She Stocked Up on Prayers. One little girl that I know of is so sleepy when she starts for bed that it is occasionally hard work for her to make up her mind to finish the good night prayer. A few nights ago she dropped her head upon the pillows earlier than usual. She wasn't very sleepy and at once began to dash off a prayer in refreshing style. The first prayer over, along came another one, and still a third. About this time her mother, surprised at the turn proceedings had taken, asked the little one what she meant by so many prayers.

"Why," explained the little girl, "I'm going to say twelve prayers, now I'm awake, and then I can go two weeks without saying one."—Lowell Courier.

Willing to Compromise. The poor but honest young man had bearded the millionaire in his den.

"Sir," he said, "I want to marry your daughter."

"Impossible, sir, impossible!" exclaimed the old man. "Why, I would rather give up every dollar I have than part with my only daughter."

"Oh, very well," calmly rejoined the diplomatic youth. "If that's the way you feel about it, I won't be too heavy on you. Just write me out a check for half a million and we'll let it go at that."—Chicago News.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.

Mr Much Tisdale Dies After a Second Stroke of Paralysis.

Another Confederate Veteran has gone to his final resting place. Mr Much Tisdale died at his home near Boggy Swamp Thursday night and was buried at the family burying ground Friday. He had been in poor health for about one year. Last summer he had a stroke of paralysis from which he did not fully recover, although he was able to go about. On Sunday before his death he had a second stroke from which he never rallied.
