MOTOR BUS LINE MAY REPLACE CARS

Suggested as Best Solution of Street Railway Problem in Spartanburg.
 Spartanburg, Aug. 19.—The abandonment of the street railway system in Spartanburg and the substitution of a bus service is proposed to the city council by Henry M. Earle, attorney for the bondholders of the South Carolina Light, Power and Railways company, who at a recent receiver's sale of that company purchased the properties and are organizing a new company to take over the railway September 1. The proposal is set forth in a letter addressed to the city council and read before that body today. In his letter Mr. Earle reviews the financial difficulties of the street railway system and says:
 "After considerable investigation it appears that the only remedy for the situation described is the one adopted in numerous other cases, viz., motor buses. The new company is ready with the consent of the commissioners to inaugurate in Spartanburg an up-to-date bus system and if desired will start an experimental line in order that the public may have an opportunity to test the service."
 The South Carolina Light, Power & Railways company, owners of the public utilities of this city, is controlled by A. B. Leach & Co. of New York. The company has been in the hands of a receiver appointed by Judge Watkins of the federal court for more than a year and was sold last week to its own bondholders. The receivership was precipitated when the city demanded certain extension of its street railway lines, obligations carried by the company's franchise. The new company to take over on September 1 is, of course, confronted with all the obligations of the old company. The city council will give the case consideration on Monday.

WEEVIL MIGRATION BEGINNING

Old Methods and Customs not Dependable. Cultivation Must Continue Through Growing Season.
 Clemson College, Aug. 11.—Fall migration of the weevil has begun in some sections where the cotton crop is not very good and where fruit formation has practically discontinued. Otherwise, the situation during the past week showed no important change, square infestation continuing to vary in different localities from very low to 95 percent or more, according to reports received today by Prof. A. F. Conradi, Entomologist, who therefore advises continuation of cultivation where possible and of thorough square collecting from the plants and the ground.
 Whether poison application should be made after migration depends on conditions. Migration is not yet heavy enough at any point to warrant discontinuation of poisoning. When migration becomes severe and general, no profit may be expected from poisoning.
 During the past week there have been breezy and dewless nights especially in the Piedmont section. Poisoning on such nights is not recommended, but the application should be made during the first favorable nights though it be a week or so late according to the schedule.
 Farmers are urged to use good judgment and not to become panicky. When the weevils become numerous so that all squares are punctured and young bolls are attacked, one or even two applications of poison may be recommended in order to protect as many of the young bolls as possible. The attitude of the farmers is not always encouraging. Some have kept up cultivation and square collecting diligently while others "laid by" about August 1. It must be emphasized that these old methods and customs will not be satisfactory under weevil conditions, and those who have not yet become reconciled to more diligent methods of farm management throughout the entire growing season will become so convinced if they continue their efforts to grow cotton.
 Again this season there are many striking illustrations of the great importance of soil building as the fundamental operation in weevil control. The success and profit that may result from poisoning, square collecting or other direct weevil control methods is based on efficient soil building.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks, will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispel the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Plead out to take. 60c per bottle.

LANFORD NEWS

Lanford, Aug. 21.—The tenth reunion of the Patterson family, was held Thursday, the 17th, on the church grounds here. Owings, of Woodruff, made short talks appropriate to the occasion which were very much enjoyed by all. WATTS MILLS NEWS

Watts Mills, Aug. 21.—Rev. D. A. Morgan, of Laurens Mill, filled the pulpit on Sunday night at Lucas Avenue Baptist church, as our newly called pastor, Rev. C. E. Thomas has not yet arrived. We hope to have Rev. Thomas in our midst to preach for us on next Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Gillespie and little daughter, Kathleen, left Monday morning for Spartanburg, where they will make their future home. We regret to give up Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie as they will be greatly missed here by a large number of friends, and also in our church work.
