== SALE ==

We will sell in any quantity so as to meet the demand of the small as well as the large buyers, but bear in mind, one price to all, and that price will be less than the cost of raw material.

A Card to the Public.

H. D. Reddick has made up his mind to retire from business and make his home in another State, and in order to do so, has placed all his holdings in real estate and his large stock of merchandise in our hands to dispose of; and the public can rely on the greatest bargain feast ever held in Williamsburg county. It is a case of going out of business and moving away.

Entire Stock is to be slaughtered at Panic Prices.

We will sell Entire Stock to any one person, also store house.

No fake, but a case of going out of business.

The goods must be sold, and they will be sold at less than cost of production. Space does not permit us to quote prices, but every article will be sold, cost or loss not considered.

Valuable Real Estate Sacrificed.

We invite your inspection of this great stock of merchandise to be sold at less than cost of production.

This stock will be sold in any quantity to suit purchaser, and it will afford storekeepers all over the country an opportunity to purchase stock cheaper than any jobbing house on earth can furnish the same class of goods.

Every man, woman and child in the County should come to this great sale. A bargain awaits you.

Remember the date. Mark it well: Saturday, June 8, at 9 o'clock; and to continue until every article is sold.

MUTUAL CLEARANCE COMPANY.

We mean what we say: H. D. Reddick is going out of business and his stock MUST BE SOLD.
