Calmly Ignored-Lawyers Submit a Protest and Say He will not Retire -Beer Privilege Men Heard.

(Special to Greenville News.)

Columbia, S. C., Oct. 5 .- The board of control this morning finished up the Douthit case, as far as it can for the present.

The Haselden resolution, published in the Greenville News this morning, was passed by vote of three to two. Haselden, Miles and Robinson voted for the passage of the resolution.

Mr. Williams offered the following, which was tabled by a vote of three to two, the same as on all questions relative to Douthit's removal:

"Resolved, That the request of Mr. Douthit through his attorneys that he be given opportunity to defend himself against the charges made by the investigating committee, and to explain away his alleged confession of some of those charges, be granted, and that his further request that he be furnished a copy of said charges be complied with."

Mr. Williams said that he would vote on the Haselden resolution after his was voted on but the board no doubt thought they could not afford to give Douthit any further standing or moral claim on his office.

Counsel for Douthit announce that they will resist the ousting and that he will have to be removed by order of the court, if at all.

Mr. Haselden moved that Douthit be given a hearing before the board without counsel. Mr. Robinson wanted counsel admitted and while that was pending Mr. Haselden moved to go into the purchase of liquor and that was decided upon, leaving the motion to give Douthit a hearing pending high and but a hearing, which you know full well he has never had. We confess that we do not clearly understand whether by your resolution you have adopted the report of your committee or whether you base your action solely on some alleged admissions of your commissioner, and we respectfully ask that you inform us in writing whether or not your resolution is to be construed as an adoption of the committee report. Definite information from you on this point will largely determine our advice to our client. Mr. Douthit does not personally desire to hold the position of commissioner since it is apparent from your action that he is persona non gratia to a majority of the board of control, but as now advised he must reluctantly insist on retaining the place until lawfully

"He admits your right to remove him for cause, but that cause must be found by you to exist after a full and fair hearing, that is to say, you must judiciously determine the existence of sufficient cause. This ju dicial determination of sufficient cause can be had after a fair hearing. As he has had no opportunity to vindicate himself and his official conduct, he can not, as now advised recognize your right to remove him and for the purpose of securing a hearing of both sides of this unfortunate matter, he will for the present continue to act and perform the duty of the office of commissioner. Mr. Douthit stands ready to disprove every allegation made against him, either violative of morals or the regu lations and instructions of your body or the laws of the State.

The Admiral Has Interviews With the President and Appears to Share His Ideas of Philippine Policy.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5 .- The President has decided to send to the Philippines to reinforce the naval force there the cruiser Brooklyn, Schley's old ship which led the Santiago fight, the Nashville and the gun boats Marietta and Machias.

This action is the result of an interview with Admiral Dewey and the expressed determination of the President to furnish the army and navy every resource for stamping out the Philippine insurrection at the earliest possible time. At Admiral Dewey's extended interview with the President today the former went into the Philippine situation at great length, explaining carefully the existing condition of affairs and his views of the outlook concluding with an earnest recommendation that the Brooklyn and some other vessels be sent at once to the Philippines.

These reinforcements will add considerable strength to the Asiatic squadron, and the administration be lieves their presence will have a material effect in expediting the end of

The Marietta is a composite gunboat of 1,000 tons displacement and with a main battery equipment of six guns and the Machias, with a displacement of 1,777 tons, carries a battery of eight guns. Their commanders are all veterans of long experience in the service. The Brooklyn is commanded by Capt. Theodore Jewell, who has seen fourteen years of sea service, the Machias by Lieutenant Commander Leavitt C. Logan, with fifteen years of service at sea, and the Marietta by Lieutenant Commander E. H. Gheen, whose record shows seventeen years of sea service. The Brooklyn's formidable equipment will make her invaluable for general service, while the Marietta and the Machias are expected to be of much usefulness in In the afternoon argument was heard from Hagood, H. SPARTANBURG LOSES A USEFUL AND was worth between $750,000 and HONORED CITIZEN.

Founder and Chief Owner of the Great Clifton and Glendale Factories-Skotch of a Long and Profitable Life,

(Special Greenville News.)

Spartanburg, S. C., October 4.-Dexter E. Converse, president of the Clifton and Glendale cotton factories, leader in the building of Converse college of this city and one of the most prominent, successful and influential cotton mill men in the country, died at his home here this evening. He had been ill for about three weeks, and although his friends, who included the entire population of this community, hoped until the last, his death was not unexpected.

Mr. Converse was born in New England about 72 years ago. He was thoroughly grounded in the cotton mill business there, and came to this country in 1857 or 1858, and applied to John Bomar, Sr., who then had a small frame yarn mill or, the site of the present Glendale yarn mills, for employment. Both of them used to relate with glee that Mr. Bomar was at first disposed to reject the proposition and did refuse flatly, but Mr. Converse persisted and at last was given work. He quickly proved his value and remained at the mill until 1861, when he volunteered as a private in the Confederate army, going out with a Spartanburg company. Although born and brought up in New England, Mr. Converse was thoroughly convinced that the South was right and the Confederacy had no braver or more devoted soldier than he was.

There was urgent need for yarns, the question, but answers it in a diboth by the government and people, however, and because of his skill in the milling business, Mr. Converse was detailed and sent back to Glendale where he worked until the end of the war.

A few years after the war he had developed the business so farthat he built a brick mill at Glendale, one of the first in the State and considered at that time a very fine one. Later he bought the shoals at Clifton and in the seventies he began to build a new mill there. The business has steadily developed until there are three mills at Clifton, and the enterprises there and at Glendale represent a capital of $2,000,000. Mr.

DEATH OF D. E. CONVERSE, Converse holds large shares of the stock of both establishments. He $1,000,000.

He was one of the leaders in the establishment of Converse college here and has given to it $55,000, or, perhaps more.

He was a member of the Presbyterian church here and a liberal giver. In fact no call was made upon his benevolence or his public spirit in vain. He was always ready not only to do his full part in money but to take active personal interest in everything that promises good for mankind or the community. One peculiar and beautiful trait of his life and character was that he was rarely, if ever, known to speak evil of any man.

He leaves a widow, who was Miss Twitchell, sister of the treasurer of the Clifton and Glendale mills, and one daughter, Miss Marie Converse. As the Presbyterian church is not now in use, his funeral, which will be Friday afternoon, will probably be from the Methodist church bore.

Mr. Sheldon does not evade rect and vigorous manner, and tells exactly what he believes would be the effect of his plan upon modern business methods and present-day social
