The Switzer Co. was organized in 1908 by Messrs T. C. and J. E. Switzer. They have grown very rapidly in stock and capital since that time and now they carry one of the largest stocks of goods in the city. They are doing all in their power to put life into business in general in and around Laurens. This institution employs an inside force of nine people, consequently they are in a position to serve their trade promptly at all time. The members of this firm are both well known in this community, and always make it their business to take time to meet their patrons with that glad hand of good fellowship which goes to make any business or country a congenial and prosperous one.

BIG HEALTH DAY FOR GREENVILLE

Mountain City Observes Conservation Holiday, Parade and Meeting.

Greenville, Oct. 4.—With Congressman Adamson of Georgia, Congressman Lever and Nicholls of South Carolina, First Assistant Secretary Newton of the treasury, Chief L. L. Lumsden of the United States public health service; R. A. Cooper of Laurens, Dr. J. Adams Hayne, head of the State health department, and Dr. J. W. Kerr, assistant surgeon general of the United States, among the guests of honor, Greenville county today held a public health celebration which eclipsed anything of the kind ever before known here. A pageant was the feature of the day, scores of floats being in the parade. Two bands, one from Easley and one from Pelzer, took part, and the coast artillery companies of Spartanburg and Greenville also were in the parade. The celebration was held in connection with the work being done here by the United States department of public health and despite bad weather was a great success.

At the opera house tonight addresses were made by the guests of honor to a crowd of several hundred people. Congressman Adamson was enthusiastically applauded. His address was more humorous than serious.

The features of the evening were the announcements by Congressman Lever that henceforth he was a vigorous friend to public health appropriations and the statements of Dr. Lumsden that Greenville county has probably the highest sanitary index in the United States, that the city sanitary measures he has found are the best in the United States so far as he knows; that Greenville is the only city he knows of that needs no suggestions along lines of sanitation, and that every mill village, except one, every incorporated town and every unincorporated town, as well as 18 per cent. of the county's population at large, have complied and are complying with the suggestions for sanitation made by the public health department in its sanitary survey of the county. Typhoid fever, reduced by half this year, will be practically eliminated in this county, stated Dr. Lumsden. The one mill village not yet in line will do what has been suggested, said Dr. Lumsden, as the president of that mill had promised to do so.

Assistant Secretary Newton stated that the celebration today was a national event, and that what had been done in Greenville county will be told of all over the land, with a view to getting other sections to do the same thing.

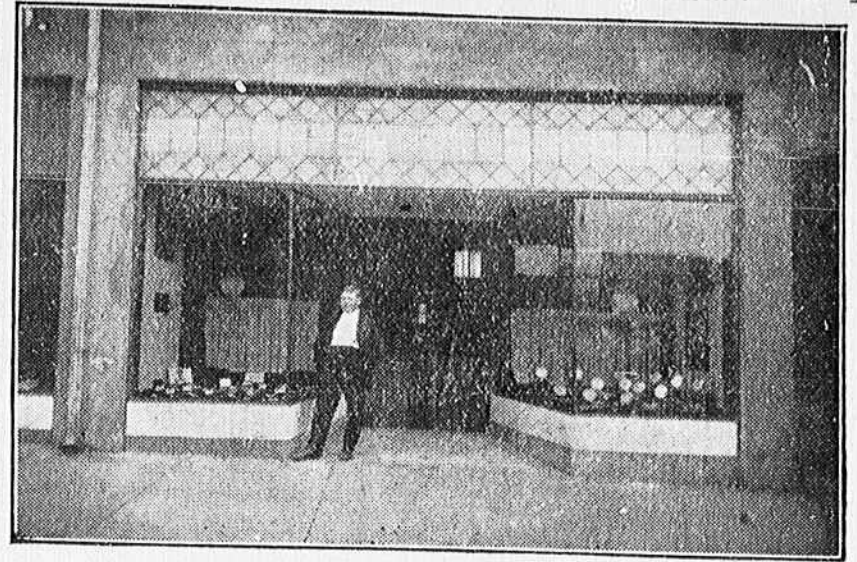

In the sanitary survey more than 11,000 homes have been visited and thoroughly inspected and recommendations for improvements made. The real work of cleaning up is just beginning.

The keynote of the day was conservation of human life; the floats preached this, the speakers talked of it. Prizes awarded to the best floats were given as follows: First, health department of the city of Greenville; second, Southeastern Life Insurance company; third, equal suffrage float from Conestee mill.

At a meeting of a committee from the organized classes of the Sunday schools of the First Methodist, First Baptist and First Presbyterian churches, held at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon, plans were set on foot to take a religious census of the city with the object of enlisting more people in Sunday school work. A central committee, to consist of one member from each church in the city, will meet in the First Presbyterian church tomorrow night to complete the organization and map out the work for the sub-committees to do. It is planned to have every person in the city interviewed and invited to attend the
