

HOLLY GROVE NEWS

Holly Grove, April 25.—Much interest has been taken in the Sabbath school established in our section recently.

Mrs. Martha Anderson, of Greenwood, is visiting her nieces, Mrs. Adair and Mrs. Benjamin.

The school at Bailey's closed April 15th with a basket picnic. It was an enjoyable occasion, the whole neighborhood turning out with no other object than having a good time. Before dinner Superintendent of Education, Mr. R. T. Wilson, who was one of the guests of the occasion, gave a talk on "Cultivating the Noble and Beautiful in Life". Among other things he said that we are living in a materialistic age and parents and teachers, in training children along practical lines often neglect to give life the "finer touch". Mr. Wilson's address was followed by a talk from Miss Katherine Haquist, to parents on the importance of looking after the health of their children, that it is impossible for children to be at their best intellectually if physically unfit. She stated that she would be pleased to advise or assist in any way, children whose eyes she had diagnosed. Parents in need of such help would do well to consult her.

Dinner was served in the grove and to see the well-laden table one would suppose that for the day at least, hard times had been forgotten. Our section has always been noted for its hospitality but we had ample proof in the abundance of free lunch service for which we are indebted to Messrs. Ramage, Brown and Templeton.

Our teachers, Misses Powers and Abrams, have been elected for another term.

Both remedies are packed in one carton and the cost of the combined treatment is 35c. Just ask your druggist for HAYES' HEALING HONEY.

Pains Were Terrific
Read how Mrs. Albert Gregory, of R. F. D. No. 1, Bluford, Ill., got rid of her ills. "During . . . I was awfully weak . . . My pains were terrific, I thought I would die. The bearing-down pains were actually so severe I could not stand the pressure of my hands on the lower part of my stomach . . . I simply felt as if life was for but a short time. My husband was worried. . . One evening, while reading the Birthday Almanac, he came across a case similar to mine, and went straight for some Cardui for me to try.

"I took it faithfully and the results were immediate," adds Mrs. Gregory. "I continued to get better, all my ills left me, and I went through . . . with no further trouble. My baby was fat and strong, and myself—thank God—am once more hale and hearty, can walk miles, do my work, though 44 years old, feel like a new person. All I owe to Cardui." For many years Cardui has been found helpful in building up the system when run down by disorders peculiar to women.

EXTRAVAGANT, AT LEAST

(The Cotton Acreage Committee, Memphis, Tenn.)

Money put into the new crop to protect old debts is throwing good money after bad—extravagant, to say the least, for cotton can be bought right now for less than it can be grown.

Unless the price of cotton advances, it will cost more to produce cotton this year than it can be sold for. Middling cotton is quoted at 11 1-2c, but most of the cotton selling today is going at prices around 5c to 8c a pound. Cotton being bought at 5c to 8c is not the lowest grades, but is good cotton, representing excellent spinning qualities.

The price of middling cotton is misleading. Some middling cotton may be selling at almost 11 1-2c, but the real market is on cotton that is bringing not more than 8c per pound. In comparison therewith, the quotation on middling should not be over 9c. Either middling is too high or grades below middling are too low in price, intrinsic differences considered. Now, what is the use of attempting to pay debts by operating a business continuously at a loss? If there is no hope for a profit, but a certainty of a loss, any prudent business man would stop the loss by closing up shop, if he could, until there was some prospect of a profitable business. We know of one man who owns a plantation. That man has not got the nerve to go into the market and pay 8c a pound for 1,000 bales of cotton, but he does intend this year to plant for 1,000 bales of cotton and he admits that he does not expect to produce that cotton for less than 13 1-2c a pound. Wouldn't it be a whole lot better for that man to let his farm lie out and buy 1,000 bales of cotton at 8c per pound, select the exact kinds of cotton that he wants, the kinds that he thinks will be most salable next fall, and store them away until fall and call it his planting for 1921? If he plants for 1,000 bales, he does not know how many bales he will produce, he does not know what the boll weevil will do to it, nor storms, nor what will happen because of the many vicissitudes to which the crop is susceptible, and last, but not least, he does not know what grade of cotton he will produce. He only knows that his cotton is costing him not less than 13 1-2c and that he could have bought cotton of his own selection, approximately the average in grade of any crop he may hope to produce, at 8c a pound.

There is another thing about it when you buy cotton already in existence, and put it away in the manner spoken of in the foregoing: every transaction of that kind will contribute to advancing the price of cotton. On the other hand, every additional bale of cotton produced this year will contribute towards depressing the price of cotton. Here we have certainty on one hand, and on the other hand, uncertainty. It is not a case of Scylla and Charybdis. On one hand there is safety, on the other, certain destruction, and we are in position to choose absolutely and guide our own course. Yet we choose deliberately the course that leads to disaster. What is the answer? Some may say it is necessary to plant cotton to hold their farming organization together. Others that they can borrow money to make a new crop, but cannot borrow money to hold the old one, nor borrow to buy cotton. If a banker, or any other source of credit, is able to loan money to make a new crop, he is able to loan money to hold cotton and he is able to loan money to those who wish to buy cotton. He is risking very much less to loan money on cotton at 8c a pound than he is on cotton at 13 1-2c. Besides, at 8c he is loaning for a purpose that will contribute to an advance in the market, while at 13 1-2c he is loaning to contribute to certain depression. Now and then the farmer has been accused of poor business judgment. But if it be a fact that the farmer can borrow money to make a new crop at 12c, but is unable to borrow money to hold on to or to acquire cotton at 8c or 9c, then the banker and not the farmer is at fault.

