

LIFT CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers

Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off. When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

GERMANY IS BUYING MUCH COTTON

This is Given as One Reason for the Recent Advance.

The following is from The New York Times: Large German purchases of the better grades of American cotton, it was learned yesterday, have been one of the principal reasons for the recent sensational advance in price in Southern markets, especially in Texas, where the best grades are to be had and where spot cotton has sold above 40 cents a pound for the first time since the civil war.

It was estimated by men in the cotton trade yesterday that more than 500,000 bales of choice grades had been bought by Germans or German agents since the present cotton season began on Aug. 1, and of this total probably more than 250,000 bales already have been exported. On Monday more than 30,000 bales were shipped out of Savannah direct to Hamburg, making the total of direct shipments to German ports since August 1, something more than 100,000 bales. In addition, it is believed that at least 150,000 bales have been sent to Germany by way of neutral countries, and it is understood that much more will be exported within a few weeks.

Germany's purchases of American cotton, according to trade authorities, have been considerably larger in the last two months than those of any other foreign country except England. On direct shipment France has taken only 85,000 bales so far, while exports to England have amounted to about 470,000 bales. The Germans, it is said, have been buying only the better grade and apparently are not haggling over prices, for reports from the South say the German interests have been buying more aggressively in the last few days than a month or so ago, when prices were $15 to $20 a bale lower than they are now.

No large credits have been arranged here for the benefit of German importers, so far as is known, but it is understood that some private credits have been provided and also that many American exporters have set plans afoot to use their own credit in assisting the movement. Remittances from Germany have been coming in in rather large volume recently which is one of the reasons ascribed for the steady decline in the quotation for reichsmarks, which yesterday fell to a new low record of about 31-10 cents to the mark.

However, it is understood that the principal expedient used thus far in financing exports of cotton to Germany has been credits secured by Germans in neutral European countries. Germany, according to reports, has been exporting raw materials and some finished goods to the Scandinavian countries and to Holland, and in return for these has received credits which have been used in the United States. The volume of business done in this way, it is said, has run to many millions of dollars and has allowed German importers to buy goods here, chiefly cotton, without suffering unduly on account of their depreciated exchange.

Most of the cotton forwarded to Germany and to the European neutrals has not gone through the Port of New York. On the contrary, the great bulk of the business has been moved from Galveston, New Orleans and Savannah, where it is received from the big Southern spot markets.

Protect Your Cotton.

There is quite a lot of cotton being hauled from the gins back to the farms. Practically every bale ginned in Oconee up to this time is perfect cotton and will bring the highest market price if kept in its present condition.

But it won't bring that price if it is thrown out on the ground on the farms and the under sides of the bales allowed to accumulate moisture from the soil, and the exposed sides permitted to take alternate rain and sunshine. This sort of exposure is sure to damage the quality of the cotton. True, the damage will not extend entirely through the bales, but when the cotton is sold it will bring the price that the surface condition shows in grading. No reasonable man will question the justice of this. The outer portion of the bale is the only source of judging the quality of the entire bale.

Be reasonable, says Stemming for the plaintiff. Meeting of D. A. R. Henry Laurens chapter your cotton will meet Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Dial Gray at 3:30 o'clock same price as

LEGION MEETS IN FIRST CONVENTION

At Fine Meeting Two Greenville Men Chosen Delegates National Gathering.

Columbia, Oct. 28.—Meeting in Columbia today in its first convention, the South Carolina branch of the American Legion assembled with every rank represented from private to major general among the delegates, and a former private, Julius H. Walker of Columbia, presiding as state commander.

The convention amended its constitution to provide that its members shall be white, indorsed a memorial building rather than a hospital as the official South Carolina memorial to men from that state who died in the war and elected delegates to the national convention in Minneapolis next month. Among the delegates named were Elliott W. Springs, American "ace" and Philip H. Stoll, representative-elect from the Sixth South Carolina congressional district. Addresses were delivered by Henry Breckenridge, former assistant secretary of war; Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, paymaster general of the navy, a South Carolinian; Governor Robert A. Cooper and Major General George W. Read, commander of Camp Jackson, who commanded the Second army corps in France. Major General W. A. Clark, commander of the South Carolina division, United Confederate Veterans, was a guest of the legion at the convention.

Delegates to the national convention elected this afternoon were: Irvine F. Belzer, Columbia; W. D. Workman, Greenville; George W. Wannamaker, Jr., St. Matthews; P. H. Stoll, Kingstree; L. K. Legg, Charleston, Bernard Manning, Spartanburg; Elliott Springs, Lancaster; John J. McSwain, Greenville; Motrey Johnson, Marion; Julius S. Walker, Columbia; L. H. Kohn, Newberry; B. B. Elkhoff, Norway; H. B. Malone, Chester; Lloyd S. Smith, Easley; Reid Elkins, Hampton; L. C. Wannamaker, Cheraw; J. D. Smyzer, Florence; S. C. Williams, Norway.

No meeting place was decided upon for the next convention, this being left to the executive committee. Invitations were received from Columbia, Spartanburg and Charleston. The convention was a splendid success, readily establishing the fact that the American Legion is rapidly spreading in this state.

IS QUART-A-MONTH LAW COMING?

Treaty is Signed, Says Columbia Record

The "wets" of South Carolina are in high hopes of being able to order a quart of whiskey for the Christmas celebration and they are even hoping that between this time and Christmas they may have the date and the signing of two quarts. The peace treaty, says The United States ser

And the "wets" are "pulling for" its ratification by the senate.

Attorney General Wolfe stated to a committee of the senate that his interpretation of the situation with respect to the prohibition is that the recent act of Congress in passing the wartime act of enforcement legislation means that until the signing of the German peace treaty, and that between the late and the 16th of next January the nation will be in statu quo, so that liquor is concerned, which would mean the quart-a-month law in far South Carolina, and the manufacture of liquor in Baltimore and in states where manufacture was allowed before the war. In other words, before war conditions would prevail.

It is understood that the German peace treaty be signed by the senate early in November and Washington interprets the ratification of the treaty as the end of the emergency period, so far as the whiskey question is concerned—the "wets" of South Carolina would it be allowed to order a quart of whiskey in November and then another quart in December, (and perhaps another in January.) This is the interpretation put on the prohibition by the Attorney General and also by the Internal Revenue department offices in Columbia. The length of the "oasis" will depend on the date of the signing of the peace treaty, it is said. The sooner the signing the further off the perpetual desert.

The act of congress provides for the enforcement of war time prohibition prior to the effectiveness of the constitutional amendment. War time prohibition was created for the period of the war, which interpretation from Washington says will end with the signing of the German peace treaty.

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. — had us get Cardui. . . I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."
