THE RESERVE OF THE PROPERTY OF THE CAROLINA CONTEST

The Palmetto State Seeking a New Governor.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 29.—One week from to-day the State Democratic Convention will meet in Columbia. Polities are dull, very dull, in all parts of South Carolina, but nowhere duller than at the capital of the State. Issues upon the determination of which will depend the BLACK AND COLORED DRESS, welfare of the State for years to come, will be raised in the approaching Convention. The Convention will be a large one and it will be required to handle large questions, Upon the wisdom, conservatism and prudence of its councils will depend the perpetuity of the dominant party | free of charge, in South Carolina. If the Conven- | All orders promptly attended to. in South Carolina. If the Convention will act harmoniously and wisely and steer clear of all the difficulties which may confront it the disruption of the Democratic party may be prevented; but if, under the dictatorial whip of a demagogue or political communist, the members shall follow the guidance of the hand that cracks it over their heads and pursue revolutionary methods, then look out for trouble. In other words, if "Farmer Tillman," who claims to hold the Convention in the hollow of his hand, shall compass the schemes which he has outlined in his speeches and effectuate the "new deal" he and his followers so glibly prate about, and, in pursuance of their revolutionary plot, cause to be nominated objectionable and weak or crafty men, there will be sounded the funeral knell of the Democracy in the Palmetto State. For the people would not submit to it, and an independent ticket might be placed in the field. It is not known exactly who are Tillman's pets. In a few days I will know more about it, and be able to furnish some inside information -- Atlanta Constitution.

Judge Cothran as a Candidate.

While the general proposition of The News may be correct and would meet general endorsement, as it refers to a judge on the bench seeking a political office, yet in the case of Judge Cothran the deductions are not fairly drawn. As we understand his position in regard to the nomination, he is not seeking it. His name has been proposed by voters in his district, and he has intimated, or perhaps declared, that if the nomination is tendered him he will accept. -Yorkville Enquirer.

The Enquirer misapprehends the facts. Judge Cothran has come down from the position he first held, which was that he would serve in the house of representatives if the people should "demand" his service. The following advertisement is printed in all the newspapers of the Third District:

The friends of Judge J. S. Cothran announce him as a candidate for Congress from the Third Congressional District, subject to the action of the democratic primary or convention which ever plan may be adopted." He is a candidate. He so says to the public. If he is not "a judge on the bench seeking a political office," what is he?-Greenville News, Aug.

"What are we Here for?"

The Easley Messenger almost said a good thing the other day by a typographical error. It spoke of the News a damning Judge Cothran with "feint"

By the way, the Messenger seems to think the News is going outside its proper field when it undertakes to talk of affairs in the Third Congressional District. If we are not to discuss the qualifications of candidates for Congress from this State or to express views on the polities of a district within ten miles of us where we have a large and growing constituency, we hope we may be permitted to enquire, in the language of the immortal Flanuigan, "What are we here for?"

We regret that our esteemed friend think the News is going outside its proper field when it undertakes to talk

We regret that our esteemed friend was so overcome with horror by our intrusión in the Third District affairs that it misapprehended the idea we tried to express and thrashed the air with arguments to prove that a man should nobe barred from politics because he has been on the bench. Our position is that a man should keep himself clear of poli-State your 4te bewerent mission!

Suppose during his candidacy Judge Cothran should have to try a case in one of the counties of his district with public sentiment solidly one on side and public feeling intense. Would be not be forced into the position of sitting as judge where he would virtually have personai interests? -- Greenville News, August 1.
