

The performance of the Canadian soldiers in the great war will reflect glory on their country and race, as long as history lasts. But their record is matched by that of the women of Canada who have thrown themselves heart and soul into war work of all kinds. They have shown energy and endurance and bravery equal to that of their men. There is no calculating the value of the services they have given and the sacrifices they have made.

The same disposition to help shows itself among women all over this country. There are few among us so dense as to fail to see that it is disgraceful to be a slacker in times like these.

The government cannot do all the work that must be done for the soldiers and for those he leaves when he goes out to war. The soldier must be provided with clothing, socks, underwear, shirts, sweaters, mufflers and mitts, when on duty. These things wear out and must be replaced. Hospitals must be supplied with sleeping garments, slippers, bandages, dressings, and an endless stream of surgical supplies must flow into them, besides sheets, pillow cases and other things that are made by women. Comfort kits are to be furnished for every fighting man, and every one is entitled to messages from someone back home, whether he has relatives and friends there or not.

Prisoners and the men in hospitals are to be remembered with letters and provisions, when possible. And besides all this, for the soldiers, there is the work of looking after the well-fare of the poorer families left at home.

All these things require the volunteer work of women, money and more money. Women are showing themselves equal to the task set them. The thing for each one to do is to decide what part of the service she will enter, and to enlist in that and serve as long as she is needed. Social distinctions count for nothing; all are working together in churches, clubs, societies, to furnish supplies of all kinds, money and to do the work at hand whatever it is.

Late Summer Hats.

If you want to give a little more wear to one of your straw hats, get enough of the heavily plaited material to go around the crown. This is sold by the yard, in all different qualities—some with only two or three thicknesses of layers and some with half a dozen. Of course it doesn't stand the weather very well, but it does give a dainty finish that refreshes and refurbishes a sun-worn hat and makes it wearable for a few weeks more.

Huge Silk Bags Match Suits.

Huge metre or other silk bags, in suit colorings and mounted on frames are being carried by New York women. They are something entirely new in handbags. While not really knitting bags, they are long enough to hold the needles and large enough in every way.

Fine Example of Tailored Suit

In the styles so far presented for fall and winter there are no radical departures from those of the passing season. Usually when the time comes to buy new clothes, the attention of the feminine public is almost wholly centered on incoming styles. But just now other absorbing interests are taking so much time that women are best suited with conservative ideas in dress. They are readjusting their lives in order to become helpful in time of war.

The most noticeable difference between the tailored suit for fall and those of last spring is in the length of coats. In coat suits the coats are longer. But a plain three-quarter length even if it did service last year, will find itself much at home among the plain suits just turned out. Besides added length the fall coats present a new feature in placing of trimmings. In many of them decoration appears only at the sides of the coat, where short bands of fur or braid or stitching find a place.

Soft surfaces, like wool velours, and quiet colors, are characteristic of the season. Colors most popular are those classed as "the fur colors" including taupe, gray, brown castor, beige, dark wine and the shades of amethyst in the richest tones relieve a range that would otherwise be too grave. Dark blue is good as always.

in the picture and is a model which looks well in any of the popular wool materials. The skirt has a panel with two plaits at each side down the back, which correspond to plaits in the coat. It is otherwise plain.

The coat is semitailored with two straps of the material across the back at the waistline. Below these is a straight panel like that in the skirt. A panel finished with three rows of braid at the bottom is set in at each side below a long side body which fastens over it with a button.

The pointed muller collar is a new development of this admirable and popular style in collars. From every standpoint this is a fine example among well-tailored suits.

Way to Clean Pongee.

Try gasoline, or ether and naphtha mixed in equal parts. Do not use these fluids where there will be any danger of combustion. If you use the gasoline immerse the material in it and then squeeze gently several times, paying special attention to the grease spots. Do not wring the pongee, but hang it out in the open air where the gasoline will quickly evaporate. When the material has become dried repeat the cleaning process.

"The Price of Pride" Friday.

One of the most thrilling of stories is told in "The Price of Pride" the striking new World-Picture Brady-Made which comes to the Opera House on Friday. The story deals with the life and adventures of two half brothers who grow up without knowing each other but look alike as two peas. They meet under strange and startling circumstances in a western gambling house and from their meeting evolves a most remarkable situation. Carlyle Blackwell plays the roles of the half brothers and plays them splendidly. June Elvidge is seen in a powerful and effective role and Evelyn Greeley appears in an appealing part. The production is staged on an elaborate scale and moves swiftly without a single dragging moment from start to finish.

