KINGSTREE DRY GOODS COMPANY,

KINGSTREE, S. C.

Local and Personal.

The jury will be drawn tomorrow.

The time for shooting birds expired on March 1.

Col B Wallace Jones was in town Sunday from Lake City.

Court convenes here on Monday, March 25, Judge Klugh presiding.

Mr F C Thomas of Mayesville has accepted a position in Dr Gamble's pharmacy.

Mr and Mrs P S Courtney are visiting friends in Florence county this week.

Mr E E Benton of Scranton has been appointed superintendent of the chaingang.

H D Moise, Esq., of Sumter was here one day last week on professional business.

Our city fathers are having done same much needed work on the streets and side-walks.

Mr Luther M Rhodes of Darlington has accepted a position in the mechanical department of THE RECORD office.

Mr Winslow Wright, Scranton's merchant prince and also president of the Bank of Scranton, was noted in Kingstree Monday.

Mr James H Tisdale of Central, we learn, has been very ill, but is much better and it is hoped that he may soon be restored to health.

Mrs Nita F Jones and Miss Agnes Belmore of Brunswick, Ga., returned home this week after a visit of some days to Mr Louis Jacobs' family.

One of the "coming events that casts its shadow before" is an amateur minstrel performance to be presented by local talent in the near future.

Monday being sales-day one tract of land was offered for sale by Clerk of Court Britton. It contained 80 acres and bid in by DuRant Simmons for $1,300.

THE RECORD wants correspondents at the following postoffices: Cades, Greeleyville, Trie, Gourdin, Leo, Benson, Scranton and any other office where we are not now represented. Write for terms. tf.

Mr B W Butler, the wide-awake manager of the Kingstree Dry Goods Co., returned yesterday from New York and Baltimore, where he has been laying in a splendid line of up-to-date spring goods. Look out next week for the Dry Goods Co's new ad. next week.

Mr W S Camlin, Jr., of Harper was here a short while yesterday. Since his last visit here he has had his leg amputated, but he seems to have withstood well the operation and the trouble that caused it to be necessary. His friends were pleased to see him looking so well.

Dr Albert G Eaddy, a Williamsburg boy who has achieved success Timmonsville as a physician and druggist, came over Monday and spent the day in town. Dr Eaddy had not been here for several years and—like all others—was much impressed with Kingstree's growth.

Hon J Davis Car er of Leo was in town Monday and favored us with a pleasant call. "Davis" tells us that he is living on the fat of the land and he looks it.

Dr C D Jacobs has opened an office on the second floor of Stackley's new building, where he offers his services to the public as a medical practitioner. Dr Jacobs has had about a year's experience in his profession and has already met with quite marked success in his practice.

Magistrate James Bryan seized a box of "jag juice" at Lane Tuesday and confiscated it, as he had a suspicion that it was intended for the "blind tiger" trade. The package was addressed to "Vester Gamble, Lane, S. C.," and apparently contained about 8 or 10 quarts of the stuff.

Mr J S Eron is utilizing a good space this week to convey a business message to our readers and he will continue to tell them things of interest from week to week. Mr Eron has lately got in an elegant line of new and seasonable goods and prospective buyers will find it profitable to visit his establishment.

The legislative delegative met Monday here and the three members of the house named Dr J L Bass as a member of the county board of control, Senator Bass not voting. This gives two members, but so far as we can learn the board of education has not yet named their man, so that the liquor situation is likely to remain in statu quo for some time to come.

Graded School Department.

Among those who visited our school last week was one of our townsmen, Mr. G. Ollie Epps. After speaking some encouraging words to the 10th grade, he presented each member of the grade with a beautiful Bible. We appreciate very much this kindness on the part of Mr. Epps.

Mr Burrie Brockinton, of the ninth grade, who has been quite sick for some time, is back at school.

Miss Hallie McCollough, of the eighth grade, was taken to her home near Taft on account of sickness. We hope she will soon be able to return to school.

The Williamsburg County Teachers association held its regular monthly meeting in our auditorium Saturday morning, at which time an excellent address was delivered by Dr J L Mann, Superintendent of the Florence City schools. Several boys and girls from the upper grades were present.

Notice.

THE HOMEY MAN.

There is a Difference Between Him Here and in England.

"The different use of the same words in England and America," said the returned tourist, "is sometimes amusing, sometimes bewildering, and occasionally, as I have found it, embarrassing. During my sojourn in the British isles I found myself one evening in the quaint old town of Warwick and very much in need of a square meal. Not being familiar with the place, I stepped into a drug store, or chemist's, as they call it, to make inquiries. The proprietor looked me over.

"Well," he said, "if you want hotel fare, go up to the Arms, but if you're looking for a place where a homely man can get his shilling's worth go right across the street, indicating a little restaurant.

"My good looks are not my strongest point, but I don't know that I ever had their absence so forcibly brought home to me—at least by a stranger. I must have regarded my informant with some interest. 'Thank you,' I said, 'and supposing I were a beauty, where would I go?'

"The English aren't overquick to see a point, and it took him at least half a minute to begin to smile. The relaxation of his countenance ended in a laugh.

"Bless you," he said, "I wasn't referring to your face, but to your tastes. I fancied you were a man who wanted plain food, and plenty of it. Homely here means home loving, substantial folks."

"So we arrived at a satisfactory understanding, and later, I am glad to say, I had a satisfactory meal. But on thinking it over afterward it impressed itself upon me that my friend the chemist hadn't explicitly denied the construction that I hastily put upon his adjective."—New York Press.

Got Back at the Plumber.

