

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN THE COUNTY.

To change Contract Advertisements, notice must be given before Monday noon.

ADVERTISEMENTS will be inserted at the rate of one dollar and a half per square for the first insertion, and one dollar per square for each subsequent insertion.

LIBERAL TERMS made with those who desire to advertise for three, six or twelve months.

Henceforth, all Legal Advertisements, of County Interest, whether notices or others, will be published for the benefit of our readers whether they are paid for or not.

SUBSCRIBERS Will have their papers regularly mailed. Send us new names, build up our paper, and let every household in the County be a supporter of our enterprise.

ADVERTISERS Will find it specially to their interest to give us their cards. A conspicuous notice will attend each advertisement.

LATEST. AUGUSTA, June 17.—Arthur A. Glover, killed Wm. S. Goumillian, and his father Lovett Goumillian at Edgfield today at 10 A. M. It is the result of an old feud.

At Raleigh, N. C., a jealous husband John Halcombe, shot his young and beautiful wife three times, and then killed himself, his lifeless body fell across that of his wife.

The cholera is spreading in the West Cincinnati reports three cases. Nashville thirty-five.

The war in Spain is still raging with varying success. Under a mean monarchy bulls were killed, under a new republic the people are slaughtering each other.

JUDGE ORR. The funeral ceremonies of the late Hon. Jas. L. Orr, which took place at New York, were of an imposing and solemn character. The military attended in large force, and the Masonic fraternity, with a number of prominent private citizens made an honorable pageant.

The funeral procession at Columbia was a solemn tribute. The colored militia, a detachment of United States troops, the masons, a delegation of citizens from Anderson, and a cortege of vehicles attended the remains to the Hall of Representatives, which was fitly dressed.

ONLY THAT; AND NOTHING MORE. An exchange remarks: "It has come, in the ordinary course of things, that a faithful and conscientious discharge of duty by a public official, is the exception, and not the rule. This is not the fault of politics, it is peculiar to no party, and is characteristic of no State.

The defenders of the faith were until now as blind to reason as a muezzin, but a schism has occurred in the republican party, and the truth leaks out freely from the disappointed. Until now, the complaints of the South were a cant, their grievances were illusory, and freedom, progress, civilization, christianity, and a score of other blessings were freely offered by the party, to be as freely spurned by the Bourbons. However; it is now admitted by every Radical paper in the State; that of all the gigantic frauds, of all the prodigious villainies, of all the guilty felons, which have figured from the days of Satan to the present time, no scheme has surpassed that of the government of the South, by the party now in power. But say they, it is not the fault of politics; The word has been strangely misused we admit, and loses its pristine intent, when applied to misrule, since its import is "that part of ethics which consists in the regulation of government, for the preservation and promotion of the peace, and happiness of the governed." How much thought, labor, or example has been bestowed to reconcile the South to the hateful tyranny of Federal despotism; Why did the South choose the arbitration of the cruel sword, except to avoid a fate she saw gathering as a portentous cloud for years, and from which she endeavored to escape, by every argument of truth, and of justice. This she was denied; she was divested of all rights under the constitution, and peaceably attempting to withdraw from a confederation which discriminated against her every interest, she was dragged back by an overwhelming power, and forced into the condition she occupies to-day. Notwithstanding the disgraceful rule which she endured, she in good faith was led to various attempts to better her condition. She accepted the olive branch of a compromise, merely to ensure peace and a bettering of government. How has all this been met, except by a repugnant realization that she stooped only to further disgrace. The position of true principle cannot be invaded with trickery without a loss, and a review of the past eight years, only urges a further vigilance on our part lest we abandon every honorable recollection and sunder every endearing memory, in giving even a tacit support to a class of politics, that has evoked nothing but shame upon the name it heralds, and the supporters who defend it.

Men possessed with an honest desire, and intensity, of purpose may safely investigate error, and form their conclusions, freed of intolerance and bitterness. The mind beclouded with a film of contempt for what is just, is utterly incapable of measuring the stern requirements of right, and is actuated only by passion or prejudice. In this day of political strife, where upon the one hand are a remnant opposing the surrender of principle, and upon the other a crowd clamoring for its overthrow, there must necessarily be a broad gulf of separation. No compromise however small may be admitted, that will not weaken the cause of the right, and secure its certain defeat. The vantage ground is always with wrong, where right and wrong are equally arrayed. The popular vote is for that which enjoins a freedom from restraint, and which appeals to mere blinded passion, and ignores the finer discriminations of ennobling thought and aim. The only defense of truth is Justice, remove this and a chaos of unbridled passion and baseness succeeds as the result of a natural depravity. Hobbes says; when men have once acquiesced to untrue opinions, and recorded them as authentic in their minds, it is no less impossible to argue to such intelligibly, than to write legibly upon a blurred sheet of paper. Upon the grounds of their opinions they have bestowed so little earnest thought, that they press on blindfolded through a labyrinth of errors, with a heart of opposition and resentment, that would not dare meet their rational convictions.— We would not be understood, as opposing the freedom of speech and thought. Such an attempt would be futile and unwise. Man's nature will not bide restraint, and his enmity is only increased with the effort. But we would be understood, that while we refrain from bandying words upon arguments with such as are on the other side, and accord them the right to propagate their errors, we are very far from admitting their views as orthodox, or from giving them any further notice than that they do not expect. The political tree is rotten at its core, if to be judged by its fruit. Only that and nothing more.

CHIPPINGS. —A party of Lynchers broke into the house of the chief of a gang of robbers in Wetsel County, Ohio, and killed the object of their search and wounded his wife. —Captain Jack is still waiting for the sentence. —The right reverend and devout Gen. O. O. Howard, is supposed to be largely interested in swindling the colored troops out of their bounty. —A colored man dug up $17,000 which a miser had buried eight years ago near Savannah. —A single theatrical exhibition in New York netted $15,000. —Judge Wardlaw was 74 years of age when he died. The cause of his death was paralysis. —The cotton worm is beginning its work in North Mississippi. —J. Eli Gregg, Esq., died at Florence S. C. on the 15th. —A discarded lover at Nashua, N. H., shot his sweetheart. The lady may recover. —The Rev. J. S. Ezell convicted as a Ku Klux, has been pardoned by the President. —Memorial Day in Charleston, was celebrated as usual, with a general suspension of active business, and a gathering at Magnolia. The scene of garlanding the graves of our dead, was witnessed by thousands, and the effort to raise a fund for the purpose of finishing the movement, has warranted the ladies in supposing that their devout wish will be accomplished.

—Efforts are being made to reorganize the colored militia in various parts of the State. A new bid for trouble. —The Laurensville Herald reports the deaths of Messrs. Wm. R. Darnall, Valentine Hatlan and Lesley Brown. —Gen. Grant's organ comes out in favor of paying Mrs. General Lee for Arlington. —Gen. D. H. Hill will deliver the address before the literary societies connected with the Furman University at its next commencement. —President Grant has gone to Long Branch. Pressing duties prevented him from coming South. In other words the South may go to grass.

—Gov. McEmery being forced to submit to bayonet rule in Louisiana, advises the people of that State to acquiesce until Congress assembles.

—Asiatic cholera is said to be raging at Memphis.

—Fifty of the original signers of the declaration of independence were masons and every Major-General except Arnold in the old Continental army was a mason.

Carpenters, Pattern Makers, and Cabinet Makers, Will take notice that P. P. Toale, of Charleston, has on hand and for sale, White Pine of the finest grade, wholesale and retail. Also, Walnut, Oak and other hard wood.
