THE LAW ON LIQUOR.

How the Kilskey Situation Stands at the Present Time.

(Sassary, in the Baltimore Sun.) Washington, Oct. 8.—Because of the confusion which exists in many minds over the status of prohibition legislation in the light of recent enactments, vetoes, etc., a few plain statements of fact regarding the situation might prove enlightening.

First of all, the nation-wide constitutional amendment, ratified by the necessary three-fourths of the States, on January 16, 1919, will go into effect on January 16, 1920.

Under this announcement the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes will be forever barred.

Enforcement legislation has now been enacted by Congress providing that any spirituous, vinous or malt liquor containing more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol shall be regarded as intoxicating.

Meanwhile statutory wartime prohibition, enacted just before the armistice was signed, went into effect last July 1st.

This legislation is to remain in effect until the President by executive proclamation declares that the army has been demobilized and peace has returned.

In an announcement to the country today the President gave notice that upon the ratification of the treaty of peace with Germany, he would lift the wartime prohibition ban against the sale of liquor, not waiting for the ratification of the treaty with Austria.

Until this comes to pass, however, wartime prohibition will remain in operation and enforcement legislation has now gone into effect which puts the country upon a straight bone-dry basis.

This enforcement legislation was passed by Congress 12 days ago, sent to the White House and yesterday was vetoed by the President.

Three hours later the house, by a vote of 176 to 55, passed the enforcement measure over the presidential veto and this afternoon the Senate overrode the veto by a vote of 65 to 20.

Enforcement legislation, therefore, is to be delayed no longer and the machinery for carrying out the law is automatically transferred from the Department of Justice to the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department.

If the veto had been sustained in either house of Congress the enforcement legislation would have been dead and the two bodies would have had to begin the reconstruction of an entirely new measure.

The wartime prohibition act as originally passed provided no legal definition for the term "intoxicating liquors" and certain federal courts, notably that in Baltimore, ruled that 2.75 per cent beer was not intoxicating and, therefore, not prohibited.

The enforcement act, however, defines liquor as that having an alcoholic content of more than one-half of 1 per cent and the court decisions were wiped out when the Senate concurred in the House veto action this afternoon.

U. S. SHATTERS

KAISER'S DREAM

Admiral Von Capelle Says He Believed Victory Was Sure Before U. S. Was Ready.

Berlin, Nov. 7.—(Dr. Alfred Zimmerman, secretary for foreign affairs during the war, caused a wild sensation during today's sessions of the national assembly committee investigating the war when he admitted the German authorities had been suspicious that their code, which was known by an American, was betrayed by the United States government.

Count Bernstorff, asked regarding the code, at first said he could not swear that wireless messages received in America had been kept from the entente. Later he said under oath that he never knew of such treason. He declared Germany had a difficult and dangerous cable route through neutral countries, but that messages had been concealed as commercial dispatches.

The submarine warfare came into the investigation again today. Vice Admiral von Capelle, one of the advocates of the submarine campaign, said the U-boats had not been able to get at American transports because each submarine covered a limited circle around England and the whole ocean could not be patrolled. Various British and American inventions, like the "listening boats," Admiral von Capelle declared, were other things which prevented attacks on transports.

Admiral von Capelle did not mention mines or depth bomb charges during his recital. He would not admit that the admiralty underestimated the United States as a factor in the war, but declared it was known from England's experience with a volunteer army, that the United States could not raise many troops in six months, and it was thought by the time they were trained the war would be over. Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, chancellor during the greater part of the war, declared he was of the opinion during June and July, 1917, that the submarines were so destructive that England was weakening. He said Lloyd George's speech for "ships, ships" was recognized as a probable peace opportunity, and he said the same could be said of the speech of Mr. Lloyd George at Glasgow demanding "silver and bullets."

What has been the impression regarding the entrance of the United States into the war was then discussed by the committee. Von Bethmann-Hollweg declared that any man who read the Lusitania and Sussex notes of the United States would have known this was inevitable.

Dr. Zimmerman was asked whether he said in a general party meeting regarding the submarine warfare, and the entry of the United States into the war, that American aid would militarily amount to "zero," "zero," "zero". The former foreign minister evaded the question.

General Ludendorff has been summoned to appear before the committee tomorrow.

Equip Your Car With Millers Get Long Distance Mileage

FORMERLY motorists had to depend upon luck in their tire buying. Occasionally a "lucky" tire would give unusual mileage. Others of the same make would blow out after 500 or 1,000 miles.

There is no mileage limit on Miller Tires. Each is guaranteed against imperfections in material and labor regardless of the mileage run.

In addition to uniform long distance mileage, Miller Tires give you utmost safety. The famous Geared-to-the-Road Tread engages the ground as you go. This protects you against skidding and slipping on rough, rutty roads, and slippery pavements.
