THE FIRE.

The Herald and News had a narrow escape on Tuesday morning. But for the faithful work of our firemen the office with our presses and other material would have been entirely consumed.

We will not say, "Phonix-like, we have risen from the ashes," for that sort of talk is threadbare, and then we had nothing burned.

We could more appropriately say, "Duck-like we have risen from the water and we propose to keep above the waves," for surely the engines poured a deluge of water into our office, and for this we are thankful, for the water was far preferable to the fire. Water was what we wanted and water we got, thanks to the fire department, and our office was saved.

We hope to be on time and will be on time with live news of local and general interest for our subscribers.

The office was badly torn to piece somewhat growten things in order and will move forward. Our purpose is to publish a first class newspaper that can stand on its merits as such, and in this purpose we shall not falter one whit, let come what will.

We desire to express our appreciaoffering us the use of its presses until we can get straightened out. The editor's office for the present is in the office of Moses & Garlington, diagonally across the street from the printing office. We will be pleased to see our friends there for the next few days until we get fixed up in our own quar-

THE THIRD DISTRICT PRIMARY.

The result of the primary election, in the Third Congressional District on last Friday puts the second race between Colonel George Johnstone, of Newberry, and Colonel D. K. Norris, of Pendleton.

Mr. Norris is the candidate of the Alliance and the large vote he received is due to the fact that he was the alliance candidate more than to anything else. We have nothing to say against Mr. Norris, but it seems to us that the voter ought to consider the fitness of men for the positions they aspire to fill and select the best possible man.

The very flattering vote received by Mr. Johnstone was by force of his ability and capacity. Newberry did nicely by him last Friday, but on to-morrow she ought to do even more. We should consider that he is our own home man, has had experience in legislation, and when a member of the State Legislature, was one of its most influential members, and one of whom all Newberry could feel proud. His ability is unquestioned. Even this his personal and political enemies admit, and if he sented. Newberry had no representashould receive the nomination from this District for Congress would represent it with credit to himself and to his constituents

We have no hesitation in saying that the interests of the farmers would be as safe in the hands of Mr. Johnstone as any other man that could be sent. Newberry County should give Mr. Johnstone practically a solid vote on

What reason or sense is there in running out of the County to vote for a stranger when we have one of our own county men, known to us all, that we can support. We do not advocate sticking to a county man simply because he is a county man, but when we have one in the race who has the ability and fitness, we say stick to him. We should have that much county pride.

The editor of this paper has not been a personal friend of Mr. Johnstone for some years, but we are willing to lay that aside, and would like to see him receive the nomination. We mention this fact simply to show that we are not advocating his election on personal grounds, but because he is a Newberry man, and we recognize his ability.

We believe in having some county pride, and then we want a man of ability in Congress as our representative.

Mr. Norris may have the ability, but it has not been demonstrated, and he has no experience.

If the South really needs men in the next Congress, as she certainly does, who have the ability to watch her interests, and the brains to cope with Congressmen from other sections, the voters of the Third District should not hesitate to vote for Mr. Johnstone.

Let Newberry at least do her part by her own fellow citizen.

"A HUMOROUS CAMPAIGN."

The Greenville News on Tuesday had an editorial on the campaign of the Third District, headed "The humors and the lessons of a peculiar result." Our contemporary says "it is humor of the incongruous and the unexpected," and that the campaign conveys the idea that several thousand farmers had combined to perpetrate on a certain day a huge practical joke on everybody, and then speaks of the several candidates in the race for Congress from this District. Murray, Benet and Bowen, our contemporary says, had done work and had records behind them, and some right to expect something. So had Johnstone, but the News continues: "Mr. Johnstone has not so much right to complain. He alone received a majority of all the votes cast in his own county and he is given the opportunity for a second race with good prospect of success. The fact that adds to the humor of the case on one side and to its bitterbeat everybody, who carried counties trip to Anderson and Pendleton. Union County Leads off and Elects the He has not, however, had the opportunity to prove his abilities or his purpose, and, so far as our information goes, he has not during this campaign or at any time before it, given any evidence of remarkable talent or knowledge or independence of thought. It is contrary to all precedent- among our people to entrust important duties like with no special claims to consideration beyond endorsement of one or two proposed measures of legislation, the swallowing whole of a platform prepared by strangers in St. Louis and a promise to ignore his party caucus." Another amusing feature that strikes our cotemporary is the relation of the Alliance voter, who does the bidding of a few, to caucuses. It is really a mystery what the relation of certain voters is to caucuses and how they look at them and what they think of them. The News says:

"More than 4,000 sturdy Democrats most of whom would resent with a blow the accusation of being a bolter voted against all others for a man who declares in advance that his convictions of his duty will lead him to bolt his party caucus if it does not go his way on certain questions. The humor of the situation is further heightened by the evident fact that a large number of those votes were cast in obedience to the demand or suggestion of an Alliances caucus. Men who are themselves bound by a party primary voted against their natural personal and political prefaceacies in obedience to a superior the property of the proper quirements for a man pledged not to be bound by caucus. The series of in-Tuesday, but by hard work where consistencies involved in this act is too complicated for easy analysis, but it is very funny. It is an entanglement a good deal like some of the situations in comic opera and the Alliance voter in the Third may easily bring on headache by trying to puzzle out whether he is more of an Alliance man or a Democrat an to determine his relations to caucus-whether he is its slave or a tion of the kindness of The Observer in rebel against it and where he would be should the claim of two of the three caucuses in which he is involved

The way out of this tangle is for every voter to go the poles to-morrow and vote as he pleases. To exercise his right as a free white man in a free country. That is the object of our Democratic primaries. To rid the people from domination by any man or set of men

