

Local and Personal Mention.

Miss Cora Armstrong is at home for the holidays.
 Private Job Little, of Camp Jackson, is at home for a few days on furlough.
 Mr. W. O. Compton, of Ware Shoals, was a visitor in the city yesterday.
 Mr. C. W. Brunson, of near Gray Court, was a visitor in the city Wednesday.

Lieut. Frank McGowan is spending the holidays at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. McGoan.

Mr. Frank Reid, who is in the navy, arrived in the city several days ago to spend the holidays with his parents.

Miss Harriet Simpson, who is teaching near Columbia, is at home for the holidays.

Mr. Jamie Roland blew in from Hartsville yesterday to be at home Christmas.

Mr. C. R. Moseley spent Monday in the city.

Mr. John Y. Garlington arrived in the city Sunday to be with his wife and mother for the holidays.

Miss Lola Anderson, who is teaching at Spartanburg, came down for the holidays Monday.

Prof. and Mrs. Watkins, of Columbia, are spending a part of the holidays with Mrs. Watkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Tolbert.

Mr. B. M. Wolff left yesterday for Winston-Salem to join Mrs. Wolff and spend the holidays there with their relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Young and little daughter, of Gaffney, are spending Christmas in the city with Mrs. Sallie D. Young.

In letters received by Miss Julia Irby from her two brothers, Capt. J. L. M. Irby and Lieut. P. B. Irby, the good news is conveyed that both are safe.

Miss Wil Lou Gray, who is connected with the department of education in Columbia, and Miss Hattie D. Gray, who is studying in New York, are at home for the holidays.

Mr. M. Adolphus Riddle, who has been with Bramlett's shop for a number of years, has accepted a position with the Laurens Hardware Company and has already entered upon his duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Langdon Long and Langdon, Jr., are spending Christmas week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wash Long, on Irby Avenue. Professor Long is Principal of the city schools in Sumter.

Mr. Archie L. Adams, for many years a printer in both The Herald and Advertiser offices, is spending the holidays in the city among his relatives and friends here. Mr. Adams is now working at his old trade in Chatham, Va.

Sergt. "Judge" Eichelberger, who is now in camp at Montgomery, Ala., is spending the holidays in the city with home folks. This is the first time he has returned since he left here with Company D for the Mexican border in 1916, and his many friends are glad to see him again.

The boys and girls who have been away from home for the past three months attending various colleges, began to pour in town Saturday and a steady stream has been kept up since then. The Advertiser hired a special reporter to turn in the names, but at the time of going to press the gentleman had evidently failed to make good on the job, so this valuable list is omitted today.

Mr. H. C. Duncan, of Jonesville, passed through the city yesterday on his way home from Cold Point, where he had been to visit his father, Mr. O. C. Duncan, who has been quite sick. He was accompanied home by his brother, Mr. W. C. Duncan, now a resident of Bamberg.

"Uncle Press" Adair, of Clinton, and "Uncle John" Finley, of Madden Station, two old Confederate war horses, were visitors in the city yesterday. "Uncle John" was dressed up in a brand new suit of clothes of the latest style and pattern just as if he were on his way home from Wofford or some other college where these fancy styles prevail. "Uncle Press" wasn't dressed up so stylishly, but he looked good all the same, and both of them were apparently enjoying the best of health.

Culbertson—Wallace.
 Hugh S. Wallace, a prominent citizen and farmer of the Shiloh section, and Miss Myrtle Culbertson, a well known and popular teacher of the county, were married at the bride's home near Ekam, December 12, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. James R. Williams of Laurens.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR LIEUT. CLAUDE S. GARRETT

Impressive Services at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday Night. Obituary Adopted by the Congregation Standing.

Beautiful and impressive services commemorating the death in action of Lieut. Claude S. Garrett were held at the First Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member, Sunday night. The services were presided over by the pastor, Rev. C. T. Squires, and were participated in by the pastors and congregations of the other churches of the city. Addresses extolling the qualities of the deceased young soldier were made by former superintendent of schools, B. L. Jones, and by Dr. H. K. Aiken. A musical program was rendered by the choir, a special violin solo being played by Mr. James McCray and a pianologue being given by Mrs. J. H. Teague. Following the addresses by Mr. B. L. Jones and Dr. Aiken, in which the exemplary character, the loyalty and devotion of the young soldier, both as a child and as a young man were depicted, a sermon on the Text, "I am the Resurrection and the Life" was preached by the pastor.

