TOOK LEG BAIL.

Judge McIver Refuses to Release him on Bond, so he Skips to Parts Unknown,

Travis Evans, the white man who is charged with murder in Chesterfield county and who was brought to the Darlington jail for safe keeping, has skipped to parts unknown. On Wednot surrender any more liquor to the officers of the law unless the latter show proper papers, the dispensary:

In the energy in the energy of last week Sheriff Scarborough carried him to Cheraw to appear before Chief Justice McIver on habeas corpus. After hearing the case the Judge refused to release Evans on bond, so later he took "leg bail".

As there was no train returning to Darlington that night Sheriff Scarborough took Evans to the residence of C. L. Evans, the prisoner's cousin, intending to remain there with him until next morning. While the Sher-iff was eating his supper, C. L. Evans and Travis Evans walked out on the piazza, C. L. Evans agreeing to keep watch on his captive cousin. During the conversation Travis Evans asked his companion to get him something with which to un-cork a bottle of whiskey. The latter went into the house to comply with the request and when he returned to the piazza he found that the prisoner had skipped. So Sheriff Scarbor-ough had to return home without his man, whose whereabouts have not yet been ascertained.

Griffin, Dar lington; T. L. Cannon, John Lawton, Hartsville; W. L. Josey, Una. As soon as their several papers are examined, the name of the successful applicant will be announced.

Maj. Evans, the new proprictor of the Cleveland House, has made a fine impression here by the way he conducts his hotel. Nothing so advertises a town as a good hotel, and from the expressions of approval which we hear on all sides, we feel warranted in saying that regeneral consensus of opinion is that the fare is excellent, and intall the appointments of the institution are of such a nature as to reflect credit upon the community.

RABBI JOHN SERGIUS.

RABBI JOHN SERGIUS.

A Native of East India Delivers a Lecture in the Methodist Church.

Rabbi John Sergius, a native of East India and a converted Jew, delivered a lecture in the Methodist Church, on Tuesday night, on the manners and customs of the people of East India. A large crowd was out to hear him and was much pleased and interested in what he had to say. The Rabbi is travelling over the country, giving lectures for the purpose of raising funds for the support of the many destitute orphans in his native land, and is meeting with much success.

We are now ready to show you the largest and greatest line of Fall Suits ever displayed in Darlington, and we are really "proud" of our line, as we make this a specialty in our business. We have on our counters now hun dreds of handsome suits ready for inspection and comparison. In our business suits we have taken special care to show the best suits in the town for $10, $12.50, $15. Our better grades this season at $17.50, $18, $20, $25, surpass anything we have ever had. Even our cheapest suits are cut in the same neat and well-fitting styles as the higher priced ones.

School suits with long pants. You will be surprised to see them at such prices: $4, $5, $6, $7, $8.50, $10. None of the above can be duplicated and as the school season is close would advise you to come and see them at once.

Our Boys' and Children's Department is as usual full of pretty mit.