The Rev. Dr. J. O. Peck, once pastor of Trinity Methodist church, was not only fond of a good horse, but of a good joke, and he could preach a good sermon. One year funds were low in the church treasury, and it devolved to some extent upon the pastor to see that money was raised. A meeting for the discussion of ways and means was called, the doctor being present. The directors suggested that some of the wealthiest members of the congregation be called on and asked for private subscriptions. To this Dr. Peck agreed. A few days later he was met on the street by one of the directors.

"Well, doctor," said he, "how are you getting on money raising?"

"Fine," said Dr. Peck as his eyes twinkled. "I went around to several bankers, merchants and manufacturers, but it was of no use. Then I thought of the church plumber who robbed me last month, so I went around to him and held him up for the full amount."—Boston Herald.

The Rising Tide.

A rather stout lady was enjoying a bath at Scarborough. She kept a tight hold of the bathing machine rope and gave quite a juvenile screamlet as each wave of the incoming tide tried in vain to lift her from her feet. On the sands close by sat a countryman paying his first visit to the seaside. As the tide brought each successive wave nearer to the position he had taken up he cast an indignant glance in the lady's direction. At last an extra big one came splash, and the holiday suit was ruined. Flesh and blood could stand it no longer. Jumping up, he shouted in a voice which completely drowned a nigger minstrel's chorus: "Hi, Fatty! If tha dunnot stop thy blessed boppin tha'll be droonin' folk!"—London Mail.

A MATTER OF BUSINESS.

The Lesson a Vegetable Vender Taught a Dancer Woman.

Only a single cabbage remained of the wagon load of produce with which the huckster had started in. It was a good head, and the keen witted huckster was alive to the chance of selling it, although the hour was late. As he glanced from side to side of the street, seeking a purchaser, says a writer in the New York Sun, he was hailed from a doorway by a housewife's cry:

"What are you selling?"

"Whoa, Bill!" said the vender to his horse, and to the prospective customer he called, "Only one cabbage left, missus!"

"Is it a good one?" she asked from the curb.

"Sure; as good as any ever came from Jersey."

"How much do you want for it?" "It's worth a dime, lady, but I want to sell out, so you can have it for a nickel."

After pulling off some of the leaves to make sure the head was fresh and sound the woman handed the huckster a nickel. The coin was transferred to his pocket, already filled, and the cabbage was placed in the woman's arms.

As she turned to go another woman who had come up during the bargaining said to the merchant:

"Got any cabbage?"

"Yes, ma'am; one head left."

"How much is it?"

"Ten cents."

"Is it a good head?"

"Finest kind of Long Island cabbage."

The woman who had just bought the last head of cabbage was astonished by his calm assertion that he had one left when she knew the bottom of his cart was bare. She waited to see how he would satisfy the second woman.

When the last comer said, "I'll take it," the huckster turned calmly to the owner of the cabbage, took it from her arms and handed it to the new customer. At the same time he took her dime from her fingers.

As the first woman stood with mouth open, too astonished to protest, the second walked away. Then the woman deprived of her cabbage found voice to say indignantly:

"That was my cabbage! How?"

The huckster interrupted her with:

"Yes, ma'am; I know it. Here's the dime I got you for it. You're a nickel in."

"But I didn't want to sell it."

"Didn't want to sell it!" he exclaimed in a sorrowful tone. "Sure you did when you could make a profit like that. Never miss a chance to make money, lady. That's the way to get rich."

"Here's your dime," and as the woman, still dazed, took the dime he said, "Git up, Bill!"

Dyspepsia and General Debility are cured by P. P. P., Lippman's Great Remedy, the superior of all sarsaparillas.

P. P. P. is the greatest tonic for the stomach that was ever known. Indigestion, Bad Dreams, and Biliousness give way rapidly to the powerful tonic and blood cleansing properties of P. P. P.

A prominent Railroad Superintendent living at Savannah, Ga. (in which city he was born), says he feels better than he ever did, and he had the worst case of dyspepsia on record. He had no appetite, and the little he ate disagreed with him, causing him to vomit often; he had pains in the head, breast and stomach; but after using three bottles of P. P. P. he felt like a new man. He says that he feels that he could live forever if he could always get P. P. P.

His name will be given on application to us. Sold by W L Wallace.

Not the Right Kind.

Professed politicians who have reduced public office to an exact science find the independent voter a sad stumbling block, a fact which is amusingly disclosed by a story found in the recent life of the late George Monro Grant, the eminent Canadian educator and clergyman. Toward the end of Sir John Macdonald's life he and Principal Grant, then the head of Queen's college, met at dinner at the house of the premier's brother-in-law, Professor Williamson.

"How I wish," the premier said to the principal, "that you would be a steady friend of mine!"

"My dear Sir John," the principal replied, "I have always supported you when you were right."

The premier's eyes twinkled, and he laid his hand upon the shoulder of the principal.

"My dear man," said he, "I have no use for that species of friendship!"

The Vote Was Secured.

An ex-M. P. who contested a highland constituency some years ago tells the following anecdote:

Once, after a long and fatiguing day's canvass, I tackled a dissenting minister, who was very keen upon the subject of getting the bishops out of the house of lords, and in pursuance of his favorite hobby he asked me:

"Well, sir, what are you prepared to do about the bishops?"

I was irritated and fatigued by my day's work, and I testily muttered, "Oh, hang the bishops!"

The minister bowed and replied: "Well, sir, you go rather beyond me there. I canna undertake to go altogether that length with you, but you shall hae my vote."—Pearson's Weekly.
