LIVER DIDN'T ACT DIGESTION WAS BAD

Says 65 year Old Kentucky Lady, Who Tells How She Was Relieved After a Few Doses of Black-Draught.

Meadersville, Ky.—Mrs. Cynthia Higginbotham, of this town, says: "At my age, which is 65, the liver does not act so well as when young. A few years ago, my stomach was all out of fix. I was constipated, my liver didn't act. My digestion was bad, and it took so little to upset me. My appetite was gone. I was very weak. I decided I would give Black-Draught a thorough trial as I knew it was highly recommended for this trouble. I began taking it. I felt better after a few doses. My appetite improved and I became stronger. My bowels acted naturally and the least trouble was soon righted with a few doses of Black-Draught." Seventy years of successful use has made Thedford's Black-Draught a standard, household remedy. ### LUEDENDORFF TELLS OF GERMAN DEFEAT

Famous German General Reviews Happenings Prior to Signing of Armistice.

Berlin, April 4.—One of the Berlin newspapers today prints extracts from the forthcoming book written by General Ludendorff, former first quartermaster general of the German army. General Ludendorff says the defeat of the Germans on August eighth, (in the Franco-British offensive near Albert and North of Montdidier) finally resulted in the Germans losing hope of a military victory.

Conferences were held with Chancellor Von Hertling, Admiral Von Hertling, the foreign minister, and Field Marshal Von Hindenburg on August 14, 15 and 16, and there also was a meeting of the crown council "At which I clearly stated that the war could no longer be won militarily," says Ludendorff.

At the beginning of September the supreme army command invited Von Hertling and Von Hintz to Spa, Ludendorff adds. Von Hertling excused himself from attending on account of his advanced age.

"I opposed Baron Burian's step for peace on account of its vagueness, but favored an immediate peace step in some other form," Ludendorff says. (Burian was the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, and constantly was sending out peace feelers).

"The supreme command," Ludendorff continues, "had an idea of mediation by Holland. On September 8 renewed discussions between Von Hintz, Von Hindenburg and myself were followed by a report to the kaiser. Von Hintz was the first to allude to a change on internal grounds.

"I then spoke as follows: 'We must now act energetically on the armistice and peace questions. The entire situation in Europe may undergo a change to our disadvantage. The western front may at any time have to withdraw further, and the worse our military situation becomes the harder will be the conditions. On the arrival of President Wilson's note I came to Berlin and submitted the following question to Von Hertling: 'Firstly, is the German people willing to fight on? Secondly, what is the German government's estimate of the Bolshevik danger, which I take very seriously? Thirdly, is the Ukraine necessary for our provisioning?'

"The second note to President Wilson was also sent in agreement with the supreme army command. The answer to it clearly showed that President Wilson no longer had the power to oppose the Entente demands. For the reply to the note the chancellor again invited me to Berlin.

"The military situation was unchanged. In the west, however, there was a consolidation and this circumstance, in conjunction with the declaration made by the war minister within a measurable period give the supreme command 600,000 men, made the situation appear such that we need not surrender until conditionally to President Wilson.

"I emphasized the necessity of replying to the note in a dignified tone, with due regard to the empire's interests. An abandonment of the U-boat war could not be considered. Admiral Scheer (former chief of the German admiralty staff) spoke in the same sense. This conception also continued to be held for some days in the war cabinet. Dr. Solf (former foreign minister) however, requested Count Wolf-Meternich and others to create a more yielding atmosphere. Success fell to Solf. The U-boat war ceased and the path to capitulation was trodden. Von Hindenburg immediately protested against this and proposed an appeal to the nation.

"It was clear from President Wilson's third answer that our opponents wanted to destroy us. Von Hindenburg and myself had no doubt that if we must fight we could still continue the war for some months."

"The utmost exertion of strength might perhaps have had a sobering effect on the enemy peoples and brought us a bearable peace. On Oct. 25 Von Hindenburg and I submitted this idea to the kaiser and later to Vice-Chancellor Von Payer. We gained the impression that the imperial government no longer was willing to fight but was ready to accept the hardest conditions.

"On the 26th I wrote my resignation but at Von Hindenburg's request I did not despatch it. Immediately afterward I learned that the supreme command had been violently attacked in the Reichstag on account of the order relative to the third Wilson note. This order had been rejected by me with the injunction 'let the matter become clear!' Only as the result of the clumsiness did the order get placed before Von Hindenburg and then it went out without my knowledge."

TELLS OF WILSON TALKING TO HUNS

Wireless Operator Says President Had Direct Wireless Parleys with Nauen. Tells Them They Must Get Rid of Kaiser.

New York, April 4.—The story of how President Wilson broke diplomatic precedent on Oct. 20, 1918, by direct parley with the Germans was told here today by C. M. Ripley, a wireless specialist of the General Electric Company.

It was exactly at noon on Oct. 20, Mr. Ripley said, when an operator in the naval wireless station at New Brunswick startled American and Allied government wireless operators with the call:

"POZ-POZ-POZ-DE NF NF NF—"

Translated, the call meant that "NFF", the New Brunswick station, was calling "POZ" the German government wireless station at Nauen.

Visions of daring treachery on the part of some naval wireless operator or equally daring German spy operations, Mr. Ripley imagines, flitted through the minds of operators who were not "on the inside" of President Wilson's plan.

Almost immediately there flashed back from the Nauen station the patronizing comment:

"You signals are fine, old man."

Then the New Brunswick operator began sending President Wilson's first message to the German people, couched in plain, terse English, and informing them that no peace negotiations could be considered until William Hohenzollern had stepped down and out. From that time until the signing of the armistice, Mr. Ripley said, the President maintained direct wireless communication with Germany, couching all his messages in plain English which the Allied governments could pick up by wireless and giving the texts to the American public as soon as the messages had been sent.
