

Measuring Party.
Friday Evening, November 10.

At Woodrow Wilson school house, Laurens Street,
The Narnie folk are asked to meet. Not Narnies alone, but each of you who are loyal friends must be there too.
A measuring party this is to be—Refreshments served, sandwiches and tea.
Three cents for each foot of your height we implore,
For each inch over one half cent more. The gypsy queen will be on the spot To tell you whether you'll marry or not;
The hour's seven thirty, so don't be late,
November the 10th, write down on your slate.
Put on high heels if your are low, Help sweat the funds—we Need Them So!

Now Lookout!

When a cold hangs on as often happens, or when you have hardly gotten over one cold before you contract another, look out for you are liable to contract some very serious disease. This succession of colds weakens the system and lowers the vitality so that you are much more liable to contract chronic catarrh, pneumonia or consumption. Cure your cold while you can. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a great reputation. It is relied upon by thousands of people and never disappoints them. Try it. It only costs a quarter. Obtainable everywhere.

MADDEEN NEWS.

Madden, Oct. 31.—Hallowe'en night—May the Goblins and Witches pass us all by.
Whether it was due to carelessness of correspondent (and it was not sent in) or to the carelessness of the "printers devil"—I'm strongly inclined to the latter opinion) no words of commendation was given Neighbor Power for his good exhibit at the county fair in our last week's dots. Farmer Power is one that takes great pride in his farm and his individual display was a credit to him and his community—Wish we had more farmers of his type.
Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Cunningham were the guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Moore.
Miss Ora Simpson and brother of The Knob section, were guests for the week-end of their uncle, J. H. Power.
Miss Julia Cunningham is the guest for a few days of her aunt, Mrs. Thurman Finley.
Mrs. May Madden spent Saturday night with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Wofford and Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. J. R. Finley.
Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Finley and children were the guests Sunday of Mrs. Della Cunningham of Mt. Pleasant.
"Joe" the white O. I. C. of Master Gus Wofford, has returned safely from Columbia State Fair where he again took first prize.
Mr. Dock Davenport of New York is spending awhile with his daughter, Mrs. Tom Shaw.
Miss Susie Langston visited at Mrs. Tom Shaw's last week.
Mr. T. S. Langston attended and enjoyed the union held at Second Baptist church. He was the guest while there of his niece Mrs. Frank Martin.
Mr. Jim Roper, a prosperous farmer of Rabun section, visited his daughter Mrs. Thad Moore last week.

A GOOD DAY AT SECOND BAPTIST CHURCH.

Dear Advertiser:
I wish a little space to tell what a good day we had at the above named place Saturday, Oct. 21st. We wish all mothers who read this could have heard Bro. Templeman's talk on Royal Ambassadors and woman's work in the church. We Baptist mothers have been looking about and talking about whose duty it is to take the boys in our churches to train for Christian work and service—we all felt and realized the need but wasn't it the duty of the father?

Here comes Bro. Templeman and cites us back to the first Royal Ambassador—Moses—and it was the seven years of the mother's training, before he reached the "weaning age", that made him able to withstand the learning and the sin of Pharaoh's Court, where he went at that age. There was only one sad feature of the day, and that was the fact that he, who was to have followed Dr. Templeman, Deacon W. H. Drummond, "was absent from us and present with the Lord". In a few heart-felt words Mrs. Clara Watts, his kinswoman, told of his interest in R. A. work and how pleased and touched he was, on his return from the hospital in Baltimore, to learn that the R. A. band of Lanford church had been named for him—The Wash Drummond R. A's.

May this band of Baptist boys ever emulate the virtues of him whose name they bear and may they indeed be earnest workers for Him whose ambassadors they are!

There were two dear old ladies present, Mrs. Ophelia Fowler and Mrs. Bess Teague, who are ever interested in church work. Their presence at our meetings is always an inspiration to younger ones.

Our welcome by the local society was such a cordial one—the pastor, Rev. Mr. Brock, who is sincerely loved by his people, was on hand to render any help and that Ford of his was put to good service one day! The deacons were there to see that the church was kept warm (and it might have been too, they had an eye on those baskets the sisters had) and that dinner spread and served by the good

EDINBURGH WORTH A VISIT

Time of Traveler Can Be Well Spent in an Inspection of the Scottish Capital.

There is generally an east wind blowing in Edinburgh, whipping the fog about, or else it is raining. Otherwise the climate is very attractive. When a clear day does come, you appreciate it. It is very calm and clear and bracing. You climb a hill—Edinburgh carries an assorted stock of hills—and you look down on a city that is picturesque in the fullest and broadest application of that overworked polysyllable. Edinburgh is easily the most picturesque capital in Europe.

The castle keeps you from looking at anything else for the first fifteen or twenty minutes. It stands in the middle of things, capping a hill that shoots up almost straight from the level. You cannot see where the hill leaves off and the castle begins; it seems to have grown from the living rock beneath it. They tell you that the castle has never been taken by assault, though it has been perched there for a thousand years or so. You are not surprised at the statement, but you indulge in a little mild speculation as to the particular form of foolishness that led anybody to assault it.

After a while you look away from the castle and size up the city at large. Miles of gray mansions spiked with towers and spires stretch before you, backed and cut off in all directions by hills just rough and rocky enough to be decorative. Hundreds of little blue pennons of smoke arise from the chimneys. They do not consume their own smoke in Edinburgh; the Scots have nicknamed the capital "Auld Reekie."

Edinburgh is running over with historical association and the tradition of greatness. Here the national life of Scotland has centered ever since she had one. All her warriors, all her patriots, all her men of sciences and her poets have left their mark on the capital. As a result, Edinburgh has a personality as clear cut and individual as that of some great actress. She is as Scotch as Robert Burns. If you like the reticence, the mixture of sentiment and resolution that make the Scottish temperament, you will find Edinburgh a never-ending delight.

women—it was indeed a feast. So pleasant was the day, so cordial the welcome, I know I voice the sentiment of the union when I say we shall all be glad when the time comes for us to go to Second Laurens again.
Lovingly,
Oct. 28, 1916. "Aunt Kate."

Every grocery store has its customers who order POSTUM regularly instead of coffee.

They are former coffee drinkers who, for health's sake, changed their table drink.

If you suspect that coffee contributes to your discomfort or illness, ask the grocer for the names of several POSTUM users in your neighborhood; get in touch with them and hear their story.

Or, secure a tin of INSTANT POSTUM and try it on the family table for ten days instead of coffee.
