ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF TRAINS AT ORANGEBURG.

Table with columns for PASSENGER, FREIGHT, DAY TRAINS, NIGHT TRAINS. Includes arrival and departure times for various routes.

Notice. Contract advertisers may change monthly. Every change must be sent in by Monday noon.

Mr Neuffer is employed as Assistant Postmaster.

Mr Fred Dibble in company with Master John Bull left one day last week for the north.

Mr. Graham's position at the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company is now filled by Mr. Harris.

Another supply of Rata Baga seed has been received by Mr E. Ezekiel.

TAXATION. Our correspondent "Taxation," will please send us his name, when we will publish his article with pleasure.

PARADE. The Elliott Hook and Ladder company made their monthly parade on Thursday last. They turned out in effective force, and went through the usual exercise of drill.

LAYING THE CORNER-STONE. Our report, in another column, of the celebration on Saturday last, was written by our Charleston Correspondent, Mr. Chas. E. Carrere, who is on a visit to Orangeburg.

COTTON CATERPILLARS. Are reported in many portions of the County, and if this constant rainy weather continues, we fear considerable damage to the crops. Rust is represented as being very prevalent.

FIGHTING WHISKEY. A "cullid gemmen," who had imbibed an over-dose of lightning, on Tuesday, felt like striking out. His reverberating anathemas were hurled principally against jewelry stores and banks, both of which, fortunately, were closed, and always will be to his credit. The louder he railed, the thicker grew his words until frantic gestures and disgraceful yelling served to amuse the lookers-on. He was not locked up.

PERSONAL. The Rev. Mr. Aldrich of the Lutheran Church at Charlotte N. C. is on a visit to his son, Mr. Robt. H. Aldrich, of the shingle factory. Mr. Aldrich preached in the Presbyterian Church on last Sunday, in the morning, and at the Methodist Church at night.

Mr. Roswell T. Logan, of the Charleston Daily News & Courier, called on us on Saturday last. The object of his visit it was to report, the proceedings of the Agricultural Society's gala day and the very full account in Monday's paper attests the accuracy and energy which are natural to him, notwithstanding the heat of the day, we remember seeing Mr. Logan, on more than one occasion during the late unpleasantness, in an equally warm place.

The well on the site of the old factory building is a receptacle for dead cats &c. The stench emitted is overpowering. This is a case for the Council. The well should be filled up.

THE BYAS TICKET. Has the emblem of industry in the shape of a harrow. The result of the election may confirm his ideas by a harrowing conviction of being left out in the "cold, cold, dreary cold."

HAIGLER'S ACADEMY. Will be re-opened on 1st of September, by Mr. Hugo G. Sheridan. Our readers will remember that this is the school the annual commencement exercises of which were described in a late issue. Mr. Sheridan deserves the reputation he has won, as a faithful and efficient teacher. Board can be obtained near the school on very reasonable terms.

Mrs. Oliver Sistrunk, after a protracted illness died about 3 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, at the residence of her sister Mrs. Wilson. The remains of the deceased were carried to Georges Station, to be interred. A husband and five children are left in sadness. There was a large gathering of friends, and relatives at the depot to render a last act of affectionate parting. In the short period of five months there have been four bereavements in this family circle.

MRS. SRS. HEYWARD & MELLICHAMP. Announce that their Academy will open on Monday, Sept. 1st. The constant increase in patronage which their school has enjoyed shows the high estimation in which it is held. Both gentlemen are thoroughly qualified for their work, and promise to devote their entire energies to build up an institution of learning which shall be a source of pride to our County.

DR. THOS. LEGARE. Late of the City Hospital, of Charleston has moved to our town, and offers his professional services to the community. Dr. Legare has held a most responsible position in the hospitals of Charleston, and has enjoyed unusual advantages in learning his profession. He leaves an enviable reputation among his associates in the city. The Doctor has our best wishes. His rooms are above the store of Mr. J. A. Hamilton, where he can be found, day or night.

LIFE INSURANCE. A policy for $2000 was effected in the Southern life for the benefit of a youth in Orangeburg, by his uncle. The first premium was paid, and upon the second becoming due, the regular notice was furnished by the Agent of the company. The uncle neglected to pay the premium, and was soon after taken ill, and died. The youth thereby lost $2000, which in his straitened condition would have made him very comfortable.

