

DEATH OF A GOOD WOMAN.

Mrs Janie Meadors Passed Away After Brief Illness.

Mrs Janie Meadors, wife of Rev W P Meadors, of the South Carolina Conference and presiding elder of the Kingstree district, died rather suddenly last Saturday morning at 3:45 o'clock at the district parsonage, in Kingstree. Mrs Meadors had been practically an invalid for some time, but her death came as a surprise to her many friends, her last illness being of short duration.

The body was taken to Ninety Six Sunday afternoon and interment followed Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock in Rehoboth church-yard. The funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev W A Fairy, assisted by Revs John O Willson, D D., and J W Kilgo of Greenwood and J A Cook of Ninety Six, and her body was laid to rest in the presence of a large number of sympathizing relatives and friends.

Mrs Meadors was born and reared in Greenwood county, near the town of Ninety Six and in young womanhood was married to the Rev W P Meadors. She was educated at Williamston Female College (now Lander College) during the presidency of the late Rev Samuel A Lander, D D. Mrs Meadors was a cultured and charming woman of strong personality and her friends through the State were numerous. She was admired and loved for her amiable disposition and her unassuming manner. As the wife of an itinerant minister she was faithful and true, always proving an inspiration and help to her husband. She was a most devoted wife and mother, and a sweet and gentle Christian woman. She leaves a husband, two brothers and seven children. The sympathy of the community goes out to the family in their bereavement.

GREAT DAY FOR WILLIAMSBURG

All Roads Lead to Kingstree Memorial Day.

The people of Kingstree generally and especially the Daughters of the Confederacy and the old veterans throughout the county are looking forward to May 10 with liveliest anticipation for a momentous occasion. The U D C chapter has invited as orator of the day Col James Armstrong, the genial Irishman, the flavor of whose wit improves with age, if age can be associated with one who long ago discovered the fountain of immortal youth. In all South Carolina there could not have been made a more fitting selection for this occasion than Col Armstrong and the ladies request us to be sure to make the announcement that the knightly Colonel has accepted their invitation and will surely grace the occasion with his genial presence, barring unforeseen obstacles. Then the veterans and their guests will be regaled with excellent music played by Metz's band, Charleston's famous musical aggregation, and the unveiling exercises of course will be interesting and appropriate.

Let every veteran and all who want to honor the soldiers of the Confederacy, living and dead, get ready to come to Kingstree on Memorial day, May 10.

THE SAGE OF POSSUM FORK

Impressed With Kingstree's Growth.

Editor County Record:—I had the pleasure of speaking an hour or two in your growing town last Monday and was much pleased, not only to meet several old friends, but to note the many happy improvements on every hand. I visited your steel bridge for the first time and can safely predict "no more trouble or misgivings" about crossing your river for generations to come, unless your town refuses to stop her improvements and continues growing a young city, requiring double tracks. I see your energetic artesian well-borer, Mr Stone, is patiently driving for more water, while the pulsations the hydraulic ram in another yard is heard pegging away, day and night, elevating water in a tower-tank near by.

And I hear that a large new brick church, in imitation of grey marble, is to take the place of the Methodist church on North Academy street, and to have elevated back seats, so as to enable all to see above the five-foot periphery of the Easter paraphernalia that adorns the brows of the fair-sex. I know such a happy condition will enliven and encourage the congregation to a full attendance. The thought is a good one, and I hereby notify our building committee and all hands, that we insist on a similar arrangement in the floor and seats of our new church to be built near Muddy Creek bridge, just across from POSSUM FORK. Johnsonville, April 17.
