THE HERALD.

There is one thing about the Reform movement that is a real reform. to the lucky ones, and that is the reform or change in their incomes since they commenced serving the down-trodden farmers. Tillman, Irby, McLarin, the two Garys and a good many others are getting the benefit of this kind of Reform. The people are not getting anything except the fun of yelling when the magic word Reform comes from the lips of one of these unselfish patriots.

Those of our contemporaries who are predicting the demise of the Democratic party in South Carolina, are shedding their tears a little too soon. It is true that the party machinery has gotten under control of a lot of unscrupulous politicians, that are not Democrats, but the grand principles of the party are indestructible and will endure as long as any part of our people love liberty and good government. Its name may be blotted out but its political teachings will remain without change, constituting, as they do, the very basis upon which must rest the fabric of any truly republican form of government.

In the Monday's issue of the Columbia Journal its editor seems to think that the Conservatives are losing ground, and that they ought to be fighting something or somebody merely to keep their hands in. The editor of THE HERALD is not the least bit of a politician but begs to remind the Journal that apparent inaction is not invariably a sign that a party is not at work, and he can rest assured that when the time for action comes the real Conservatives, we don't mean the weak-kneed fellows, will be found on hand ready to put in their work. In proof of what we say in regard to laying low, we refer the editor of our contemporary to that friend of his boyhood days, Brer Rabbit, who was almost most quiet when his fertile brain was hatching out all kinds of mischief in order to get ahead of the other animals.

Brother Ball is such an inveterate humorist that his editorial may be merely a joke, but if he really wants to fight there is nothing to hinder him from trying to destroy the magic of the word "reform." If things really look this way to our friend it proves pretty conclusively that drinking the Congaree river water has been too much for his liver, and if this be the case then he can't be blamed for taking a gloomy view of things, for when this important organ of the body gets out of order it does make a man feel as if the whole world was going to destruction and he along with it.

If the usually hopeful gentleman who edits the Journal would spend a week or two in Darlington and drink our splendid artesian water, things, generally, would assume a much more pleasant aspect and he would have the appetite of a rail-splitter and sleep like a tonstone.

P. S. We don't mean the kind of rail-splitter who splits rails for the editorial fence.

The Campaign.

The opening meeting of the political campaign at Rock Hill on Monday was, despite the large crowd present, rather tame, all the candidates seeming to be holding themselves in reserve for the future meetings. Governor Tillman declined to commit himself to the plan of having a senatorial primary and in doing this practically confesses that he does not care to risk this way of deciding the contest.

All the candidates for governor were on hand and presented their claims. Of course they all professed themselves as original dyed in the wool Reformers.

Senator Butler announced that he would show up Governor Tillman's record at the future meetings and when he does this things will be very lively.

The Columbia Register admits that Senator Butler had the crowd at Rock Hill, but things seemed to be reversed on Wednesday at York, when Governor Tillman's supporters seemed to be in a majority.

In a future issue of THE HERALD we will give a fair synopsis of the speeches, preferring to wait until the candidates get on their war paint and begin to fight in earnest.

Since the above was in type the campaign meetings has taken place at Chester, at which place Senator Butler denounced the Governor in unmeasured terms, giving him a well-deserved castigation.

Gen. Butler, we fear, stands very little chance of re-election, but he will make the campaign very uncomfortable, to say the least, for the tyrant and demagogue who has worked such mischief in the State.

The Governor has a bitter tongue but he will think twice before he insults a man who is an utter stranger to fear.

Misrepresenting Our People.

The New York Independent, a newspaper that ranks very high from a literary standpoint, has, ever since the Dispensary troubles, been persistently misrepresenting the people of Darlington in reference to their connection with those unfortunate occurrences.

Mr. B. O. Duncan, a well-known and highly cultivated citizen of the State, has had considerable correspondence with the editor of the Independent, in reference to these misrepresentations, and through the columns of the News and Courier, has published a statement of the whole case. The matter is too long for our columns, but we have no hesitation in saying that he has convicted this journal of deliberate and inexcusable misstatement, and then proceeds to show that its editor flatly refused to publish his, Mr. Duncan's, version of the affair. The Independent is a religious paper, or supposed to be one, yet does not hesitate to use its editorial columns for the purpose of grossly slandering a part of the people of our State.

