ACME HYGIENIC MATTRESS.

FREE
 This mattress depends largely upon air—the most resilient force known to science—for its luxurious comfort in use, having a hollow central air space the length and width of the mattress containing spring action with 48 steel springs interposed into woven wire fabric at top and bottom. Around this is placed the filling, non-absorbent anti-septic pure white cotton felt. The air under pressure in combination with the spring results in a most remarkable elasticity and with the other features make the mattress hygienic, pneumatic, self-ventilating and of downy softness. Better than any other mattress at any price.
 To introduce our Hygienic Mattress we will for a limited time include with every order a fine Brass Trimmed, White Enameled Metal Bed Free. Like our other goods we give you your choice of width—3, 3 1/2, 4 and 4 1/2 feet—and one of our celebrated "Acme" Bed Springs, same as adopted by the U. S. Army after three months of the most rigid tests and containing the 3 great virtues—comfort, durability and cleanliness. Adjusts itself automatically to varying weights. A light and heavy person lying side by side will not roll against each other. Send us One Dollar, state size of mattress and bed wanted and we will ship them promptly. When they arrive at your residence we will refund you the dollar you can have in the goods, and pay the balance—$14.00 and freight charges—only when satisfied that they are exactly as represented. When all cash—$15.00—is sent with order we prefer to ship to you on the spot. Further, we will make shipment with the express understanding that if, in your judgment, the mattress is not worth more than $15.00 and better than any other mattress, no matter how costly, you can have your money back.
 The price of this mattress does not begin to represent its value. The real solid comfort found in its use. Nearly everybody who has used it thus far has reported full $15.00 value received in the first month's use.
 The premium offered in this advertising is what we expect you will obtain from the use of our part of this mattress. It is by no means that the full merits can be appreciated. On request we will send duplicates of personal letters of endorsement from the celebrated Chicago surgeon, Dr. J. B. Murphy; Washington Hostess, late costumer of Chicago; Mr. Joseph Stangel, of Stangel, Cooper & Co. of Chicago; Judge R. W. Clifford of Chicago, and many other well known people, of the merits of this mattress. Ask for booklet "A."

WHEN HERRING SWARM.

How They Are Captured With Torch and Net in Massachusetts Bay.

Never in the history of Massachusetts Bay fisheries has there been recorded a more successful herring season than the present one. Thousands of barrels have been trapped, many have been taken in the gill nets, but the torch and dip net have played great havoc with the shining backed fishes. The taking of fresh herring in the harbor and near the shore this season in such large numbers brought thousands of dollars to the trapper, and because of their cheapness and quick delivery hundreds of vessels have been baited up, sent to the fishing grounds and brought in on quick trips.

The use of the torch for cutting fish to the surface of the water dates away back; the Boston, Swampscott and South Shore fishermen have dipped spurling near Plymouth by the aid of the torch for fifty years, as well as the Eastport sardine fishers. The novelty about this season's business is the dipping of full grown herring at night by the use of the torch. There have been few spawn herring taken in this way, for the fish that once made the waters of Boston Bay appear like a sea of milk by their deposit of spawn and melt have not shown on this coast for years. The herring which struck this coast in such countless numbers this season is an entirely new species.

Among the novel boats engaged in fishing is the petroleum boat Quartette, and when Captain William Dexter extended an invitation to a reporter to make a trip it was accepted, and the craft was churning toward Cohasset at the rate of seven knots an hour. Outside Boston light a heavy swell was met, but the boat kept on until the shore of Cohasset was reached, then the anchor was dropped and the main-sail set to keep her from rolling.

The preparation for torching was simple, as when the dory was hauled up alongside, a pole with a grate attached was lashed across the bow and the grate filled with cotton, over which was poured petroleum. There were four men in the dory—two on the oars, one to dip and a boat steerer. As soon as they got into shallow water the torch was lighted, and while the men on the oars made the dory spin through the water the man in the bow stood ready to dip when the fish came to the surface in response to the light.

Soon there rose to the surface herring in countless numbers, and every time the dip net went down a bushel of the shiny backs was brought into the boat. Thirty dips were made, resulting in a take of ten barrels. Then the dory went alongside the launch and shoveled them on deck. Ten trips were made, and Captain Dexter said he had 100 barrels, which was all he could comfortably carry.

The anchor was hauled up and the boat headed for Boston. It was as novel and pleasant a way of taking fish as the writer ever saw, and when under way the crew sat down to a midnight meal after two hours' hard work. The boat arrived at T wharf at 3.30 a. m., and when the market opened at 7 o'clock part of the catch was sold for bait and the balance to the dealers.—Boston Globe.

Cats Can Swim.

"Can cats swim? was asked of an old fisherman.

"Why, certainly," was the reply, "and that reminds me of a cat I once tried to drown that swam ashore. Surely there must have been hundreds or thousands of people who have drowned cats in the same way, but nevertheless this was an experience of my own. We had a cat that we wanted to get rid of, and as humane a way as any to kill it was by drowning. So I put a couple of bricks in the bottom of an old grain sack, and put in the cat, and tied the bag up carefully and securely and walked down to the end of a wharf and stood there and swung the bag with the cat and the bricks in it round like a sling until I could give it a good momentum and then let it go, and slung it out to fall and sink in the water, I should say twenty feet away.

"I supposed, of course, that that was the last of the cat; but the next morning the first thing I saw when I went out of the house was the cat sitting on the veranda.
 "I suppose the bag had a weak spot in it somewhere, the bricks were heavy and sharp-cornered and swinging the bag round that way started it more, and the cat was desperate, and with the bag that way it scratched and tore its way out and got to the wharf and clawed its way up and came ashore.
 "Can a cat swim? Why, sure!"—New York Sun.

An Ancient Barrel Organ Unearthed.

Barrel organs were formerly quite frequent in English churches, and one has recently been unearthed in a church near Rochester, England. It has six stops and six barrels and is capable of emitting only sixty tunes in all. Among them are such archaic specimens as "Job," "Old 11th." The organ was operated by the sexton.

Buckingham Palace has a scent fountain which on state occasions is fed with eau de cologne.
