NASHVILLE, September 2.—The Hermitage leaving for this afternoon publishes as an advertisement a measure brought up by the tariff reformers as Congress convenes, which is to have the endorsement of the administration. The President's secretary of the treasury, Mr. Carlisle have been counting on the matter since Congress meets, and it is not improbable that the President will have adopted the measure at Oak View which is the culmination of their plan. It is possible that the Speaker will have the endorsement of the administration. again on the litter. Once he rolled to the ground, when an ass' tant was shot, and the litter left. Just then General Pender, one of his subordinates, passed. He stopped and said: "I hope you are not seriously hurt, general. I fear I shall have to retire my troops, they are so much broken."

But Jackson looked up at once and exclaimed: "You must hold your ground, General Pender; you must hold your ground, sir!"

This was the last order he ever gave. He was borne some distance to the nearest house and examined by the surgeon; and after midnight his left arm was amputated at the shoulder.

When Lee was told that his most trusted lieutenant had been wounded, he was greatly distressed, for the relations between them were almost tender.

"Jackson has lost his left arm," said Lee, "but I have lost my right arm."

The Richest Man.

New Orleans Times-Democrat.

In speaking of the wealth of some of the ancients, you class Tiberius as the wealthiest, at $118,125,000, and give that of Crassus, the Lydian, at about $8,000,000. You have not mentioned one wealthier than them all, who was Pythius, son of Aty, the Lydian, who possessed in silver and gold together $24,516,000, which added to his possession of land and slaves at a proportionate value, would swell his wealth to about $500,000,000. I mean his gold at the Doric value of $5.22; if reckoned at the value of the stater siebes it would give him in coin $6,026,000, and with slaves and lands in proportion, a wealth of over $120,000,000. This man Pythius, without touching his touching his silver and gold, entertained at the city of Calene the army of Xerxes, over 5,000,000 strong, in his invasion of Greece, and on a previous occasion had King Darius, Xerxes' father, a magnificent present—a gold plane tree and vine. This Pythius, then, was the wealthiest man in the world, and it is doubtful if there has been any one before or since to equal him.

ASSETS NOTHING.

Creditors Will Whistle for their $10,000.

Special Register.

ORANGEBURG, Sept. 2.—Kirk Robinson, an insurance and collection agent of this place, has failed. His liabilities are estimated at about $10,000, but will probably amount to more than that. His assets are nothing.

Robinson has been getting behind for a long time, but has managed to keep his business going by some reasons.

He probably owes Dr. W. T. Barton more than any other creditor. Dr. Barton will lose $2,500. The other creditors are insurance companies and firms doing business with men in Orangeburg.

There is a good deal of complaint, but no one seems to think Robinson has pocketed the money, but that he has spent it in his business and failed to make ends meet. He seems to be in great distress about the matter, and says that bad management broke him and that the failure grew on him by degrees.

Full particulars cannot be obtained, as his books have not been posted for more than a year.

New York's Big Eating Houses.

The largest eating houses on the continent are at Washington market. There are two of these enormous concerns, each a long block in length, each employing from 120 to 150 hands, and one selling 10,000 meals a day while the other furnishes at least 8,000 meals. Sample prices that indicate the rates generally are coffee five cents, roast beef and potatoes fifteen cents, puddings ten cents. One of these concerns uses $50 worth of ice a day and makes away with 1,500 quarts of milk in the same period. The larger of the two was started fifteen years ago by a man who pawned his watch for $13 to found a coffee and cake stand where his marble wainscoted, marble floored restaurant is to-day.

Craig Tolliver's Slaying Acquitted.

LOUISVILLE, September 1.—A special to the Courier Journal from Lexington County says: In the Rowan Circuit Court at Morehead to-day, Pignon and Perry, charged with the murder of Craig Tolliver, were cleared after two hours' deliberation of the jury. Everything at Morehead is quiet, and no danger is apprehended from an outbreak.

Wet or Dry in Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., September 1.—The Anti-Prohibitionists started out a list to-day asking for a call for another election to be held on November 2. It was decided by them to make no public canvass until the close of the Piedmont Fair, unless the Prohibitionists precipitated matters to that extent. It is not known whether the Prohibitionists will agree to the quiet campaign or not.

An Electric Bath.

From the Chicago News.

During a thunderstorm at Hazelton, Pa., lightning struck a penknife in the hands of High Sheriff Zierdt, who was bathing in a tub. When he recovered consciousness he found nothing but small splinters of the tub he had been bathing in, and the water it contained was equally distributed over the floor, as if done with a mop in the hands of a scrub woman. The metal in the knife was melted. No other damage to the room could be found.

She Was All Right.

Mrs. Blobson—"What's that? Oh, horrors! The hot! afire!"

Mr. Blobson—"Yes, come on. We've no time to lose."

Mrs. Blobson—"But here I am in my night dress!"

Mr. Blobson—"Good enough! I'm glad you've got out of your ball dress and into something decent."

HE WAS GREATLY MISTAKEN.

A Maryland Democrat Reckoned Without His Host.

I live in the midst of the malarial districts of Maryland, near the city of Washington, and am exposed to all the dangerous influences of the impure air and water of that region.

Being naturally of a strong constitution, I had frequently boasted that no chills and fever or other malarious complaint would ever trouble me.

