires, but no more. Insist upon exercise.

Cattle Will Advertise.

Any man ought to be ashamed to send his cows out of doors wearing as an ornament five or six pounds of dried fertilizer on their flanks. You do not always need to put a notice in the paper to advertise. Just neglect your cattle and they will advertise you, all right.

Be Kind to Cow.

Be kind to the dairy cow. You can't pound milk out of her with the milk stool or run milk out of her with the dog when bringing her from the pasture to the barn. Get on good terms with the dairy cow, and her friendship will be seen by increased profits in the milk pail.

Double the Corn Crop.

The greater the variety and the richer the feeds given cows, the more and better manure can be had from the herd. With dairy manure alone on the farm, the corn crop can be doubled within two or three years.
