The house of Henry Spearman, the colored porter of the Newberry Hotel, was burned down on Tuesday morning. at 4 o'clock. The house was located on Simmons' alley in Ward 1. The roof of the stove room was in flames when the fire was discovered. Nearly all the household effects were saved. The origin of the fire is unknown. Loss about $300.

A New Restaurant.

Mr. J. A. West has opened a neat, cozy and comfortable restaurant in the new brick building in rear of Mr. Klettner's store, where he is prepared to serve a savory meal at short notice. All that the markets afford will be supplied for the tastes of his guests in a nice, cleanly and appetizing way and at reasonable prices.

A pretty fair Democratic vote was polled at Newberry. We heard from only four precincts, but there is no doubt of the general result.

The Third party people are not in it. They will be exclaiming in sad language this morning when they hear the news-"Where am I at?" The people of Newberry are still satisfied with the Democratic party and will stand by it.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Government Lighthouse at Sand Beach Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a Fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and after the new of two and New Discovery, and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle ree at Robertson & Gilder's Drug Store.

DEATHS Richard Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wright, died on Saturday the 5th inst., aged two years, three to the gennes blonde.

Will you never learn anything?" I thank her for the information and then muse and philosophize over brunette and blonde. I experience the greatest trouble in going into a drygoods store where there are lady clerks to make a purchase. If I want some lace, or ribbon, or a dress, or something of that character, the lady clerk is sure to ask me if my wife is a brunette or a blonde.

Then sometimes I forget which is the other, and as neither Mr. Webster or my wife is near, I must rely on my own decision which is sometimes awfully at fault. Now there is a vast difference between my brunette wife and my blonde daughter. My brunette wife tips the scales at 270, and she is worth her weight in diamonds, while my blonde daughter barely raises the beam at 118. So if I make a mistake and want a dress for my blonde daughter, and tell the lady clerk that she is a brunette instead of getting a dress for my blonde daughter, I find on arrival at home, that I got a dress for my brunette wife, and that there is a deficiency in quantity, and I am not happy and serene.

If the error is vice versa; that is, I want neckwear for my brunette wife, and through mistake of terms tell the lady clerk my wife is a blonde, why you see it's all wrong again because, while the colors suit my blonde daughter, there would be an over plus in quantity and a deficiency in my cash account, and I'm not happy and serene again. I am now ridding myself of this vexed ques-tion by asking my brunette wife and olonde daughter to do their own purchasing, which they willingly do if I will promise to foot the bills.

Now I never hear the terms brunette and blonde ever applied to boys and men, so I conclude that they must be of the feminine gender, strictly. Boys and girls don't parse now-a-days.

Were I called upon to parse brunette feminine gender and in the object because they all are, or want to be, the objects of somebody's love. They all offer inducements to be somebody's months and one day. Departed this life, near St. Paul's church, on Friday, November 4, 1892, Hattie E., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bedenbaugh, aged 12 years and 1 days. Hattie was a sweet and gentle and a lovely character, and will be missed and lamented not only in the home circle but by many friends who knew her worth and loved her with an abiding affection. She hath left us for the morning splendor of the upper world, and though it was hard to part from her, we would not selfishly call her back to the darkness and trials of this life, for she is at rest now, and forever free from the temptations and sorrows of earth.

I have been musing and philosophizing over some of the wonderful changes that have been wrought during the last half century. A half century is but a short time for an old man to look back over, but it is an awful long time for a boy just entering his teens to look forward to, and I reckon it's longer still for a girl, especially if she thinks her good looks will not carry her to the hymeneal altar before she reaches her half century. When I was a young man casting around there were a number of classes or grades of girls, as regards their complexion, color of eyes and hair. There was the dark skinned. dark eved, black haired girls. Then there was another grade or class denominated fair skin, blue eyed and light haired. Still another prominent girl was the freckled faced grey eyed, red haired girl. Then there were various other hues of eyes and hair. The auburn, light chestnut, dark chestnut, and sandy eyes, and light blue, dark blue, grey and yellow eyes. When I was courting my wife long ago, I was pleased in describing her as my dark skinned, black eyed, black haired sweetheart, but now what a change has been wrought in the use of our language. Now when I am in the company of ladies, it would awfully shock their sense of stiquette, to hear me describing my wife as a dark skinned, black eyed, black haired lady.

