

WAGENER DAY AT THE EXPO.

A Williamsburg Visitor Gives His Impressions of the Great Day.

It was the writer's privilege to spend a part of last week in Charleston seeing the sights of the exposition now rapidly drawing to a close. My stay was brief, but I saw a great many marvelous sights, which I cannot refrain from writing a few words about. After going through the exposition and viewing the magnificent buildings and many wonderful things to be seen, the first impression of which one is conscious is a feeling of wonder at the energy, pluck and enterprise put forth by the builders of the towering buildings and fairy palaces which constitute the beautiful "Ivory City".

After taking in the beauties of the gorgeous tout ensemble the next thing to do is to try to examine in detail the panoramic display that one sees before him. Without a guide it is difficult to know where to go first, but the uninitiated usually wends his way to the Court of Palaces. There in the State building the grand resources of our State are attractively displayed, and in each county exhibit is a multum in parvo that excites wonder and admiration. I viewed with great pleasure the Georgetown exhibit of fish and game. Sumter also has a fine display of telephony.

Then there is the Midway. Who that has visited the exposition has failed to be taken by the persuasive spelling of the "barkers" and invested his spare shingles in the Old Mill, Darkness and Dawn, the Battle of Manassas and the Esquimax Village. In the latter it is certainly amusing to an American to watch the quaint actions and dress of these queer little people. Their tiny huts and the numerous relics they have of the cold polar seas, where the days are six months long and the ice never melts. The Battle of Manassas, too, is supposed to be a realistic picture of that great conflict. We must not forget the fact that it was fought in Williams county, Va., and was one of the greatest struggles of the Civil War.

While viewing the scene it was my fortune to be standing near a veteran of this war, who could tell a great deal of unwritten history; albeit he happened not to take part in this particular fight, yet what he related was most interesting to me. I am told that those who were in this battle, on looking at the cyclorama could actually locate the position they occupied while the real fighting was going on.

After awhile I inquired the way to the Philadelphia building, where I spent some time looking at the liberty bell, which I had heard and read so much about. This historic old relic is about five feet high and three feet in diameter at the mouth. It is protected by an enclosure of iron rods and guarded by two stout policemen, so that there is very danger of the bell being stolen.

After leaving the Philadelphia building I was directed to the Auditorium, where Col. F. W. Wagener was delivering a speech to an audience of over 10,000 people. I could not get near enough to hear him, though I could see him very well. So dense was the crowd and so demonstrative the applause that I caught myself wondering if he could hear himself talk. His speech is said to have been great, however. After he got through the audience was entertained further with some admirable music, both vocal and instrumental. After the music the crowd left the building and scattered about over the grounds. I could not remain much longer, as I intended going home on the next train; so I began seeking the friend with whom I had come to the grounds, and from whom, in some way, I became separated. For about two hours I looked for him diligently, but he could not be found. Then I saw that I had but a short time left before train time and made haste to leave the grounds to attend to some business down town before leaving the city. Thus I bade good-bye to the beautiful, fairy like realms of the Ivory City, the walls of whose houses rose as if by enchantment and which by the same rapid process will soon vanish from sight forever.

Help the Orphans.

Good, kind friend:—

Many faces of dear little children look up unto you to-day from this your home for the care of the fatherless.

You are their helper, their benefactor, their earthly all. Without your help what would become of two hundred little brothers and sisters?

You can give but little, perhaps, but think of it: Five dollars will provide for a child, its board for a month, or its schooling for a year! Even a dime will give the child its three meals a day.

Just now we need you.

The time has come when summer wants are multiplying, and even bread is scarce and hard to get.

A little just now from each of a thousand friends would mean a great deal to these children.

It is a joy to know that you will not forget us. You never do. God's blessing is your only reward. And is not that enough? God's blessing and the grateful prayers of all this multitude of orphans.

I hereby certify that I have suffered for years with catarrh in head and inflamed middle ears to the extent that blood came out of my ears and nostrils. I tried several of the best physicians and also several patent medicines, found no cure till I tried Nielsen's Catarrh Cure. It is now three years since I was cured and I have not been troubled since. Am at Second and Princess streets ready to answer any questions.

LIKE A DROWNING MAN.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well known attorney of Nacoga, Tex. "I took quantities of pepsin and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once and after a few bottles am sound and well." Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble.
