Want More Cotton to Gin.

On account of insufficient supply of cotton to keep us running every day, beginning next week, we will confine ourselves to gin days. These being Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week. The ginning public will please govern themselves accordingly.

With the price of seed is somewhat off, yet we are getting more than the present conditions will warrant for all the seed accessible, that we might control the situation here among you. A home corporation doing business at home is in the interest of home.

To those who do not care to sell their seed for cash we are offering a strictly high grade meal in exchange. Our rate of exchange at the mill is 1500 lbs. of meal for one ton of seed. It is a conceded fact cotton seed meal is a cheaper and more effective fertilizer than cotton seed. According to chemical analysis of each 880 pounds of cotton seed meal are equivalent to 2000 pounds of cotton seed, but owing to the superior mechanical condition of meal, it is safe to assume that 800 pounds of meal are the full equivalent to one ton of cotton seed, therefore, whatever excess above 800 pounds of meal the farmer gets in exchange for a ton of seed is so much clear profit to him in comparison with using the ton of seed directly as a fertilizer. You can readily see that by exchanging your seed with us you realize nearly 100 per cent on the transaction.

Bring your seed to us and not make the mistake of getting inferior meal elsewhere in exchange.

Our meal is open for inspection. Samples sent on application.

Yours,

PUSS IN HISTORY.

The Cat Has Been an Important Personage in Many Nations.

Miss Pussy not only boasts an ancient history, but as far back as history goes she has been quite an important personage. The Egyptians revered cats. They had a hospital for sick kittens, and such as died were embalmed and buried with much ceremony. Mourning was also worn by the family to whom the beloved kitten belonged. This mourning was not black cloth, but shaved eyebrows.

Though the Egyptians do not do quite so much in these days, they still think a great deal of cats. They have a high officer called father of cats, and near Cairo is a building where every day a feast is spread, to which are invited all the cats of the city. No doubt you have heard the story of Cambyses coming to fight the Egyptians and taking advantage of their reverence for cats by fastening before every soldier's breast a live cat. Of course the Egyptians dared not hurt these cats, and so they were conquered.

The Chinese are likewise fond of cats, but sad to say for the cats, it is in stew.

In Rome and also in London the owners of cats pay a man a certain sum of money monthly, and every day he walks through the streets uttering a peculiar cry. All cats know him and come from all directions to get their dinner. He is called "the cats' meat man." Cats have always been highly valued in Wales. They are kept about granaries to catch rats. In the old days anybody stealing one of these cats had to give for her a sheep or a lamb. Should the cat chance to be killed she was hung up by the tail until her head touched the floor and wheat poured over her until the tip of her tail was covered. All this wheat the thief had to give to the cat's owner.

The United States government keeps more than 300 cats in the postoffice department to guard the mails from rats and mice. Before these cats were employed valuable letters were often destroyed. These pussies are well fed, $40 a year being allowed for each cat's meat.

The Japanese frighten away their mice and rats with china cats. These are made so lifelike that when a candle is placed inside the figures the mice imagine them to be real cats and run for their lives.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The End of the Earth.

The ancient Persians believed in the renovation of the earth. A comet in the course of its revolutions will strike the earth and set it on fire. Rivers of molten metals will float down the mountains and deluge the valleys. All men must pass through these streams. The good will find them like baths of milk. The evil will find them like torrents of lava, but they will be purified thereby and finally will join the good upon the new earth and sing praises to the eternal source of all. This belief was held also among the American Indians and the Hindoos. The Egyptians believed the earth would be destroyed by fire and water. The Chaldeans said that when all the planets met in the sign of Capricorn the earth would be overwhelmed with a deluge of water, and whenever they all met in Cancer it would be consumed by fire.

No Distinguishing Marks.

"Were there any marks about him by which he could be described?" asked the detective.

"Yes," eagerly replied the father of the runaway boy, "his trousers were nearly worn through at the knees, and he had in one of his pockets, as I heard my wife say a day or two ago, a knife with a broken blade, a pistol cartridge that had been fired off, a match, some of the wheels of an old watch, a leather shoestring, a broken key, a bunch of twine, two or three white pebbles, a piece of lead, some buttons from the last bicycle show, a stump of a lead pencil and a bit of red chalk."

And the detective wrote in his memorandum book, "No distinguishing marks."

How the Lantern Was Invented.

King Alfred the Great is credited with originating the lantern. He was so bothered by the candle flames blowing in the wind that he protected them by putting the candles in cow horns, which he ordered to be scraped thin. Our grandfathers made lanterns by punching holes and slits in properly shaped pieces of tin, which were then soldered together. The light which came through the little cuts was always very dim and flickering. It was this kind of lantern which the old town watchmen used to carry when they went about calling the hours and the weather in rhyme:

"Tis one o' the clock; midnight is past.
Sleep on, good friends, the time thou hast.
For rise ye must at early dawn.
Tis one o' the clock and Tuesday morn."

Farmers' Union Notice.

To all the members of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of South Carolina:

In accordance with the letter and call of national president, C. S. Barrett, and national secretary-treasurer, R. H. McCullough, president and secretary of National Union, respectively, a State Union will meet in the City of Columbia, at the city hall, at eleven o'clock a. m. on the twenty-second day of January, 1908. The basis of the representation in that convention will be one delegate from each county union at large, or one from each local union in the counties in which there is no county union, and one delegate for each one hundred members or majority fraction thereof in each county.

The business to be transacted before this convention will be to organize a State Union and adopt a constitution and such other business as shall properly come before this meeting or convention.

All local and county secretaries will present this call to his local or county meeting as early as possible, and notify all members and call a meeting in time to have delegates at a county meeting not later than on Saturday, January 18, at the court house in their respective counties, by eleven o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the State Union, or elect delegates at any regular county meeting prior to this date.

The dues are the same as heretofore and must be paid in order to entitle delegates to seats in the county and State conventions. The secretaries will please forward the dues as early as possible, so as to facilitate the work in my office and to secure the quarterly password. No delegate without the password can be seated.

All organizers who have been at work will continue, and any others desiring to organize will be duly commissioned. Any collection of individuals who desire to form a local will be duly commissioned.

B. F. EARLE,
Agent for the National Union
in South Carolina.

It is very important and in fact it is absolutely necessary to health that we give relief to the stomach promptly at the first signs of trouble—which are belching of gas, nausea, sour stomach, headache, irritability and nervousness. These are warnings that the stomach has been mistreated; it is doing too much work and it is demanding help from you. Take something once in a while; especially after meals; something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It will enable your stomach to do its work properly. Sold by W. L. Wallace, M. D.

Davis-Chandler.

On Tuesday evening, at 4 o'clock p. m., December 24, 1907, there was a beautiful church marriage at Muddy Creek church, Williamsburg county, S. C. The contracting parties were Mr. George F. Chandler, a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Chandler of Rome, and Miss Lelia Davis, the pretty and highly accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Davis, all of Williamsburg county. Rev. J. O. Carraway of Sampit was the officiating minister.
