Thorough Work. The average pupil may have finished a number of books in his school course, but this often gives us no idea as to the extent of his education. He may have gone over the school course in such a way that his work is unsatisfactory and almost a failure.

One reason-and the main one-is that the primary work has been done in an unsatisfactory manner. The pupil has been carried too rapidly through the primary grades. He has not been taught to be thorough in earlier school days. Perhaps, as is very often the case, the lessons assigned have been too long-of such length that he could not prepare them thor-

The teacher should insist upon thorough preparation, and in order to have this, the work assigned must not be too difficult. Let the pupils know what they go over, though it be but little. A little well done is better than a great deal poorly d ne. The public schools in some of the

In those communities where the schools have run only three mouths it would be well for the people to supplement the public fund and run the schools six months, or even longer.

We are glad to know that in a great many instances they are willing to do this. A term of three months only does not meet the demand. We learn that Mr. E. O. Counts has taken charge of the Prosperity High School. Mr. Dreher, the former principal, has resigned on account of failing We are glad that Mr. Counts has again decided to teach. We hope that he may continue at the work, as he has always met with success in the school-

The college shall have two regular departments, the agricultural department and the technological department or mechanical department. The general purpose of the Board is to require the same amount of study for both educational and mechanical departments, in English, mathematics, history, political economy and physics. The course will begin to diverge into chemistry after the first year's course. Agricultural chemistry will be required only of students in the agricultural department, as will also biology and botany. Drawing and farming mechanics will be required for a degree for students of both departments, but will be greatly enlarged for mechanical and technological students, who will be required to take an extensive course in mechanical and civil engineering. In the agricultural department there wili be classes of English and literature, mathematics, physics, economy, chemistry, agriculture and head of farm, porticulture and botany, biology and veterinary science, geology and mineralogy, and civil engineering.

In the mechanical department the first five professors above will be common. The others are professors of mechanical, civil engineering and drawache, or loss of appetite take Dr. J.