It is conspicuously lacking not only in Christian charity, but in addition ignores the rules of fair journalism. Newspapers that claim to teach Christianity, ought, as a matter of decency and consistency, in the writings of their respective editors, to illustrate its teachings. It is a lamentable fact that a great many of our religious papers are, in many essential respects, more unfair and uncharitable than the secular journals. There is probably not one of the latter that would have refused to give Mr. Duncan a hearing.

The dispatches from Washington report that a well organized plot has been unearthed to blow up the capitol and other public buildings with powerful explosives. The leader in the movement is a half-breed Indian, from Chicago, and was concerned in the Haymarket riots which took place in that city some years ago. So far the government detectives have been able to keep track of these anarchists, but their mere presence is a menace to public safety and some means ought to be devised to get rid of them. Diabolical plots of this kind are, almost without exception, either instigated or carried by anarchists that have emigrated from Europe. We believe in immigration but no one should be allowed to land who cannot prove, to the satisfaction of the custom house officials, that he is a peaceable and law-abiding man.

Tariff was originally the name of a Moorish chief, who, from a port in Spain, near Gibraltar, was accustomed to levy toll on passing vessels. His toll became a regularly understood thing, and the amount was added to the price of the goods.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

New Counties.

There is considerable interest being manifested throughout the State in regard to the formation of new counties, and while not committing ourselves to the small county idea, it must be admitted there is much to be said in favor of having the county seats more accessible to those who find it a great inconvenience to ride so far in order to attend the courts.

The people of Bishopville, irrespective of party or faction, are agitating the question of a new county with that town as the location for the courthouse and jail. As it is not proposed to take any part of Darlington to form this new county we are not specially interested in the matter, but would like to make one suggestion thereto which we trust will be favorably received. The suggestion is in reference to the name, Salem, which is proposed for the new county. There is nothing historic or pretty about it, unless it be that our Bishopville friends wish to perpetuate a name that is associated with New England witchcraft, for it was at Salem, Mass., that a great many people were imprisoned and executed on account of this superstition.

There is no State in the country that is richer in honored and historic names than South Carolina, and why should our people not wish to perpetuate one of them when they have the opportunity of doing so? Much as we love our Florence friends we have never quite forgiven them for their inexcusable lack of taste and patriotism in not giving their county the name of some illustrious warrior or statesman, who in his time had added lustre to the name of his State. Sumter, Darlington, Marion and Horry were all named for heroes of the Revolution, and to our mind have the best names of any counties in the State. Is the spirit of patriotism on the decline in South Carolina? If not, then why do we neglect to honor the names of our illustrious dead, and at the same time reflect credit on ourselves by perpetuating their names and memories?

With such names as Moultrie, Jasper, Rutledge, Pinckney, Hayne, Lowndes, Calhoun, McDuffie, Legare, Hammond and others that might be mentioned, why should we be at a loss? How would such names as Florence, Salem and Greenwood look when compared with the ones mentioned above? The one honored exception to this lack of patriotism is furnished by the people of St. Matthews who want a new county and propose to call it Calhoun. The only objection we have to this is that we think it would be better for the name Richland to be dropped and that of Calhoun substituted, thus giving the county containing the State capital the name of its distinguished son. We trust that not only the people of Bishopville but of other sections that contemplate having new counties will give this suggestion their earnest consideration.

The numerous strikes that are going on in different parts of the country, principally in the coal regions, are simply aggravating matters and making the times worse instead of better. They furnish the most conclusive proof that the doctrine of protection is fallacious and instead of, as is claimed by its advocates, improving the condition of the workingman invariably makes it worse. While in many instances the workmen have real cause for complaint, there are two sides to the question and it is a significant fact, and to some extent alarming that nearly all outbreaks of this character, especially when accompanied by violence are the work of foreigners who have neither knowledge or respect for our laws. The condition of some of these miners, owing to low wages is truly pitiable and while it is not to be wondered at that they are resorting to violent outbreaks that can only be quelled by military power. The malitia have been called out in six or seven States and in some of them there has been bloodshed.