This was my experience and the condition in which I found myself six months ago. I first noticed that I did not feel so sprightly and vigorous as my wont to do. I felt tired and enervated. Soon I noticed a distinct and distressing back ache would make its appearance in the afternoon, increasing in severity if the exercise was more than usually violent. Then a stretchy feeling with profuse yawning made itself appear. Then my head, always clear as a bell, would feel heavy and I began to have headaches.

The cold stage was marked with chattering of the teeth, severe rigors passed over me, and no amount of clothing could keep me warm. The chill was succeeded in turn by the fever, in which I seemed to be burning up, the congestion in my head produced a violent pain in the frontal portion and a heated sensation of the eyelids, with an indescribable aching of the lower limbs. Nausea and vomiting occurred with severe retchings, and when the paroxysms passed off I was thoroughly prostrated by a weakness that was felt in every part of me.

I drugged myself with quinine, and obtained some relief. But my respite was of brief duration. I was now so much reduced that I could hardly walk or stand upright. My disease soon culminated in a continued malarial fever which kept me closely confined for about a week. I became exceedingly depressed and melancholy, so much so that I lost interest in my work, and indeed, scarcely cared what happened to me.

During all this time, it must be understood that I did not neglect medical treatment. All the most powerful remedies were tried, such as liquid arsenate of potash, valerianate of iron, mercury, bromide of potassium, chloride of bismuth, chinoidine, chinichinidia, quinine and several others. All this I did under the advice of eminent physicians.

It was while I was in this deplorable condition that the claims made for Kaskine, the new quinine, as a specific for malaria, were first brought to my attention. I knew nothing of its value to justify my having any confidence in it, but as everything else had failed I deemed it my duty to try it, so I began its use, and its prompt and radical effects were of the nature of a revelation to me. Many people may think the statement scarcely credible, but it is a fact that after only a few days' use of Kaskine all the leading symptoms in my case were decidedly abated or ceased altogether; and in a few weeks from the time I took the first dose I was cured.

This was about the first of January, and since then I have experienced no recurrence of the malarial symptoms in any form. A remedy of such exceptional virtue for the cure of malaria ought to be commended and universally made known. I have therefore urged it upon the attention of my friends, several of whom have used it with like good results in every case, and it is with the greatest pleasure and sincerity that I commend Kaskine to sufferers from malaria everywhere.

Respectfully yours,

J. D. HIRD, B. A., Assistant Chemist Maryland Agricultural College.

P. S.—Should any one wish to address me as to the genuineness of the above letter, I will cheerfully respond.

Other letters of a similar character from prominent individuals, which stamp Kaskine as a remedy of no doubtful merit, will be sent on application. Price $1.00, or six bottles, $5.00. Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price.

WOMAN'S CAPABILITIES.

Men, from the large Ego, doubtless implanted in them for useful purposes, have a tendency to see things solely from their own point of view, and to judge things, not as they are, but as the world will look at them, with reference to their individual selves. Their sense of order, their power and inclination to take trouble, are rarely equal to a woman's. Her very narrowness makes her more conscientious and reliable in matters of minute detail. A man's horizon is wider, his vision larger, his physical and intellectual strength generally greater than a woman's; but he is as a rule less prudent, less careful, less able to throw himself out of himself, and into the interest of other people, than a woman is. Granted a capable woman, and one that has had even a tittle of the practical education that all men have or are supposed to have, she will do a matter of business, say an executorship, secretaryship, etc., as well as any man, or even better than most men, because she will take more pains. Did girls get from childhood the same business training as boys, and were they clearly understood in all families that it is not a credit but a discredit for women to be idle, to hang helpless on the men instead of doing their own work, and, if necessary, earning their own living, I believe society would be not the worse but the better for the change. Men would find out that the more they elevate women the greater use they get out of them. If, instead of a man working himself to death for his unmarried daughters, and then leaving them ignominiously dependent upon male relations, he educated them to independence, made them able both to maintain and to protect themselves, it would save him and them a world of unhappiness. They would cease to be either the rivals—a very hopeless rivalry—or the playthings first and then the slaves of men, and become, as was originally intended, their co-mates, equal and yet different, each sex supplying the other's deficiencies, and therefore fitted to work together, not apart, for the good of the world.—The Author of "John Halifax, Gentleman," in the Forum for September.

MONEY OF THE ANCIENTS.

Esopus paid for a single dish, $400,000.

Caligula spent for one supper, $400,000.

Heliogabalus spent for one meal, $100,000.

Lucullus usually paid $100,000 for a repast.

Apicius expended in debauchery $2,500,000.

Messala gave $200,000 for the house of Antony.

Lentulus, the soothsayer, had a fortune of $17,500,000.

The philosopher Seneca had a fortune of $12,500,000.

Cesar, before he entered upon any office, owed $14,975,000.

Cleopatra, at an entertainment, gave Antony, dissolved in vinegar, which she swallowed it, a pearl worth $40,000.

Crossus possessed in landed property a fortune equal to eight million dollars, besides a large sum of money, slaves and furniture.

Antony owed a one and a half million dollars at the ides of March, paid it before the kalends of April and squandered one hundred and forty-seven millions dollars of the public money.

Sir John Lubbock has succeeded in teaching a black poodle dog "a little light reading." He took pieces of cardboard and painted on them the words "food," "out," "bone," "tea," and so on. Then by associating food in the animal's mind with a card bearing that word. Again, when asked if he wanted to go out, he fished "out" the card bearing that word, and so forth. The teaching took a long time, and though, to a large extent futile, it shows what may be done with some dogs by proper methods of training.—Cassell.