T. G. Traynham Buried.

The funeral of the late T. Gibbon Traynham, who died in Phoenix, Ariz., last Monday, was held at the Laurens cemetery Monday at noon, the Rev. C. F. Rankin conducting the services. Many friends of the deceased attended the last rites and floral tributes were numerous. The following acted as pall bearers: S. P. Babb, Laurens; Barksdale, R. V. Irby, R. C. Gray, D. P. Swygert, Clyde T. Franks, Richard Childress, Orie Anderson, C. M. Miller, H. S. Blackwell and W. S. Pover. Mr. Traynham, who was a man of considerable means, left no will and his property, consisting largely of city and country real estate, is inherited by his brother, Mr. Ryland P. Traynham.

Off to Honolulu.

Congressman Sam Nichols of this district will be one of the congressional party who will leave on October 21 for Honolulu to inspect proposed army camp sites and fortifications on the coast of Hawaii. Members of the committee on military and naval affairs will be in the party. He will return to the United States December 6.

At Opera House Monday.

"The Slave" a stirring drama of the problems and perils facing a working girl in the present day life, with Valeska Suratt in the stellar role, is the William Fox feature which will be the main attraction at the Opera House on Monday.

The title role is peculiarly adapted to Miss Suratt's powers as an actress. Her supporting cast, which includes Violet Palmer, who starred in "The Blue Streak" with William Nigh, Eric Mayne, Dan Mason and Herbert Heyes leaves nothing to be desired. The drama was written and directed by William Nigh, famous for "The Blue Streak" and many other film gems.

Caroline, the role played by Miss Suratt, is a forelady in a Fifth Avenue fashion shop. She spurns the tempting life of luxury led by the models in the shop.

Old Moneybags, twice Caroline's age, proposes to her. Urged on by her mother and visions of many years of hard work before her she accepts, despite a warning dream. The dream vividly portraying her life as an old man's darling and a slave of luxury furnishes a vivid story.

Goggans-Copeland.

Newberry, Oct. 13.—Much cordial interest centered in the marriage of Miss Eva Goggans and J. C. Copeland of Columbia, which took place Tuesday morning at 8:15 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. C. Welein, on Harrington Street. The Rev. E. V. Babb, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated, using the beautiful ring ceremony, which was witnessed only by the immediate families. The bride was becomingly gowned in a modish suit of gray with accessories in harmony, and her flowers were lavender, orchids and bride roses. Immediately after the ceremony, amid the congratulations and good wishes of the little wedding party, Mr. and Mrs. Copeland left on the 9 o'clock Southern for a short bridal trip, after which they will be at home in Columbia, where the groom is a successful young business man of the firm of Copeland Company. Mrs. Copeland is a native of Newberry and numbers her friends among old and young and her charming young womanliness and brightness of manner made her a favorite.

"The impulse of sacrifice for the common good is sending the youth of our country into the trenches in defense of liberty, humanity and democracy. To those of us who must of necessity remain at home to till the soil, harvest the crops, man the factories, mines and mills, the way is open for additional service. We too, must make sacrifices."

Official reports of subscriptions up to the close of business last night sent by 11 of the 12 representative banks, show but little progress, the total standing at $399,651,000, or only about 8 per cent. of the $5,000,000,000 hoped for. Following are the figures, as announced by the treasury department:

Reported	Allotted
Boston . . . $ 59,100,000	$500,000,000
New York . . . 250,910,000	1,500,000
Phila. 16,617,900	415,000,000
Cleveland . . . 1,971,000	500,000,000
Richmond . . . 21,827,000	200,000,000
Atlanta 5,531,000	135,000,000
Chicago 10,661,000	700,000,000
St. Louis 3,786,000	200,000,000
Minneapolis 175,000,000
Kansas City . . . 2,025,000	200,000,000
Dallas 3,175,000	125,000,000
San Fran. 21,111,000	350,000,000

Unreported sales added to the official figures doubtless greatly increase the total; the statement reads, "possibly to $450,000,000 or $700,000,000. Conservative estimates from the Chicago, New York, Cleveland and San Francisco districts alone add $180,000,000. The total of the other districts are thought not to exceed $100,000,000.

In other words, the latest official figures and most careful estimates of unreported sales make it appear that not more than 11 per cent of the maximum quota has been subscribed. If it is to be attained $358,000,000 worth of bonds must be sold every working day between now and the close of the drive."

Health Hints.

Don't eat too much, don't drink too much, don't work too hard, keep on the shady side of the street and keep your health.
