In other words they were

> APPEALING TO THE MACHINE. They went immediately to the Capiol and consulted Senator Irby, who accompanied them back to the postoffice department as soon as the Senate adjourned. Sen. Irby said to Mr. Maxwell that he appeared there as chairman of the State Democracy, and not as a United States Senator, to say in behalf of these gentlemen, Messrs. Strait, Latimer and McLaurin, that they have never been other than loyal and consistent Democrats. They were the nominees of the Democratic primaries and were elected by the Democratic party on the same ticket with the Cleveland electors, and any proscription would be indignantly resented by him-self and the organized Democracy of

SURPRISED AT INBY'S CHEEK. Gen. Maxwell stemed surprised at this statement, and invited Senator Irby to a conference with Postmaster General Bissell. The same argument was repeated to Mr. Bissell, who said that after the present rush is over the matter would be given full and careful consideration, and that justice would be accorded these Representatives.

WHISTLING TO KEEP HIS COURAGE UP. Senator Irby said he knew from what Mr. Bissell said that Messrs. Strait, Latimer and McLaurin will be treated and recognized as other Democratic Cougressmen. Upon being asked if he knew who had caused this "blacklisting," Senator Irby replied in the affirmative, but added that his information was confidential and he was not at liberty to disclose it.

THE MAN WHO DENOUNCED CLEVE-LAND AS A TOOL OF WALL STREET. Congressman Latimer, who was pres ent during the interview, said he understood that the custom has prevailed in the departments of allowing ex-Congressmen, deteated by Republicans under a Democratic Administration, to dispense the Federal patronage in their respective districts. He said he would not submit to any such rule being applied to him in the interest of the gentleman whom he had defeated. Messrs. Irby and Latimer said they do not blame Mr. Maxwell or the Administration, but they denounce it as "a sneaking, dirty trick" of some one. They declare it is the greatest insult that has ever been offered to the Reform element in South Carolina, and t will be resented by their, people at
