A delightful surprise was furnished by Mrs. Frank H. Caine on Tuesday afternoon when she entertained for Miss Imogene Wilkes, Tables for forty players were filled and before serving the delightful salad and mintice the hostess distributed minature cardboard suitcases. When pulled out, the handles of these carried a small card on which was printed the following:

Announcement Party.

Miss Imogene Wilkes Mr. Moore Mars Early Fall

"The man in the case" is a succesful lawyer of Abbeville and the brideto-be is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene II. Wilkes.

The house decorations were yellow daisies matching the yellow gown of the hostess. The honoree wore a peculiarly becoming dress of ecru net.

Assisting Mrs. Caine in serving were Misses Carrie Fleming and Julia childress. The pleasure this announcement will give the many friends of Miss Wilkes is limited by one regrether enforced removal from Laurens.

The following account of the marrlage of Mr. John Crews, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Crews, of this city, will be read with interest by his many friends here, the account being taken from a Portland, Oregon, paper:

A group of the younger social contingent were happy to be the first to and will remain here for a while be- congratulate Miss Juanita Wilkins on her approaching wedding to John W. Crews, of Columbia, South Carolina.

At a 1 o'clock luncheon, Wednesday, sister, Mrs. R. V. Royal to Charleston sponsored by Mrs. Amos Wilkins, mother of the bride-to-be, the news occasioned happy comment. Symbolical blue birds were in evidence at the table where they poised on unique place cards and on the folders which spending most of the time at Saluda bore the likeness of the flance and and the remainder at Spartanburg with the betrothed. And rendant from the chandelier these same emblems of happiness gase especial cheer to the affair, Sumter County two years ago and be- particularly when contrasted with the gan farming in the Trinity-Ridge golden marigolds and tulle at the censection, was a business visitor in the ter of the damask. The wedding will be soemnized during the month of October and it is a matter of regret that Miss Wilkins will be leaving for a home across the continent. She is the daughter of Mr. and Amos Wilkins, 482 Lawrence street, and a junior in the university here where she is a popular member of Delta Delta Delta. Her flance is a native of South Carolina and was graduated in law from the university of his state in 1914. At present he is practicing law in Columbia, South Carolina. Those included in the first news of the engagement were: Miss Mary Chambers, Miss Gladys Wilkins, Miss Frances Mann, Miss Evelyn Bristow, Miss Ethel Gibson, Miss Elaine Brown, Mis itelen DeLano, Miss Margaret Spangler Miss Nora Manerud, Miss Ruth Roche, Miss Marjorie Williams, Miss Grace Bingham, Miss Winifred Starbuck and Miss Katherine Watson.
