Col. N B. Ward Dies Suddenly.

Col. N. B. Ward, of Spartanburg, has been in Newberry for several weeks on a visit to his sister, Mrs. J. M. Scott. He expected to return to-morrow. Yes terday morning he was in his usual health and ate a hearty dinner. He was staying in the store of Mr. M. J. Scott. About 3 o'clock he closed the store and we 'ed over to the house and said he was feeling very sick on his stomach. The ladies of the family applied the ordinary remedies and sent for a doc'or, but before the physician arrived he was dead.

Col. Ward was 58 years old and unmarried. He was a native of Spartanburg County and a brave Confederate soldier. His remains will be taken to Spartanburg for interment.

PRESIDENT CROMER RETURNS

The Students of Newberry College Welcome IIIm Home

As we stated Tuesday, the college students took holiday. President Cromer returned on the evening train on the C., N. & L. The students secured a carriage to which they hitched themsolves and went over to the depot in a body to meet the train, accompanied by the other members of the faculty. As the train rolled up a yell went out from them, and Mr. Cromer was taken up bodily and placed in the carriage in waiting, and the students doublequicked to the Newberry Hotel, drawing the carriage themselves. They called for Judge Benet, who came forward and made them a short talk, in substance as follows:

Young gentlemen of Newberry College: It affords me a great deal of pleasure to meet you here. I have followed this bill just now become an act of Congress, I have watched its various vicissitudes and I rejoice with you that at last it has become a law. It may be thought by some of the wealthy col-News reached here yesterday that leges North, endowed with their mil-Col. I. D. knew him in years gone by as a good lawyer. I hear of him now as a good President, and am led to believe now that he has developed into a good politician and lobbyist. But I must not take up your time, for you are not here for a lecture, but you are out on a frolic. I therefore shall ask you to join me in saying something yourselves. propose three cheers for President Cromer. Also three cheers for Congressman Latimer. I know you will join me in three times three cheers for Newberry College. I thank you for the honor and only wish I was one of you boys.

At the conclusion of Judge Benet's talk President Cromer was called. He said he was too tired to talk, but spoke briefly, in substance as follows:

I want to say I appreciate your good will and especially your love for Newberry College. Congressman Latimer deserves the cheers tonight at your hands, because it is due to his persistent, earnest endeavor that the appropriation has passed into law. It is simply an act of tardy justice, not as a bounty, but the appropiation comes today as a single act of justice. Thirtythree years have clapsed since the building was occupied by Federal troops, and the appropriation comes tonight when we are talking of going to another war. President McKinley has acted very kindly towards us all. He investigated it for himself and satisfied himself that the appropriation was an act of justice before he signed the bill. I want to repeat that I appreciate your good will, and above all your without our claim being just, and we would not want one dollar if it was not that way. I want to propose three cheers for Congressman Latimer.

Three cheers for Cromer were then given, followed by three cheers for President McKinley.

Spanish Gun Boa's The latest war news in Newberry as follows: A day or so ago, noticing a company of the leading citizens of the town, among whom Mayor E --- was the central figure, in close conversation concerning the probabilities of war with Spain, the writer's curiosity was aroused. So he drew nearer and found that they were discussing the advisability of constructing fortifications along Scott's Creek, in order to protect the town and to check any possible advance of the Spanish gunboats, should we be compelled to go to war with Spain. Possibly something was said of a navy to ply upon these waters, and of a force to be stationed at the mouth of Scott's Creek, in order to save from destruction all of the valuable property situated along the banks of this Roman Tiber, there being many costly buildings which, as the evening sun bends low, throw their shadows far out into its majestic waters. Many other suggestions may have been made which the writer did not catch, but enough great misfortune to receive this money sion by Spanish gunboats. It is hoped that no citizen will be so unpatriotic as to divulge these plans to the enemy.
