Student Body Meeting Saturday Puts in the Discard the Subject of Frats, Jim Perry Offers Resolution in the Midst of Explanations on Recent Lobby.

Columbia, March 14.—All talk of fraternities and subrosas at the University was voted into the discard Saturday, when a meeting of the student body of the institution unanimously adopted a resolution by James Perry, member of the junior law class and assistant foot ball coach, to the effect that all discussion of the subject of fraternities be dispensed with until next year.

The question of fraternities came up when E. B. Smith, member of the junior law class, made an explanation of his position regarding the recent legislative fight over the bill to legalize fraternities. He stated that he had been a member of the student body committee appointed to petition the legislature to repeal the act prohibiting fraternities in state colleges. He said that certain reservations regarding the fraternity situation, having to do with the existence of subrosas, had been disregarded by the education committee of the state Senate, thus leaving him free to work against the bill as reported to the state Senate and not to continue his support.

Guy Gullick, another member of the committee, stated that he had had the same instructions from the student body to support the bill, with the reservations, and that when the reservations were laid aside by the committee in the Senate, Mr. Gullick kept up his fight for the bill, believing that the report of the education committee was better than no fraternity bill.

At this juncture in the student meeting Mr. Perry offered his resolution that the subject of fraternities be dispensed with for the remainder of this year, and the motion was carried unanimously.

file with the president for the trustees by 11:30 p. m. March 21 a written withdrawal of their approval of the 1st paragraph of the document. Those failing to comply shall be considered in a state of insubordination and shall be dropped from the rolls of the college without privilege of reinstatement at any time in the future. Members of these classes who do not return in accordance with the terms of the present leave without sufficient excuse in the opinion of the president, shall be adjudged deserters and dropped from the rolls as such.

Freshmen and sophomores who fail to return by 11:30 p. m. March 21 shall be adjudged to have violated paragraph 325 of Cadet Regulations and their names dropped from the college rolls. When those conditions have been met those cadets returning will be required to subscribe anew to the pledge given upon their former entrance and to make up all work missed.

The report of the trustees is 5,000 words in length. After reviewing testimony given before the board by representatives of junior and senior classmen, parents of freshmen and sophomores, members of the discipline committee, alumni and others, the trustees delivered a terrific arraignment of the action of the cadets as recited in the report. "The action of the cadets in view of the conditions found to exist is inexcusable," says the report.

Re-instatement of Cadet Crossland, who was given local punishment following his trial before the discipline committee of the faculty, was one of the demands contained in the ultimatum senior and junior classmen presented to the board of trustees. Refusal to consider any portion of the ultimatum was agreed upon instantly by the trustees. In the meantime, the following telegram was received by the college authorities:

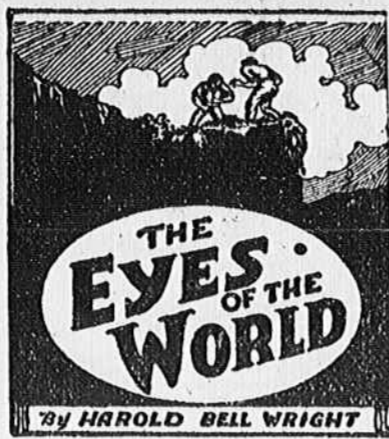

Bennettsville, S. C.
March 13, 1920.

President Riggs,
Clemson College, S. C.

Present request for new trial of case to board of trustees. Desire J. H. O'Dell and committee to represent me due to my absence.

M. E. Crossland.

As cadet regulations provided for appeal from the action of the discipline committee upon petition of the cadet involved, his parent or legal guardian, only, the request of Cadet Crossland for a new trial was consid-

Cadet M. E. Crossland was tried by the discipline committee and found guilty of disorder and yelling the word "Bolsheviki". He had been given a punishment of five weeks room arrest, 20 demerits and 20 extras. The room arrest confined the cadet to the limits of his room except when at college duties.

The board carefully reviewed the stenographic evidence taken at the trial, and heard the statements of cadets whom Crossland had delegated to represent him. These representatives made the point that the discipline committee had charged Cadet Crossland for a violation of Paragraph 238 of the Regulations, which refers to refractory and disrespectful conduct, but in the light of his claim not to have seen the commandant when he did the yelling, had found him guilty of violation of another paragraph, No. 263, which refers to disorders, neglects and irregularities prejudicial to good order and discipline which the committee considered a lesser included offense. The board ruled that this was a different offense and not a lesser included offense, and on this technical ground, rescinded the sentence and remanded the case back to the discipline committee, with the instruction that the cadet be tried on the charge of violation of paragraph 263 of the cadet regulations. If Cadet Crossland returns under the conditions laid down by the board, and the committee again finds him guilty, the cadet can again appeal to the board, when the board would pass upon the actual merits of the case.
