FLAMES DESTROY DORMITORY

Building at Carlisle Burned Saturday Night. Was Wooden Structure.

Bamberg, Oct. 9.—The Mary Ann Bamberg hall, one of the three dormitories at Carlisle school, was practically destroyed by fire about midnight last night. The fire was discovered on the roof by one of the teachers. The flames had made much headway at the time, and practically the entire upper story was burned off. The other portion of the building was so damaged that it will doubtless be torn down rather than an attempt be made to repair.

The building had formerly been used as the young women's dormitory, but for the last few years had been occupied by boys. It was a frame structure. The students saved all their belongings, but the furniture in their rooms and other equipment was burned. The board had been contemplating removal of the building and the erection of a more substantial structure in its stead.

The loss is placed at $6,000 to $9,000, the greater portion of which is covered by insurance.

The students discommoded by the fire will find lodging with other students on the campus and in private homes, if necessary, and there will be no interference with the school program.

Social at Mountville

Mountville, Oct. 11.—One of the most enjoyable socials of the fall, was the one at Mrs. Maude B. Bryson's home Friday, October 7. There were forty-five members of the B. Y. P. U., who met on this occasion. Miss Bryson proved to be a charming hostess, and the evening passed too quickly for those present. She was assisted by her sister, president of the union, Mrs. David Richardson.

Hudgens-Thornton

Miss Jayne B. Hudgens, the daughter of Mrs. B. R. Fuller, was married to Mr. Robert P. Thornton of Mulberry, Fla., at the home of the bride's parents, at Mountville Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The bride wore a handsome suit of brown duvelyn with accessories to match. She is a graduate of Winthrop College and well known throughout the county.

The groom is an honor graduate of Clemson college and since receiving his discharge from the army has been connected with a chemical plant in Florida.

Immediately after the ceremony they left on a wedding trip to points of interest in Florida. They will be at home in Mulberry, Fla., after the twentieth.

Gray-DesChamps

A large circle of friends and relatives assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Douglas Gray Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock to witness the marriage of their sister, Miss Virginia Alken Gray to Mr. Carroll Green DesChamps, of Bishopville.

The elaborate decorations of the spacious home were especially beautiful. The drawing room was in white and green, with the approach to the altar flanked by tall palms and feathery ferns, the altar having many candles in crystal candelabra, and baskets filled with snowy blossoms.

Preceding the ceremony, which was impressively performed by Rev. William Dibble, of Bishopville, a vocal solo, "At Nightfall", was rendered by Mr. Scarborough, accompanied by Miss Hattie Dunklin Gray. Following this, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, Mrs. H. Douglas Gray, the dame of honor, came down the artistically decorated stairway and entered the ceremony room from the right. She was attired in a handsome black lace dinner gown, with black picture hat, and carried white chrysanthemums.

Then came the dainty maid of honor, Miss Martha Barksdale, wearing a blue and silver gown with hat to match. Her flowers were white chrysanthemums.

James Gray Dunklin, nephew of the bride, was the ring-bearer. Preceded by two fairy-like flower girls, Dorris Swain and Margaret Gray, came the bride on the arm of her brother-in-law, James W. Dunklin, by whom she was given in marriage.

The bride's brilliant brunette beauty never appeared to more advantage. She wore a travelling suit of brown duvet de laine, trimmed with squirrel, with accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses, orchids and valley lilies.

Immediately after the ceremony the guests were ushered into the dining room where cream, cake, and bon-bons were served. The bride's table was covered with a wonderful cloth of Venetian embroidery with insets of point lace. A silver basket of pink roses rested in the centre of the table, and pink candles in silver candelabra cast a soft glow over the scene.

In the gift room many presents of silver, cut glass, hand-painted china and linens testified to the popularity of the young couple.

A second receiving line, consisting of the bride's girl-hood friends, was formed in the living room. Many of these came home from college to see the first one of their group take the marriage vow. Their radiant youth and beauty showed strikingly against the white and gold decorations.

The bride is a graduate of Winthrop College, and is one of the most popular girls of the city. The groom is a well-known young business man of Bishopville.

Later in the afternoon the young people motored to Greenville, catching a northbound train for a wedding trip to New York.

The out-of-town guests were Rev. William Dibble, Mr. and Mrs. Green DesChamps, Mr. Edgar DesChamps, Mrs. William DesChamps and Miss Blanche DesChamps, of Bishopville, Mrs. Dee Bose, of Charleston, Mrs. Bridges, of Tampa; Dr. Joe Jenkins, and Mrs. Edgar Burnside, of Greenwood, Miss Laura Muckenfuss, of Wagon; Miss Mabry McCoy, of Rock Hill; Miss Helen Gray, of Woodruff; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Skelton, of Hartwell; Mrs. Charles Bostick, of Peasop; Messrs. William L. Gray, Jared Bostick, of Wofford College; Misses Rosa Gray, of Gougeville; Bernice Meng of Winthrop, Doris Young, of Chicora, and Flora Bennett, of Greenville College.

Beautiful But Unusual Words.

Among the other most beautiful words in the language are these: No appeal for funds will be made in connection with the lecture.—Ohio State Journal.