THE "STRAIGHTOUT" CONFERENCE. The Straightout Conference met in Columbia on Tuesday night to consider what action they should adopt and what course they would pursue. It is said that there were about four hundred present, all the counties in the State except two or three being repretives. A part of the conference was held with closed doors. A long preamble and two short resolutions were adopted. The preamble sets out the necessity of the white people controlling the government, and that in the judgment of the conference the new State constitution adopted at the August Convention is illegal, null and void, and condemns the leaders of the majority in the August Convention, and concludes with the following reso-

Resolved, 1. That this conference of Democrats hereby puts on record its solemn and emphatic protest against the illegal and usurpatory action of the majority of said Convention as instigated by its leaders, and condemns as unp..triotic the intemperate and violent methods of said lenders. 2. That the course of the minority of delegates who withdrew from said convention in refusing to concur in or submit to its illegal proceedings is hereby

The conference then adjourned. I was thought that it would suggest a ticket to be put before the September Convention. It is best as it is. The conference did nothing so far as is given to the public, and no harm can come of it. No ticket is suggested, and nothing but the resolutions referred to adopted.

Two Conventions Called, and Two Primaries Ordered.

[Special to Charieston World.] WINNSBORO, Aug. 21 .- We have two county chairman in this county. The convention in Columbia recognized the delegates elected by the county convention presided over by Hon. John W. Lyles, while the Antis refused to rerecognize him or his authority. The Lyles (or Tillmanite) faction have called primary for the 29th. The Antis met yesterday and called a primary for the 23th. The Tillmanites called their convention for the first day of September, while the Antis have theirs on the 30th instant. It seems from their actions yesterday the Antis were trying to Farmers' Candidates.

[Special to Charleston World.] UNION, August 21 .- The county primary was held here yesterday. returns came in slowly, the last box being heard from this afternoon. The most interest was concentrated in the those of representative in Congress to election of State senator. Only two canmen without experience or record and didates were in the field, C. C. Culp, a young lawyer of Union, and Glenn D. Peake a prominent farmer. The returns for this office give Culp, 402, Peake 817; giving Peake a majority of

585 votes. The members of the legislature from this county in the next legislature will be Dr. Robert Little, G. B. Fowler and

 R. Jeffries. The returns for the probate judge's office show no majority for either candidate, the two highest being J. M. Gee and J. M. Greer, Jr. These two will have to make another race. Mr. J. B. T. Scott will be the next treasurer, having trebled both his opnonents. The race for school commissioner will have to be run again, as no one received majority. The race will be between L. Walker and W. L. Lewastson. The lady candidate, Miss Eliza Garner,

This question was referred to a select committee from the County Executive Committee, which will meet on Monday and decide. The total vote cast was 3,759. The ticket elected to the House is the one "suggested" by the recent "caucus."

THE LANCASTER PRIMARY. LANCASTER, August 22.—The primary election, which was held here yesterday for the purpose of nominating county officers, resulted in the election of Dr. T. J. BELTON, August 25 .- A. C. Latimer of Belton, has called a special 'meeting of the county executive committee at Anderson, next Wednesday, to pass upon the question whether W. F. Cox was, or was not, elected Probate judge in last Friday's primary.

Cox, who is the incumbent, received four more votes than R. M. Burriss, his opponent. A majority of the committee, which is Tillmanite, wish to order a new election, there being a few scat-tering votes for parties not candidates. The committee is threatened with a lawsuit as to the legality of such a move under the rules of the primary, and the committee has been called together to consider the matter.

THE THREE C'S GETS THERE.

Prize of $50,000 Won Without an Hour to Spare-Desperate Opposition by Roughs.

by the 20th of this month. In a few days a regular schedule will be inaugurated between the State line and Johnson City, and this place will begin to feel in a small measure the benefits of this new railroad. The work through Unicoi, especially the latter part of it, was attended with great difficulties. Evil disposed persons threw obstacles in the way, even attempting to wreck the construction train, and succeeded in ditching several car loads of steel rails. But with characteristic energy Mr. William Kenefick swore by the eternal that the road should be put through on time, and by putting on an army of hands and working night and day he kept his

In their address they were so eager to make it strong they deviated slightly from the facts. They said the sub-treasury plan had been universally endorsed by the county and sub-Alliances of the whole country, when the facts are that many sub-Alliances, to my knowledge as an Alliance man, had not endorsed the plan. They say that before endorsing Mr. Norris the District Alliance considered the position taken by each of the candidates. Serious objection is made in their failure to pledge themselves to support Alliance demands, uninfluenced by party caucus. They say Mr. Norris is he only candidate who has complied with the request and pledged himself to support the demands; and the District Alliance has unanimously enlorsed him as their candidate for Congress and every true Alliance man is irged to give him his hearty support. It is known that the County Alliance of Abbeville positively refused to endorse Mr. Norris. Another slight mis-

ABBEVILLE FOR JOHNSTONE. GREENWOOD, S. C., August 25.-The much talked of primary for the Third Congressional District has come and gone, and the result was nothing more than expected, a victory for the Farmers' Alliance and sub treasury fraud.

The vote which Abbeville County gave Colonel Norris is proof that she is less in favor with the sub treasury bill than any county in the district. The latest report hereabouts is that the second race will be run by Colonel Johnstone and Colonel Norris. The entire vote cast against Colonel Norris in the first primary in this county will go against him in the second. Abbeille voters will be glad to support Col George Johnstone. His handsome run in the first race and his close second of Mr. Benet are ample proof of his popuarity in the county.

Senator Butler Says the Minority Should Acquiesce in the Will of the Majority.