A GRAND DAY IN ORANGEBURG! On Saturday last, in the presence of a large assemblage of interested spectators, was laid the Corner Stone of the new Fair Buildings about to be erected by the Orangeburg Agricultural and Mechanical Association. The Masonic fraternity, composed of seven Lodges, presided over by District Deputy Grand Master James F. Izlar, performed the ceremony. The procession, under the direction of Grand Marshal, William V. Izlar, and composed of the Agricultural Societies and Masonic brotherhood, was formed at the Masonic Hall on Main Street, the Orangeburg Grange heading the column. On the way to the grounds, Dr. Barton, the Pres't. of the O. A. & M. A., received from the hands of one of the fair daughters of Mayor Briggman, a beautiful wreath of flowers, while the Grand Master, Capt. Izlar, also received from the other a similar offering. This little episode added much to the interest of the occasion, and was a fitting tribute of youth and innocence to the shrine of merit and ability. The Lodges were well attended and formed a long line of Masons, gorgeously decorated with the brilliant insignia and paraphernalia of their Order. A spacious stand had been put up for their accommodation on the grounds of the Society, which were entered under an arch of evergreens; so tastefully arranged that we at once ascribed this floral tribute to the fair fingers of the ladies. The platform was crowded to its utmost capacity, with the officers of the Lodges and their guests, among whom we noticed the reporter of that most enterprising journal, the Charleston "News & Courier." Immediately in front, a spacious awning contained the beauty and grace of Orangeburg; a number of vehicles of every description, judiciously arranged in a circle, enabled their occupants to witness the proceedings, secured from the burning rays of the sun. After an ode had been well rendered by the volunteer choir, assisted by the melodious Organ of Shilboleth Lodge, ably presided over by Mr. Aldrich, while the entire choir was under the superintendence of Mr. Henry Kohn, and a prayer offered by the Rev. A. B. Stephens, District Deputy Grand Master, Izlar, delivered an address explanatory of the ceremony to be performed. These remarks, couched in the most elegant language, contained one of the most beautiful expositions of the Ancient rite it has ever been our good fortune to listen to, at its conclusion the corner stone was laid with all the Ancient and time-honored ceremonies. The stone, a block of white marble, contained a number of articles, including newspapers and such objects of interest as are intended to give our descendants 1000 years hence some ideas of our present condition, and state of civilization, among other things was a collection of rare and unique coins, English, American and Spanish, kindly placed at the disposal of the Dist. Dep. Grand Master, by W. T. Müller, Esq. As the last strains of music died away, the Grand Master introduced the Hon. T. W. Glover, whose oration on the subject of Agriculture, prefaced by some very happy and apt remarks, was listened to with the greatest attention and interest, and the compliment paid at its conclusion to the fair sex, produced the thunders of applause it deserved. The Orangeburg Agricultural and Mechanical Association, on whose behalf the address was delivered, is a Joint Stock Co., composed of 200 shares, organized only last May, and it is a highly significant fact, of the rapidly increasing wealth and prosperity of the County, that since that time they have started with a capital of $5,000 have obtained a tract of 30 acres on one of the best locations in the village, and are about to erect a spacious building costing between three and four thousand dollars, together with cattle sheds, &c., and every convenience and facility for conducting a Mechanical and Agricultural display. Dr. W. F. Barton is the President; Samuel Dibble, Esq., Secretary, and Kirk Robinson, Esq., Treasurer of this admirable organization.

As soon as the benediction had been pronounced the larger portion of the crowd, adjourned to the grove in front of John C. Rowe's where a picnic was given under the auspices of the Agricultural Society and the Grange of Orangeburg. To say that the good things were of the best description, and in the greatest profusion, would be only to make an assertion which defies contradiction. Going, under the impression that the fruit season had been a failure, we left firmly convinced that such a statement was a delusion and a snare, we saw peaches that might have competed with those grown in the best kept northern orchards, and grapes, the luscious clusters of which looked as if they might have grown on the banks of the Rhine. An amount of good nature pervaded the company which almost prevented the absence of knives and forks from being felt; not even the chop-sticks of Bret Harte's protegee were called for, and fingers were used with a dexterity worthy of an antediluvian. Large quantities of ice ministered to the thirsty, and unreasonable indeed must have been the man who remained unsatisfied. We heard of but one hungry man, but as he was previously seen surreptitiously carrying off a huge chicken pie, that occurrence throws a grave doubt on the genuine nature of his unappetised appetite, and we are inclined to believe that his distress was similar to that of the naughty boy, "who wept because he could eat no more." Observing the complete success of the entire celebration, and the perfect satisfaction of all of the many present, we are confident that both the Masonic ceremony and the picnic will be long remembered as the inauguration of a movement calculated to foster, protect and encourage home productions and enterprise, and one which will be crowned with the success and abundant prosperity it deserves.

THE ELECTION FOR SENATOR

Came off yesterday, the 13th inst., and interested only the colored voters. At time of going to press, there seemed to be no doubt that the majority for Andrews would be very large—some of Byas' friends being very noisy, but were few and far between. Although the Conservative party had no candidate in the field, it is questionable whether keeping away from the polls may not become habitual, and, sometime in future, work serious damage to the interests of our people.
