"Fair Tresses Man's Imperial Race Ensnare, and Beauty Draws Us With a Single Hair."—Pope.

Though we talk of Marcel waves as one of the crowning features of the new hair dressing, we may think it rather strange when we learn that ivory carved images from tombs as old as 5500 B. C., were found in Egypt. Evidently these are portraits of great ladies who were buried in Abydes. On three of the images the hair hangs long in back, but the top and sides are beautifully marcelled as well as part of that which hangs down the back. These images are supposed to be replicas of the souls of the dead and the hair is evidently dressed as when the person was alive; it was a current belief that immortality lasted as long as the tomb was undisturbed.

Fashions may be inspired by old styles, but there are so many modifications and changes that finally there only remains a semblance that one might call "after the style of a certain period," thought the coiffures may be taken from the period of 1830 the characteristics then were hardness and stiffness, which in our day is replaced by lightness and irregularity—the latter which is infinitely more artistic.

The new vogue in coiffures is marked by elaboration for dress wear. Dame Fashion's dictum that the hair should be beautifully waved, in soft, large, loose waves has been heeded. The curling iron should only be hot enough so that the fingers can hold it without being burned. It may take a little longer, but the result is just as pleasing. If the hair is inclined to be curly a wave may be produced by dampening the hair and inserting side combs for a short time.

If your face is long and thin, have your hair puffed at the sides, for it is ever so much more becoming. The one with a high forehead can part her hair and draw it back as full as possible from the sides of the face, while the one with a low forehead should wave her hair loosely and carry it back to the crown of the head, arranging it in a figure eight or a loose coil. The pompadour with its many variations is still with us. But in dressing your hair be careful of the line about the ears. Be sure and take a profile look before being satisfied with the result.

No one fashion prevails. You may wear your hair high or low, as fancy dictates, but every stand must find its place, for no loose locks are tolerated. The hair is kept close to the head in most instances. A style becoming to many has the hair brought high to the top of the head, with a small low pompadour over just one side. The simpler low styles are best liked for day time wear as they are much easier to achieve.

Another facile pompadour style has the hair arranged comfortably on the back with two puffs of wavy hair. These are fastened crosswise and then each is divided in two so you might be deceived in thinking there were two puffs. Ornamental hairpins and barette give both a practical and beautiful finish to this style.

"Mary, Mary, quite contrary" wears her hair parted at the right side and drawn low over the forehead waving about the ears and nape of the neck; then in place of a knot or puffs, on the crown of her head are the most captivating curls, which are turned down instead of up, so that the small ends flutter gently above the head.

There is a compromise hairdress, which, low in front, has the hair high in a knot, and may be finished with or without flirtatious curls. The huge Psyche knot appears often, and as usual has many devotees.

A simple fashion adapted to evening wear has the hair marcelled, then coiled across the back of the head just above the nape of the neck, with short curls pinned in below the coil. There is no law against adding a few flowers tastefully as a garniture.

The new hair ornaments add infinitely to the charm of the appearance of Milady. Nowadays we see Spanish combs among the new old things. These are usually thrust in at the back or below the puff and coil. A barette or fancy comb is an adequate finish as well as helps keep the stray locks in place. When one wears a barette it may often be more becoming if it is adjusted well up on the hair rather than very low. The new large hats for dress occasions show more of the head than previous seasons, so the ornaments will show to better advantage. Stones to match gowns are the thing, to carry out the definite color scheme of the costume. Garnets, topaz, amethysts, peridot, opals, tourmalines are used to glorify the ornaments.

An inclination toward the Oriental and antique is manifested. The Russian influence is apparent in ornaments as well as hairdressing.

Platinum forms many of the most gorgeous pins, often encrusted with precious gems. Smoked amber, jade and rock crystal are carved, it would seem, by an artist's hand.

Flexible-headed pins and large top combs as well as bandeaux and filets serve their purpose with the elaborate Psyche knots.

CROSS HILL NEWS.

Cross Hill, March 26.—Not long ago Mr. Luther E. Martin bought from Rev. W. D. Ratchford a Ford roadster. Last Friday he bought the mercantile business of B. A. Wharton & Son, giving in part payment his recently purchased Ford. He is now back in the same stand and in the same business that he sold more than a year ago, where he will be just as polite to his former customers as ever. Mr. John B. Wharton who managed the business will engage in farming.

Rev. W. I. Herbert, presiding elder of Greenwood, preached at the Methodist church here Sunday morning. His text was "And the Man Daniel Prospered". It was a splendid discourse and was delivered with force and power. In the afternoon he preached at Souls Chapel where he will hold quarterly conference today.

Misses Mary Hill of the Union schools and Floride Rudd of Lander college spent the week-end with their home people.

Mrs. Jessie Boyd of Greenville is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Turner.

Mr. J. R. Copeland, Jr., and family of Clinton wear the week-end guests of C. D. Nance and family.

Mr. J. W. Simmons has been numbered among the sick of our town for the last week, suffering from acute indigestion. He is doing very well now.

Mrs. Franklin of Greenwood is here with her nephew, Dr. G. F. Klugh, for a few days visit. She attended preaching service Sunday morning.

Miss Annie Caldwell of the Pine

Bluff school spent the week-end with the Misses Griffin.

Miss Blanche Pinson returned Saturday from a five weeks' visit to friends and relatives in Greenville, Greenwood and other places.

Miss Sarah Dwight of the Cross Hill school attended the State Teachers' Association in Columbia and used the occasion also to visit her home folks at Eastover. She reports the Teachers' convention as a great meeting, the best ever.

Miss Lizzie L. Griffin of the Cross Hill school was called home Thursday on account of the death of her cousin, Miss Evie Gary, of Newberry. She returned Sunday.