It would be just awful, coarse and list criticism, "Darn foolishness." 2nd criticism, "Stuff." unrefined. Instead of using those good old endearing adjectives as I used to do. I must forget that pleasure and condense, those fine unadulterated adjectives all into one noun, and instead of saying my wife, has dark skin, black eyes and black hair, I must just simply say, she is a-brunette. Brunette, brunette, yes brunette, that is the word,my wife is a brunette. She is not the same woman that I married long ago. Then she was my own dark skinned, black eved, black haired wife; but now she is my brunette wife. That sounds the storm centre, simply waiting for Gilder's Drug Store. funny-brunette wife? We have one the other side of the fiery circle? What daughter at our house, and I used to does it all mean? I can easily undercall her my fair skinned, blue eyed, who wears my pants and who hasn't light haired girl, but she two has even any breath to spare, keeps quiet; undergone the inevitable, and I no onger have my fair skinned, blue eyed, light haired daughter, but. I lang sine. have a most lovely blonde. These latter day women (and girls have divided themselves, so that only two descriptive terms apply to all of them. They are either brunette or they are blondes. No middle class, or onesided issues. I don't know where these Roman nosed, red haired, grey eyed, freckled faced girls belong. I don't know whether they are a species of the brunette or the blonde, but I reckon they go on the side of the blondes. A blonde wouldn't be a brunette for the world, and a brunette wouldn't be a blonde. It would just be horrid. I reckon though, a freckle spotted, red haired girl belongs Sometimes I get these brunettes and olondes awfully mixed. I sometimes don't always know whether I have got a brunette wife and a blonde daughter, or whether I have a blonde wife and a brunette daughter, and I have either to consult Mr. Webster or call my wife and ask her if she is a brunette or a blonde. She'll quickly answer, "Why 'Yu-Be,' I'm a brunette.

Cotton is almost all out, money entirely so and every thing else is humping itself to to keep up with the procession-except poverty, of which latter we can say, without boastfulness, we have enough to supply the demands of future generations with lavish prodigality without material detriment to the surplus. We have a little bread, and, with abject apologies to Smith & Co., a "few molasses" and if the rains hold out we expect to have plenty of water. Speaking of rain, we have just witnessed the retreat of one of the most profitable dry spells seen in these parts for some time. On Friday we observed signs of its termination. The clouds gathered from all four corners of space. The leaves were tremulous with half doubtful anticipation; the thirsty stood agape; the ants carried in their front doors; the old hens oiled their overskirts and things generally were ready, willing and waiting for rain; and it came and caught some of us, as it always does, out of stovewood. That word out has a terrible significance; it used to be "out of sugar, out of coffee, out of clothes, out! out! out! eternally out, until in anguish of soul I implored the "old woman" to substitute some equivalent, until she could congratulate me upon being out of debt. She agreed to taboo the word, and I'm. safe for the next century We even say "let's vacate the domicile to keep from saying out of the house What equivalent does she use? Well, that's a secret; but I will tell you, provided you won't tell anybody else

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Sour Stomach, Diarrhesa, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion, Without injurious medication. "The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria

*For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Late Pastor Bloomingdale Reformed Church

When a fellow takes to writing for publication he (naturally) "puts out set hooks" in the stream of public opinion, and if he be of a somewhat conserva tive makeup is prepared to appreciate his "catch" no matter what position it occupies in the fishealogical line between the tad-pole and the whale. We discard (from dire necessity) any future mention of the whale, and proceed to discuss some of the "small fry," and in all of the meekness of which our modest nature is capable, introduce to the notice of our readers his semi-embryonic ubiquitousness. The People (one-tenth head, eleven-tenths stomach, and the balance tail), whose sole aim and employment seems to consist in wiggling around on their improper fraction and stirring up mud to obscure the vision of marketable fish, and in the after times, whose caudal appendage is metamorphosed into patent back actioned spring attachments, that goes with a hop, skip and a jump around the whole field of journalism appropriating with croaks of equal appreciation for the dainty can-dle fly and the noxious bog-beetle and that despite Shakespeare's "jewel in the head" is consigned by Burns' "hump o' the back" to the realms of darkness-Sic transit gloria frogi. The cat fish that gobbles to garble the wily bass, that delicately tastes and then appropriates without so much as "by your leave" and lastly, that lusus naturæ the merman or talking fish, two of which I have "taken out of the wet"

