LOCAL ITEMS.

Attention is called to new ad of Farmers and Merchants Bank of Lake City this week.

Dr. Clifton, the eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, will be here all this week, including Saturday, at Dr. Brockington's drug store. Read his announcement in this issue.

There will be a hot supper at Mr. S. S. Mitchum's residence, near Central church, on Friday evening, December 17, for the benefit of the Presbyterian church. Public cordially invited.

Between now and the new year the harvest of gun-shot accidents and destructive fires will be gathered daily. Too much precaution cannot be exercised to avert both these sources of disaster.

Superintendent of Education McCullough has our thanks for a nice mess of pork sausages. "Graham" is too modest to want to see this in print, but we enjoyed his gift so much that we cannot refrain from making mention of it.

The Kingstree Hardware Co's page areoplane Xmas ad, in a striking and effective manner, calls attention to the big line of Christmas goods they are now displaying. Their store is replete with pretty and useful articles suitable for Xmas gifts. Don't fail to visit this store before making your holiday purchases.

To keep pace with his expanding business Dr. M. L. Allen has put in a set of oak finish show-case counters, which add much to the attractive appearance of his establishment. Dr. Allen has secured the agency for Huyler's candies and has a handsome display of all kinds of these famous confections in fancy boxes for Xmas. See ad.

Trains No 78 and 79, between Charleston and Fayetteville—the "Shoo-fly," as it is popularly called—which was taken of some weeks ago and replaced by the Palmetto Limited, was put back on last Monday, much to the rejoicing of the local traveling public, who were thoroughly disgusted with the train schedule by which the once "shoo-fly" was operated.

Our Harpers correspondent kind of missed connection or that "Thanksgiving" "morn-prancer" of "possum and taters." Maybe he will get his ducks in a row in time for Christmas. In case the marvellous quadruped is a little inclined to be shy by reason of the lateness of the persimmon crop, the potatoes don't look at all bad by themselves, especially if they be of the size and quality of the ones sent us last year.

The hearing in the Rutledge county appeal case has been postponed, we understand, until about December 20. The proponents of the election will be represented before the supreme court by their counsel, Messrs Lee & Askins and Mendel L. Smith from Williamsburg, and J. Harry Lesesne, Esq. from Clarendon. With this array of counsel those who oppose the upsetting of the election feel that their rights will be amply protected in this hearing before the final arbiter of a very vexed question.
