The State Normal Institute.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Aug 23 1881. Editor Orangeburg Times: During the past week the institute has been steadily at work...

Our beloved Principal and his assistants have been earnestly at work, endeavoring to implant in the minds of the teachers the best methods of teaching...

Last Friday evening was the occasion of a most agreeable lawn party given to the teachers in the extensive grounds of the Baptist Church.

During the past week the Institute was honored by a visit from one who, in the words of our worthy Principal "is the ablest of philosophical thinkers on education in the world."

The Institute was also addressed during the week by Dr. Furman of the University, "that Nestor in Education in South Carolina" who gave to the teachers much valuable information...

The most interesting feature of the Institute at present is the course of lectures on the English Language by Dr. Joynes. So interesting and instructive are his lectures that each day the room is crowded by teachers and visitors...

We are now on the threshold of the last week of the session, which it is hoped will prove the most interesting and instructive...

It has been quaintly said that nothing succeeds like success, as if it were not impossible to succeed without it.

Success. According to Location of Room. E. T. GAILLARD, Proprietor, Charleston, S.

Crops—Showers &c.

SAWYERDALE, ORANGEBURG CO. Editor Orangeburg Times: Will you allow me a small space in your valuable paper for the following:

Crops in this section are not as good as they were last year. Our farmers seem to be in low spirits, but we are blest now with showers, and all vegetable matter begins to smile and why not us?

We had a very interesting series of meetings in our neighborhood, one at Rocky Grove Church and the other at Pleasant Hill Church. The former meeting lasted ten days, two sermons being preached each day...

We had the pleasure to listen to an able address delivered at Pleasant Hill on the subject of "Education" by Prof. Boynton O'Brien of Johnston Academy.

Business and Politics.

The dull, dreary summer will soon be past, and the business activities of the fall and winter season will soon be upon us. We expect it to be lively, and the indications and our hopes conspire to forecast a bright and promising future.

A Wife Worth Having.

A correspondent of the Aiken Journal and Review, speaking of a visit to the Hon. Geo. D. Tillman, says: "In this connection we can not help remarking that Mrs. Tillman is one of the most energetic and wonderful women in the State."

When summer passes away and the flowers lie withered and serene—when the forest puts on its annual robes of scarlet and gold—when the breeze becomes fresher and more bracing—when the crack of the gun reverberates through the silent aisles of the woodland—when everything has a tendency to make man pause and meditate on the uncertainties and vicissitudes of life, what is sweeter than to sit on a rail fence and peacefully devour a raw turnip?

Methodist and Baptist Meetings.

Editor Orangeburg Times: Some time has elapsed since my last communication. This silence, can be attributed to a want of something more interesting than the general topics of the day.

For several days, protracted meetings have been held respectively in the Methodist and Baptist Churches. The Revs. Manning Brown, Pessie A. Clifton, Henry S. Wannamaker and Edward Pettus were occupying at different times the pulpit in the Methodist Church.

The Rev. Manning Brown, preached the first sermon of the meeting, and while he gave pleasure to Christian lovers of the true religion of God, he administered to the advocates of all false teachings and backsliding a rebuke that certainly left no means of escape, except it be by acknowledging the absurdity of their false teachings, and accept a more just and plausible doctrine of the living God.

On Monday night at the request of his young brother minister, the Rev. Moore occupied the pulpit in the Methodist Church. How grandly he filled his new position, the earnest attention, the tears, the sighs of his audience, is a silent and eloquent testimony of the high appreciation in which the congregation heard him.

The pastor of New Prospect Church, the much loved Rev. Jessie A. Cuffon preached several times during the meeting, and, each discourse, he claimed the entire attention at all times of an appreciative congregation.

These interesting meetings which all in attendance seem to enjoy were closed last night, and far distant be the day, when the Christian influences of God's ministers shall cease to awaken our gratitude, or to employ our songs.

Orangeburg.

Friend McSweeney of the Hampton Guardian thus speaks in his paper of the visit of the Committee to Orangeburg last week:

"On Friday morning we visited Mr. George Cornelison's store and warehouse, where we were taken in charge by Mr. Brunson (who in the absence of Mr. Cornelison is superintending the business) and shown through the entire establishment. The building constituting the store is of brick, three stories high, and 50 by 100 feet—Mr. Cornelison being a merchant, doing a business of over $200,000 per annum, as well as a manufacturer. We found here every thing that a farmer requires from his merchant, including furniture.

After a rest and refreshment, we were taken to the factory and there turned over to Superintendent Pierce, a Rhode Island man, who thoroughly understands cotton milling in all its details, from the engine room to the press, where the yarns are put into compact bales for shipment to New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

To say that we were pleased don't do half justice to our feelings, and we came away fully convinced that the "world do move" notwithstanding we had left home a little muddled as to whether it was the sun or the world that did the moving at the Court House, being more than half inclined to believe that the Virginia colored divine was about right when he asserted that "the sun do move," whether he could prove it or not.

Our enterprising merchant, Mr. M. L. Gleaton, has done a heavy business, advancing to the farmers this year. His business seems to be second to none in his line in the County.

With a rise in the cotton market, which we believe is for us, and economizing, we feel assured, that times will not be so hard as is generally anticipated.

St. Matthews Dots.

This is not a dead town, nor is it a finished town, nor are its inhabitants asleep. We claim to be a go-ahead people. New buildings have sprung up all over the place, this year, and carpenters, plasterers and lumbermen have had a good time.

Loafers are, to those who never get away from here, an unknown animal. The Trial Justice seldom has a case for trial, unless it is imported from the county.

Of course it has been dull and dry here, and in the vicinity during the Summer and some have worn long faces, but smiling countenances will soon be seen, as cotton is making its appearance, and most of the farmers have had a "little sprinkle," which is bound to help some if we have a late frost.

We do not expect more than a half crop of cotton, and very little corn, but we hope to get a better price for the cotton, on account of its general failure.

Among the many who have been energetic in trying to make improvements, and build up new enterprises in the town, I may mention Mr. W. H. Hennon, who believing that a good brick could be produced here, after contending with innumerable difficulties, succeeded at last in finding a splendid deposit of brick material, and has converted a portion of it into as fine a brick, for building purposes, as can be found anywhere.