Cotton is not ready now at any price. Cotton has ceased to be a cash crop. But even if it could be sold at current prices a crop high enough in grade to bring more than 9c a pound average, would be the exception. That being the case, if it costs 13 1-2c a pound to grow cotton there is a certain loss of 4 1-2c a pound to begin with, if cotton does not go up. A decline of 4 1-2c a pound from 9c would put the price down to 4 1-2c, a remote possibility. Why pay 13c a pound for cotton that can be bought for 8c or 9c?

STRANDED 13 DAYS PARTY IS RESCUED

Chicago Broker and Four Others Found on Lonely Key by Seaplane Pilot.

Miami, April 22.—Webb Jay, Chicago broker and sportsman, and party of four, were brought back to Miami late this afternoon from Gun Cay, off the Bahama Islands, where they had been stranded for 13 days, living principally on fish.

With Jay were his wife, Charles R. Deshler, president of the Deshler Motor company of Chicago, his wife, and a negro servant.

Three weeks ago they put off from Miami in the speedboat Sue J, for a pleasure trip to Miami, in the Bahama Islands, 45 miles from here. The trip across was without incident, but on the return the party met a rough sea and the little 35-foot boat was incapable of battling its way through the rolling waves. When about 15 miles out, Jay attempted to turn his boat back to Miami, but was carried to the south. Finally he managed to steer into the key where the party went ashore. There they found one white man and a handful of natives.

For almost a fortnight, without a change of clothing, the party waited, daily watching the sea for some boat to hail to carry them back to Florida.

Friends of the party, who have made this their winter home, became alarmed and the days went by and their apprehensions were increased yesterday when Captain Charles Pess of the steamer Corsair, reported that he had passed the little boat at sea on his trip from Miami to Miami.

At dawn today, three seaplanes were sent out to comb the coast and islands. Circling low over Gun Cay shortly after noon, the pilot of one discerned a figure frantically waving a white rag. Descending and making his way inland, he came upon the party. Tattered and torn and without a change of clothing during the fortnight, they told a thrilling tale of their hardships and efforts to find food enough to keep alive until rescued.

PLAN DETAILS FOR GERMAN TERRITORY

Commission Meets at Foch's Headquarters to Decide on Organization.

Paris, April 21.—The mixed military and civil commission met today at the headquarters of Marshal Foch and definitely decided the details for the military and economic organization of Germany territory which will be occupied after May 1 in the event that Germany does not carry out her reparations obligations.

Louis Loucheur, minister for the liberated regions, will leave for Brussels Saturday to acquaint M. Jasper, the Belgian foreign minister, with the plan. M. Briand on Sunday will outline the details of the plan to David Lloyd George, the British prime minister, in their conference at Lympe, England. Marshal Foch will not accompany Premier Briand to England.

The mixed commission today heard General Desticker and Buat on military measures and also M. Seydoux, a financial expert, Charles Benoist, chief of the cabinet, and Yves Le Trocquer, minister of public works.

The commission adopted two reports of the military experts concerning the delimitation of the territory to be occupied and the effectives necessary to the operation, which remain fixed by the mobilization of the class of 1919.

Three reports, exclusively economic, were adopted: first—concerning the working of mines; second—financial administration, and third—the feeding of the populations and the families of mine workers. Committees will be formed to manage the production and distribution of coal and industrial production and also the customs and financial administration.

General Weygand, acting as general secretary of staff, for the mixed commission, is putting the finishing touches on the report tonight and it will be handed over to Premier Briand tomorrow night or Saturday morning.

BOLD ROBBERY IN HEART OF CHICAGO

Diamond Salesman Robbed of Gems Valued at $260,000 on 15th (Sory).

Chicago, April 22.—Lured to a jewelry shop in the heart of the downtown district at noon today by what the police declare to have been a decoy letter, a diamond salesman was robbed of gems valued at $260,000.

Two robbers invaded the office of Julius J. Reingold, on the fifteenth floor of a building at Madison street and Wabash Avenue while Leroy Present, of the firm of Phillip Present and Son, of Rochester, N. Y., was displaying his wares. They bound and gagged Reingold and Present and escaped with unset diamonds the salesman carried with him.

After an investigation, the police detained Reingold for questioning and arrested his brother, Leo. Present said that he came to Chicago from Detroit Sunday and called on Reingold on Tuesday when he was requested to call again. Thursday night, he said, he received a written message bearing the name of Reingold, requesting him to call this morning. Reingold denied that he had written any such message.

It was while Present was in Reingold's office that the two armed men entered and took the wallets containing his diamonds.

WOMEN GIVE OUT

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Laurens woman's experience:

Mrs. F. L. Riddle, 125 Holmes St., says: "Kidney trouble got the upper hand of me several years ago and I felt miserable. My back and shoulders felt as if there were a heavy weight on them, and aggravating pains took the life and ambition out of me. I had blinding dizzy spells and everything would turn black before my eyes. Mornings I was so lame and sore I could hardly dress. When I bent over, I had to hold on to something and headaches would often come on and I thought my head would split. My kidneys didn't act as they should, either. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the Power Drug Co. and they soon put my kidneys in good condition. I used Doan's and they entirely cured me of the trouble."
