DEEDS OF DARING.

German People Stirred by Exploits of Fighting Men.

REWARDED FOR BRAVERY.

Acts Performed by Immelmann, Weddigen, Von Muecke, Doelke, Schloeden and Others Have Attracted Much Attention—List of Heroes Long.

Berlin.—Germany has always been a land of hero worship, and everything has been done to encourage it, especially in this war. The list of German heroes has been a long one, and then, too, there are the thousands of others who have died unknown and unsung.

Lieutenant Immelmann, the aviator, was very young. When his death became known a great wave of sorrow swept over all Germany. The last aeroplane he shot down was his sixteenth.

Since the days of Carl Theodore Koerner no young hero has been so popular in Germany as has Otto Weddigen. His memory, like Koerner's, will be forever young.

As soon as he was old enough he entered the German marine, where his elder brother was already an officer. His marine career was a meteor-like one. The deeds of his U boat in the present war rang through the world, the U-9 sending down the English cruisers Aboukir, Hogue and Cressy and the large cruiser Hawke. He was then put in charge of the U-29 and given the order of the Pour le Merite. The U-29 sank four British, two French merchant vessels and many smaller boats.

The daring deeds of the Emden and the Ayesha are well known. The Emden went out under the command of Captain von Mueller, chasing merchant vessels in the sea of Bengal, where she spread terror. The English called her the "Flying Dutchman" and gave chase. Near the Keeling islands the Emden succumbed after a heroic resistance, and a detachment disembarked on the islands under the command of Lieutenant von Muecke. They took with them the small boat, the Ayesha. After many exciting adventures they succeeded in reaching the Arabian coast. Here they had many encounters with the Arabian tribes, but they made their way to the Hedjaz railway and thence to Constantinople and then back to Germany. Captain von Mueller was taken prisoner by the English.

The Moewe became the successor of these two boats, and her commander, Dohna-Schloeden, is famous.

Since the death of Immelmann, Captain Boelke, the fiercest, has been the most popular of all the now active young German heroes. He has brought down his twentieth aeroplane and several months ago was given the order Pour le Merite.

She Prefers Jail to Farm.

Denver.—Farm life may appeal to some folks, but jail life seems preferable to Mrs. Agnes C. Adams, aged twenty-five years, who deserted her husband and four children recently rather than stay longer on her husband's truck farm in Jefferson county. Mrs. Adams was arrested by Humane Officer Morton David. Given the alternative of returning to the farm or facing a charge of deserting her children, she replied: "I won't go back. I love my husband and my children, too," she told Police Matron Davis. "but I simply can't endure life on that farm any longer."

Umbrella Struck by Lightning.

Atchison, Kan.—A. J. Haskins narrowly escaped with his life here the other day when the umbrella he was carrying was struck by lightning. Haskins says that he seemed to be enveloped in a ball of flame. His legs and arms are still numb from the effects of the shock.

SAVED AFTER TWELVE DAYS LOST IN MINE

Young Pole Declares He Had Neither Food Nor Drink.

Rochester, N. Y.—Lost for twelve days in the 2,000 foot level of the Retsof salt mines, west of Geneva, Benny Negolowsky, twenty-one years old, was found by a rescue party apparently little the worse for his experience. He said that he had neither food nor drink during his wanderings, but physicians who examined him believed that he must have found water.

"I had been working a day and a night without sleep," said Benny. "Pretty soon I crawled away when the boss wasn't looking and went to sleep. When I woke up it was all dark and quiet, and I was scared. I let you."

Benny, so far as could be gathered from his story, set out on the trail of his companions, but lost it somehow and got down to the No. 4 level, which had not been worked for eight years. The electric light connections had been removed long ago, and not a ray of light, even at noon, penetrated to the cavernous maze where the scared Polish boy was lost.

Benny said that for three days he had not had strength to move from the spot where the rescuers found him.

FAMILY SOON TO BE REUNITED IN COLLEGE

Mother and Daughter In Same Class; Father Will Join Them Later.

Des Moines, Ia.—When sixteen-year-old Elinor Douglas entered the freshman class of the University of Iowa this term her mother, Mrs. F. L. Douglas, wife of a Highland Park college professor, enrolled in the same class.

Together they will spend four years in Iowa City, working for their degrees, and next year, when Mr. Douglas returns to Iowa City to complete the work for his M. A. degree, the entire family will be reunited.

It is a matter of family tradition and sentiment which is responsible for mother and daughter attending college together. As the gray haired, tender eyed little woman says:

"We have always planned that when Elinor went to college I should go with her, and it has been one of Elinor's dreams that we should go back to Iowa City, where her father worked his way through by doing odd jobs for President Macbride."

OLD DOG SAVED TWO.

Collie That Was Under Sentence of Death Rescued Illinois Lads.

Danville, Ill.—Shep, a collie dog that was to have been killed because of his age, saved the sons of his master, Henry Miller, from death when they were attacked recently by an angry bull.

Jake Miller, age twenty-three, and Valentine Miller, age fifteen, still are in a serious condition of injuries inflicted by the animal, and Shep, swathed in bandages and with one leg in splints, is being cared for in the house by a veterinarian.

The boys had gone for the cows and were attacked by the bull, which Shep attacked vigorously, so distracting the animal's attention from the boys, each of whom were gored and trampled, that their father was able to drive the infuriated animal away with a pitchfork before the sons were killed. The decision to kill Shep has been abandoned.

OWN PLEA SUCCESSFUL.

Man Argued His Case and His Sentence Was Reduced.

Denver.—Samuel Owens, charged with assault with intent to kill, in the westside court saved himself from a possible penitentiary sentence by addressing the jury himself in a plea which caused the jury, although finding him guilty, to reduce the conviction to that of assault.

The maximum penalty on this conviction is a year in the county jail, while the penalty for assault to kill is from one to fourteen years in the penitentiary.

Owens struck his wife, Lillian, with a revolver in their home following a quarrel. He knocked her unconscious and was arrested in the act of sewing up the wound in his wife's head with a needle and thread.

Screw In Child's Lung.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—A metal screw half an inch long and a quarter of an inch in diameter, which accidentally became lodged in the lungs of four-year-old Margery Pearce, daughter of South Haven people, was removed recently by an operation, without the aid of a knife. Instruments of a special nature were used by Dr. Canfield of this city in drawing the screw, which threatened the child's life, to the throat, from which it was removed by forceps.

Legless Men Sell Legs.

Nashville, Tenn.—Three men, neither of whom has a leg, all losing their limbs in railway accidents, have bought out an artificial limb company by this city and will operate it in the future. These men are Walter Herr, Charles Siron and W. A. Johnson. According to members of the firm, no one will be employed in the establishment, from office boy to bookkeeper, who has more than one leg.
