HARDING STRESSES AMERICAN RIGHTS

President-Elect Names Qualities Needed for Reconstruction, in New Orleans Talk. Assurance for Industrial Development of South Given. To Sail for Panama Today.

New Orleans, Nov. 18.—Plain living and square dealing were invoked by President-elect Harding in a speech here today, as the nation's strongest reliance during the coming period of after war readjustment. "Sanity, clear thinking, common sense, honesty and co-operation" were among the qualities he named as prime necessities in meeting the demands of the new world order, and he declared material interests and national happiness both would benefit if the United States became "a simple living people once again."

Whatever discouragements and reverses there have been, he declared, would be only temporary in character. He predicted that a "confident America" would solve its new problems on the simple basis of the old time virtues and would come through the reconstruction period stronger and more dependable than ever before.

Senator Harding's speech, delivered at a luncheon of the New Orleans Association of Commerce also contained a message of assurance for the industrial development of the South and an expression of hope that the ties of commercial co-operation with Latin-America would be strengthened by every possible means.

The address was a part of a five hour visit to New Orleans by the president-elect, who came from his vacation in Texas to take ship for a voyage to the Panama canal zone.

He said, in part:

"I believe the American people have come to realize that we must face momentous problems, and must face them with resolute courage and practical wisdom and patriotic determination. There must be no reason for pause or excuse for despair nor place for pessimism. If we are effective in solving our problems at home we shall be the better able to help solve those of the world as befits our part in modern civilization.

"The big thing for all America to realize now and always is the dignity of productive labor. No matter how humble, the producers are the makers of the essentials of civilization and we must, each and all of us, accept and discharge our duty of producing for the world or of ministering to the needs of comfort or progress of mankind.

"There are certain fundamentals which are everlasting. Neither our own nor the world's salvation is to be worked out through any patent nostrum, through any miracle of statesmanship, through any government panacea. Government is but the agency to administer the collective organized public service. The greater the task is that of the American people themselves. It is for them, under governmental leadership to meet the great test.

"Ours are millions of broad acres eager to respond to man's cultivating touch. We have an empire and millions more are waiting reclamation. We have not half revealed our mines nor measured our waterpower. We are unmatched in genius and unexcelled in industry. We are progressive in education. We are free in religion and mean to stay free; and mean ever to be free in press especially. We have more than the beginning of adequate transport system. We are awakened to the possibilities of inland waterways and tardily alert to the imperative need of a merchant marine to widen commerce, world influence and national safety.

The New South.

"We have been talking about the New South for a score of years, and more. It is new in spirit, new in development. I would like to see it new in realization. I would like to see it new in Southland with added good fortune and greater self-reliance through diversified agriculture and I would like to see a Southland aflame with industry, with transportation and ever-growing problem. This land of raw materials ought to manufacture and locate its factories by mine and farm and orchard. There will be no jealousy in the North because your greater glory will be glorious victory.

"Here we are today at one of the great gateways of Latin-America. Somehow I feel that the western hemisphere is our special field of influence and trade. Commerce marks the highways of friendship as well as rivalry. Our trade routes by sea to the south ought to be as dependable as our railway routes at home and there ought to be sufficient and reassuring enmity and concord among Americans—Central and North. Bind our friendship with the ties of trade and we shall make it indissoluble.

"We have ships now, we have the commercial foundations, our future lies in policies and practices. We must buy as well as sell to be sure, but we need the expanding trade policy, its efficient agents in salesmen and credits and the simple, practical understanding that commerce is the life-blood of material existence. Our great assurance at home lies in a virile, intelligent, resolute people in a land unravaged by war, at enmity with no people, envying none, coveting nothing, seeking no territory, striving for no glories which do not become a righteous nation. This republic can not, will not fail, if each of us does his part. If we but work and use thriftily and seek that understanding which reveals mutuality of interest no difficulties can long abide. Such a solution can not come out of the greedy thoughts of the profiteer or the revolutionary agitation of those who would destroy. These are but surface disturbances. We choose the deep and ever onward currents of normal America for the course of the republic.

"There has been a wild contemplation of earnings whether in wages or dividends, in terms of dollars rather than in terms of purchasing power. We must be more concerned with the substance of reward for activity in this coin measurement. And our concern must be in a dependable prosperity which is righteously shared.

"No law can alter nature or change her varying moods. We have not yet learned to combat destructive weather and the law of supply and demand is eternal. But we may soften their rigors and minimize their penalties. We want fortune a common possession in America. We want the cotton grower of the south to have his becoming reward with the wool grower and the wheat farmer of the north. We want southern factories to be tuned to the music of the mills of the north. We want your ports to send their cargoes under the American flag to bear the message of peace and good will to all parts of the earth. There is no sectionalism in righteous American ambitions. It is the wonderful and incomparable United States of America which sets our hearts a-ripping with becoming aspirations and patriotic love—the America of the constitution, free and confident."

MAJORITY COTTON MILLS ARE IDLE

Great Number of Mills in Section Around Charlotte are Closed Down Those in Operation Running Part Time.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 18.—Announcement today of the closing down of the Chadwick-Hoskins chain of cotton mills, four at Charlotte and one at Martinsville, Va., the biggest chain of mills in this section, was followed by the disclosure of information that the great majority of the hundreds of textile mills in this section are idle, while those in operation are running on part time.

It was said by those in close touch with the situation that at least 75 per cent of the mills of Gaston and Mecklenburg counties are entirely idle, while the mills operating are running only about half time. There are approximately 1,200,000 spindles in Gaston county, and perhaps half as many in Mecklenburg.

Most of the mills have been operating on part time for weeks, but within the last few days many of them have suspended operations entirely. Lack of orders for the manufactured product is given as the reason for the radical curtailment of production.

The closing of the mills has affected thousands of operatives, a large proportion of whom now are idle. The condition is reflected in an ever-increasing number of calls for assistance reported today by the local Associated Charities.

AFTER FOUR YEARS

Laurens Testimony Remains Unchained

Time is the best test of truth. Here is a Laurens story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

R. J. Franks, 318 Fleming St., Laurens, says: "My first symptom of kidney trouble, which I had several years ago, was backache. When I would stoop over to pick up anything a sharp pain would catch me in the small of my back and I would have to brace myself in order to straighten. My kidneys didn't act right and the secretions were scanty and burning in passage. I had vertigo and dizzy spells and would nearly topple over when walking along the street. I suffered off and on for about six months in this way. I finally read about Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply at Dr. B. F. Posey's Drug Store. I felt better after taking the first box, and two boxes entirely cured me. I have recommended this medicine to others." (Statement given November 23, 1914.)

On March 26, 1918, Mr. Franks said: "I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again. I have great faith in them. Doan's did me a lot of good several years ago and I haven't had to use a kidney remedy since."

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

IT is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thorough enough in their action, some simply acting on the upper or small intestines, while others would act only on the lower or large intestines, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Nature's Remedy, which I truly believe goes farther and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the user of Nature's Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Nature's Remedy from the very first.

And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Nature's Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefited by it.

It is a consoling thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Nature's Remedy (NR Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.