The great electric light erected at Sandy Hook, N. J., was operated last week. The light is the same one used at the World's Fair. So intense and far-reaching were the rays that places far down the Jersey coast, on Staten Island and Coney Island, were plainly visible. Vessels at anchor in the bay showed up almost as plainly as in daylight. The weather was not suitable for the perfect working of the light, but even with this condition against it the rays must have been visible for a great distance. It is claimed that the light can be thrown without difficulty as far as Philadelphia.

Going to San Francisco.

Columbia Journal.
Mr. Robert Jones, who for some time held a lucrative position in the office of the Singer Sewing Machine Company in this city and Darlington, leaves shortly to seek his fortune in San Francisco.

Mr. Jones has many friends in this city who wish him abundant success in the "City of the Golden Gate."

Knows What's What.

Wilmington Star.
The Columbia, S. C., Register, Tillman organ, is mistaken. There are no Populists in North Carolina. They are all "Jeffersonian Democrats," like Tillman. The Star is very well aware of the fact that Tillman calls himself a Democrat, but it is also very well aware of the fact that he is fighting both the Democracy of his own State and the Democratic party of the country, and that he is as far from being in accord with either of them as if he stood squarely on the Populist platform. It answers his purpose best to call himself a Democrat, just as the Populist leaders of this State do when they go before the people and seek excuse for their desertion by still claiming to be Democrats, "Jeffersonian Democrats," better Democrats than the men who make the Democratic party. We are used to that kind of thing over here, and we recognize it even at this distance when we see it in South Carolina. Tillman's disguise is too thin to fool anybody.

Get Southern Negroes.

PITTSBURG, June 12.—Edward Everett Hale the author and Unitarian preacher of Boston, is here, on his way to attend the meeting of the Unitarian Conference of the Middle States and Canada on Tuesday, June 12, at Newville. In an interview Mr. Hale said that the solution of the labor question to a great extent lies in our treatment of the negro. "It is not necessary," said he, "for me to go into an elaborate discussion of this subject; but it seems very plain to me a relief from labor troubles in the southern states. If, instead of importing foreign pauper labor to work in our mills and along our great enterprises of all sorts, we would seek laborers among the thousands of unemployed negroes down south a most beneficial change would be instituted in the United States. In the first place hundreds and thousands of undesirable immigrants would be kept out of the country, which would be greatly benefited thereby, and secondly, employment and wages would be given many of our colored citizens, who, under the present regime, are unable to get work of any kind.

Slang Words and Phrases.

"Dun" is a word now whose meaning is known to every one who understands the English language. About the beginning of the century a constable in England named John Dun became celebrated as a collector of bad accounts. When others would fail to collect a bad debt, Dun would be sure to get it out of the debtor. It soon passed into a current phrase that when a person owed money, and did not pay when asked, he would have to be "Dunned." Hence it soon became common in such cases to say: "You will have to Dun So-and-so if you wish to collect your money." Until the nomination of Franklin Pierce for the Presidency the word "outsider" was unknown. The Committee on Credentials came in to make its report, and could not get into the hall because of the crowd of people who were not members of the convention. The chairman of the convention asked if the committee was ready to report, and the chairman of the committee answered: "Yes, Mr. Chairman; but the committee is unable to get inside on account of the crowd and pressure of outsiders." The newspaper reporters took up the word and used it.

On Friday afternoon, June 29, at 6:30 o'clock the Darlington Guards will give an exhibition drill at the Baseball Park. Admission, 25 cents; children, 10 cents. No extra charge for reserved seats. At the close of the company drill there will be an individual drill. Every one that makes an error will be dropped out until there is only one man left who will be declared the winner.

The efforts of the Republican State Executive committee to have the constitutionality of the registration laws of the State passed upon by the Supreme Court have failed in so far as the coming general election is concerned. The State Supreme Court has granted a motion, made by the State, to postpone the hearing of the mandamus proceedings until the November Term of the Court, and thereby killed all chance of any change in the present condition in regard to the matter of registration.