The resolutions read by Rev. C. T. Squires and adopted by the congregation while standing with bowed heads, were as follows:

"The elder son of Guy Stokes and Margeret Garland Garrett was born in Laurens, S. C., June 2, 1896. After attending school in his home town, he entered Clemson College and was graduated May, 1917, with distinction. His country's call, however, preceded graduation and he enlisted in the first officers' training school at Oglethorpe.

Again a call to sacrifice prevented the completion of his course, when he volunteered for the hazardous aerial service, declining the certainty of a commission in the infantry.

Out of the five thousand at the training camp he was one of the honored twenty five selected for training; first at Victoria College, Toronto, then at Camp Hicks, Fort Worth, Texas. The training was concluded abroad, across the English Channel.

By mid-summer Lieut. Garret was flying one of the great Liberty motored aeroplanes away over the lines into German territory to gain information for the American army, and it is reported that he had twelve enemy planes to his credit.

During these months Lieut. Garrett was an instructor in flying the Liberty motor machine, and toward the close of his brilliant career this lad of scarce twenty-two years was acting as "flight commander," a service usually performed by a major of the aerial branch.

While on an observation trip to secure photographs of certain enemy positions his small escort of six planes was attacked by an enemy squadron of probably five or six times that number at an approximate altitude of ten thousand feet. The Lieut.-Observer in his plane was killed and an explosive bullet struck his gas tank. In a moment the machine was in flames. With rare presence of mind Claude fastened the control and crawled out on the wing to which he clung while the big machine rapidly descended in great circles. When only 150 feet from the ground the heat became in-

No Worms in a Healthy Child
 All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILTONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.

tolerable, the charred hands lost their hold, and our brave young hero dived headlong to death—and glory.

At 4 o'clock, October 10th, 1918, in the cemetery three miles northeast of Toul the body of Lieut. Claude S. Garrett was laid to rest with full military honors, the casket wrapped in the Stars and Stripes.

Claude Garrett attended the Sabbath School of this church with rare devotion, receiving for five consecutive years the "bar" for perfect attendance. When a little boy, hardly nine years of age, he united with this church, and although a lover of the sports and amusements, he was not unmindful of life's more serious concerns. As an upper-class man at Clemson he taught a Bible class of Sophmores.

The Presbyterian Church and the town of Laurens consider themselves honored in producing this chivalrous young aviator, who so eagerly, insistently, nobly and heroically dedicated his all to the service of our country in the cause of the emancipation of mankind from the thralldom of despotism; and we do now, in solemn assembly, express our admiration for his heroic sacrifice, and commend his bereaved mother, sister and brother to the blessed Savior who is able to keep them from falling, and to present them faultless before the presence of His glory; to Whom be glory, honor and dominion forevermore. Amen.

FOR CROUP.

"Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is splendid for croup," writes Mrs. Edward Hasset, Frankfort, N. Y. "My attacks of this dreadful complaint by its use." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult.

"IT HAS MADE MY MY LITTLE BOY SPRY AS A RABBIT!"

Six-Year Old Boy Was Thin and Puny. Father Gave Him Dreco and "I Can Almost See Him Grow, Now," He Says.

As the school term reaches its height, attention is directed to the oft-repeated advice of leading educators, warning teachers, parents and scholars against the fearful results of exhaustive brain work among young people.

To thousands of boys and girls, un-nerved by the strain of school life, Dreco, the wonderful new herbal medicine has been found a blessing, making them well and strong, feeding the brain and nerves, and enriching and purifying the blood.

The recent recommendation of Dreco by leading authorities and the equally outspoken praise of this greatest of remedies by scores of parents throughout the south are the best recommendations any medicine can have.

Nothing in the world so strengthens the weak, so readily restores lost nerve force, so surely makes the ailing and peevish young woman or growing boy well and cheerful as a treatment by Nature's own beneficent methods.

"My little son, Varney, was in a terribly run-down condition," declares R. L. Lewis, a highly respected farmer of R. F. D. No. 3, Winston-Salem, N. C. He has always been a puny and delicate child and I couldn't get anything to make him grow. But Dreco has hit the spot and he is improving wonderfully every day. His color is good, appetite fine, and I can almost see him grow. It has made him as spry as a rabbit and I told him the other day I would have to slow him up as he was getting too live."

Dreco does its curative work in a simple, straightforward way. It wastes little time in getting all its energies to work feeding the tired, worn-out nervous tract, filling the arteries with rich, new blood, and building up the body for its fight against disease.

Dreco is sold throughout the country by leading druggists and is particularly recommended in Laurens by Laurens Drug Co.
