Want the Best Bed Of Its Kind!

A woman customer told us that the other day. "I can't afford an expensive bed," she said, "and I won't have a cheap imitation of a high-priced style. Whatever I do get must be the best of its own kind---something in good taste with plain, simple lines at a moderate price."

Our salesman showed her a Simmons---one of the new light weight kind made from cold-rolled burnished steel. He told her about the lightness and how it lessens the tendency to mar polished floors and injure rugs.

He explained how the foot and head rods were electrically welded into place and gave the bed great rigidity.

He showed her the possiblities of finish on smooth, burnished steel as against the rough, scaly, pitted gas pipe that is commonly used. He told her why this new bed had a better finish than was ever before possible, even on the highest priced hand-rubbed beds.

As he drew her attention to the absense of heavy metal chills or castings on the foot posts, to the steel-wheeled leg-mount casters, to the perfect corner bends --- as true and even as on the highest-priced brass beds. She bought!

We have realized that there are many of our customers who feel as this woman did. It is with our usual endeavor to give real service that we are the first to offer this bed which is revolutionizing the bed business.