Col. J. H. Wharton of Waterloo was here Sunday to see his brother, B. A. Wharton, who is still quite sick. The latter will return to Chester today or tomorrow for further treatment.

NEWBERRY SHOOTING CAUSED BY DARKNESS

Negro Fires on Well Known Young Man Through Error—Wound Not Serious.

Newberry, March 25.—George Johnson, about 21 years of age, son of Andrew Johnson of Kinards, was shot with a shotgun last night at 7:30 o'clock, while walking along the railroad track at Kinards between the stores of J. A. Dominick and Smith Bros., by a negro named Henry Dendy, 40 or 45 years of age. Sheriff Blasco was notified at once by telephone and hurried to the scene, 13 miles from Newberry. When he got there he found that Lee Singley, Henry Dorroh and others had caught Dendy and had him under arrest, Mr. Dorroh being a magistrate. The capturers were perfectly quiet, and there was no threat of violence. The negro was turned over to the sheriff and brought to jail.

Dendy confessed that he shot Mr. Johnson. His story, which bears the marks of truth, is that he and another negro had had a fuss the day before, and that he knowing the other negro would pass along that way, lay in wait for him by the side of the railroad. When Mr. Johnson came along, it being too dark to see distinctly, he took him for his enemy and fired. The man whom Dendy thought he was shooting was only about 15 feet behind Mr. Johnson.

Immediately after the shooting Dr. T. H. Pope was summoned. He found that Mr. Johnson had been shot in the left side, and that the wound was an ugly one but not likely to prove serious.—The State.

Gay Court Downs Simpsonville.

Owings, S. C., March 26.—In a closely contested game Gray Court-Owings defeated Simpsonville 5 to 4 this afternoon. The feature of the game was a home run by Jeter Owings with three men on bases. Two hits and an error filled the bases and the big pitcher caught a fast one and sent it over the left-fielder's head for a home run. Cecil Gray played a good game at short, fielding several difficult chances. For the visitors, Wilson, the fast and lucky pitcher, played the best ball. Green started off the game but was knocked out in the 5th inning and Wilson took his place. This makes four games the local boys have played and have not lost any.

DIALS NEWS.

Dials, March 26.—Mr. W. C. Curry had the misfortune to lose two very fine milk cows recently from hydrophobia. It seems the cows were bitten some time ago by a dog presumably suffering from rabies. Notwithstanding the cows bitten underwent a course of treatment, to no avail, however, as they developed the disease and were killed.

Mr. C. F. Brooks, of Laurens, spent several days last week with home folks.

Miss Willie May Godfrey has returned from an extended visit with relatives in Tuxedo, N. C.

Messrs Will Adair, S. R. Gray, D. D. Brownlee, Ambrose Holder and E. H. Reeves were among the number from this place who motored up to Greenville and "took in" one day of the automobile show last week.

Miss Jewell Curry and Mrs. G. G. Harley have returned from Rock Hill where they were in attendance at the state meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, as delegates from the two societies at this place.

Miss Anna Switzer is still on the sick list, her many friends, however, are glad to know she is improving and hope ere long she will be entirely convalescent.

Miss Maurie Simpson of Gray Court, was the week-end guest of her sister, Mrs. Wistar Owings.

Mr. and Mrs. John Tripp of Chandler, were week-end visitors of Mr. John Owings and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Gray and little son spent Sunday with Mr. Harris Curry and family.

Mrs. Owingby and her mother, Mrs. Daniel, are visiting relatives in Switzer this week.

Misses Clara McCall and Laurie Hellams, spent Monday in Laurens shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bolt and children of Hickory Tavern, were Sunday visitors of Mrs. J. R. Brownlee and family.

Mr. Hammonds of Spartanburg, is spending a few days with his friend, Mr. J. M. Owings.

Mr. and Mrs. Fate Henderson, and little daughter of Durbin and Mr. and Mrs. Yates' Cox of Friendship, were the guests of Mr. Sam Switzer and family Sunday.

The Rev. G. G. Harley filled his regular appointment here Sunday afternoon. He had for his subject: "Education in the Christian Life", and it was handled in the pastor's usual manner.

terful manner and was greatly enjoyed by the large crowd present.

There will be an educational rally at Dials on the 15th of April. Educational speeches by prominent speakers are to be part of the well arranged program. The public is urged to attend this morning service, a cordial welcome will await all. The same program will be carried out at Gray Court in the afternoon.

From Rev. Richard Carroll.

To the Editor:

By invitation of the Rev. A. W. Hill, pastor of the colored Baptist church in Laurens, on the 11th of March I went to speak for him. When I arrived in the city the news went around that I was hired by white people to speak against the migration of the negro from the South to the North, and that some white people were paying me for my lectures. I told the Rev. Hill that I would change the subject of my lecture and give some attention to the spirit of migration at his request. I wanted to prove to him that in every community in the South there were Christians of every denomination that would respond to worthy appeals from colored people and that I believed if the appeal was properly out before the white people they would help furnish seats for his church in which he expects to entertain the Colored Baptist State Convention the last of May.

Cash and pledges contributed by the white people present was gratifying and proved the truth of my statement. I tried to show that the South's problem between the two races could be settled right here by the two races working together in harmony. I still have hope in the future of the South. There is a better day just ahead for both races. I asked no negro not to go North but I said if any went I hope they will stay, and I tried to make it plain that not a single white man had ever asked me to make a speech against their going.

I write this letter because there are several colored readers who take your paper. For 20 years I have been misunderstood by them. I have never been afraid to stand up anywhere and give the proper advice regardless of personal consequences. The South is the garden spot of America for both white and colored, if we would follow the Golden Rule and stand for law, order and justice.

Richard Carroll.