Now, some people would take on the "high and mighties" if criticsed in such words; but some don't, of which last I am. There is too much sincerity couched in their expressive language to allow in me any, save the kindes feelings of appreciation.

Some one has said that "there is al-ways a calm after a storm." Speaking from a political standpoint, I am compelled to admit the truthfulness of the so dense that you can't stick a butcher hurrah have I heard for any one. Is ufactured at Robertson & stand why a poor devil like the char but I don't understand why the boys who are "scooping in the tin" don't yelp a bit, just as a reminder of "Auld I shall allow the question to follow my bad habits, and give it up, because I can't help myself I am informed upon good authority that a huge snake, s veritable Anaconda, Boa Constrictor Pithon done up in one package, indulges in a semi-occasional glide through certain parts of India, mashing small shrubs and twigs, and leaving the imprint of his mighty body, even upon logs in an advanced state of decomposition. So far have I dealt in fact, permit me to indulge in a little bit of fancy; but first, has any one lost a per snake? or to return to our matter or rather snake. Do you suppose that that old hoodlum of appletree notoriety could possibly be prowling in these parts after some ricalcitrant Hebrew who had sold his birthright for a mes of puree or pottage or peaches in the Jerusalem Street, dots have been somewhat sparce of late owing to the fact that the dotter was laid up with the sore-head; but now that we have gotten so that "we speak as we pass bye" and since he has attended a conventicle of the congregation, and heard with what sincerity they cried out "let us kill the fatted prodigal, the calf's got back" he is prepared to promise you something rich, rare and racy in the line of gossip, politics and educa-

Your correspondent has been charged with a desire to appear boorish, and looking over this epistle from the Hebrews I find one expression that savors of Latin to a person who does not know better. I have only this to say, that this is a great educational epoch, a time for kind of lifting folks up to a certain level. So just get your Latin lexicon and look up my meaning, and if you don't find it, it is a fairly good sign that I don't know what I'm talking about.

There are to be several matrimonial occasions in the country in the near future. I expect to be invited—to stay at home from every one of them, and intend to be present—in imagination, and enter into the unalloyed enjoy-ment—of the hope that they will do etter-next time. I shall report the happy gatherings as succinctly as I can get them-from people who are at Were it not for the depleted condiwhich we propose to send to you, transportation paid. The little darling rests against a pillow, and is in the act of drawing off fit pink sock, the mate of which has been pulled off and flung aside with a triumphant coo. The flesh tints are perfect, and the eyes follow you, no matter where you stand. The exquisitereproductions of this greatest painting of Ida Waugh (the most celebrated of modern painters of baby life) are to be given to those who subscribe to Demorest's Family Magazine for 1833. The reproductions cannot be told from the original, which cost $400, and are the same size (17x2) inches. The baby is life size, and absolutely lifelike. We have also in preparation, to present to our subscribers during 1833, other great pictures by such artists as Percy Moran, Maud Humphrey, Louis Deschamps, and others of world-wide renown. Take only two examples of what we did during the past year, "A Yard of Panies," and "A White House Orchid" by the wife of President Harrison, and you will see what our promises mean.

Those who subscribe for Demorest's Family Magazine for 1833 will possess a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides a Magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep everyone posted on all the tooles of the day, and all the subject matter, that will keep everyone post-ed on all the topics of the day, and all the fads and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family: and while Demorest's is not whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion Magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and we give you, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2, and you will really get over $5 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St. New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send 10 cents for a specimen copy.
